BUILDING BURNS—Firemen are shown fighting a blaze at Whiteman AFB which destroyed the base Auto Hobby Shop, 18 cars and injured two airmen, Saturday afternoon. No estimate of damage was available. Off-duty firemen from Whiteman rushed to the assistance of those men on duty, and fire trucks from Sedalia, Warrensburg and Knob Noster were all called for stand-by duty in case the fire got out of control.

Large Crowds Celebrate Downfall Of South Viet Nam's Government

Buddhist Monks Freed; Constitution Suspended

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Jubilant crowds celebrated the downfall of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu Saturday.

Victorious military leaders freed Buddhist monks from jail and set up a Buddhist-led provisional regime, suspending the constitution and dissolving the National Assembly.

They declared the president, 62, and his adviser-brother, 52, committed suicide. The junta of 16 generals said the brothers shot themselves upon being captured after once slipping through troops surrounding their shell-pocked palace.

There was a rumor that the two were shot resisting arrest, another that they had in fact escaped. But it appeared likely that the two brothers — Roman Catholics who guided this largely Buddhist nation for the last nine years — were indeed dead.

While Vietnamese crowds exulted in the streets, Gen. Doung Van Minh and his revolutionary junta named Nguyen Ngoc Tho, 55, a Buddhist, as premier for a provisional civil government. He was vice president under Ngo Dinh Diem but had little power.

Diplomatic sources said they believed the United States will recognize the new government as soon as it is officially formed.

Whether Tho becomes a real administrator or a figurehead under military control, U.S. officials expected South Viet Nam to drop preoccupation with its political-religious crisis and step up the American-backed war against Communist guerrillas.

Censorship imposed in Saigon at the outset of the uprising Friday was eased. Censors permitted transmission of a backlog of news stories, some long delayed.

Detachments of the army, marines and air force headed by the junta battled down resistance of palace guard and elite special forces in an 18-hour fight that ended shortly before dawn. A cease-fire was called.

The generals told newsmen the brothers slipped out of their hands during the cease-fire, apparently boarding a departing truck while casualties were being hauled from the blasted grounds of the palace.

The brothers sought refuge at a church in a Chinese quarter of suburban Cholon. Though the Roman Catholic Church condemns suicide, Radio Saigon said the two took their own lives after being arrested.

Indicating they had been free several hours, the junta said they killed themselves at 10:45 a.m.

Accident Is Fatal; 8th For County

Woman Dies Of Injuries In A One-Car Wreck

Pettis County recorded its eighth traffic fatality of the year Friday evening when Mrs. Katherine M. Jagels, about 73, of Route 3, Cole Camp, died following a one-car accident south of Sedalia on Route C at 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jagels was a passenger in a southbound auto, driven by her son, Herbert H. Jagels, 44, also of Route 3, Cole Camp. He received a bruised left shoulder and a laceration on the back of the head, but after treatment by Dr. Gordon Stauffacher he was released from Bothwell Hospital.

Mrs. Jagels and her son were brought to the hospital from the accident scene by a Ewing ambulance. She died about 6:35 p.m. from head and chest injuries.

Highway Patrol Trooper Richard Joos, who investigated the fatal mishap, said Jagels' auto left the roadway on the south side, went over approximately a 15-foot embankment and rolled over on its top astraddle a fence.

The 1958 Chevrolet sedan left the road at a point 4.3 miles south of Highway 50 on Route C near the Flat Creek bottom. The accident occurred in the vicinity of the home of Pettis Count Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and he was called to the scene to assist in the investigation.

The wrecked auto was towed in by Bacon's Service Station wrecker.

Mrs. Jagels and her son had been to Sedalia shopping and were returning to their home when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Jagels was born, Sept. 20, 1891, in Cole Camp, daughter of the late Peter and Meta Stelling Eckhoff. She was married

Chester O'Bannon

O'Bannon Will Be Soloist

Chester T. O'Bannon, a "home town boy" on his way up in the musical world, will be soloist at the first Sedalia Symphony Orchestra concert, Tuesday, Nov. 12, at Smith-Cotton Auditorium.

The professional experience amassed by O'Bannon since his graduation from Smith-Cotton High School in 1954 is impressive and lengthy. While attending the University of Kansas City where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1958, he sang principal roles in "Otello," "Don Giovanni," "La Boheme," and "Der Rosenhavalier." In 1963 he received his Master of Music degree at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., and now has 30 credit hours toward his Doctor of Musical Arts at the University of Kansas City, where he is Director of Glee Clubs. He also is currently director of music and youth education at the First Lutheran Church of Kansas City.

O'Bannon, an illustrious bass-baritone alumnus of the Sedalia Mens Choral Club, sang four seasons (forty different musical comedy production) with such well-known artists as Howard Keele, Dorothy Collins, Frankie Laine, Tony Bennett, and Jeannette MacDonald, as well as doing professional work with the Starlight Theatre of Kansas City.

For four years he was bass-baritone soloist with the United States Army Chorus, stationed in Washington, D.C., singing for affairs of State, high-level government functions, and visiting dignitaries. Command performances for both Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy were included, and three appearances in Carnegie Hall, New York. He has appeared on numerous nationwide television shows, including such programs as "Dave Garraway's Today" show, "Steve Allen Show," "The Big Picture," and the 1962 Veteran Day Ceremony with President Kennedy from Arlington Cemetery. Other opera roles chalked up thus far in his career have been in the 1963 Lyric Opera Season, in "Tosca," "Otello," and "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

O'Bannon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. O'Bannon, 1718 South Summit, and now resides at Shawnee Mission, Kan., with his wife Jo Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Brown, Route 3, and two-year-old daughter, Amanda Jo. His Sedalia voice teacher was Mrs. A. R. Beach, still one of his most enthusiastic supporters.

Seek To Limit Program Of Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate foes of foreign aid, facing a tough task in cutting the authorization below $3.8 billion, turn next to an effort to terminate the present program in 1965.

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., a long-time critic of the present system, said Saturday he will join in the fight for an amendment to wind up the current program June 30, 1965.

This amendment also would limit assistance after that date to no more than 50 countries meeting what Ellender called "very strict criteria." More than 100 countries now receive aid.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., will call up such an amendment sometine next week after the Senate resumes debate Monday on a compromise $3.8-billion authorization bill backed by Democratic and Republican leaders.

The bill cleared its first major hurdle Friday when the Senate voted 46-29 to reject a Morse motion to send it back to the Foreign Relations Committee with instructions to take a second look and return it no later than Nov. 8.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the Senate Republican leader, sponsoring the compromise measure with Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, interpreted that vote as an indication the Senate finally will approve a figure pretty close to the $3.8 billion.

How long it will take to reach a final vote, however, neither Mansfield nor Dirksen would predict.

Morse and a group in revolt against the program have now piled up more than 50 amendments on which they will seek separate votes.

Postmaster Of Stover Found Dead

Jacob E. Fry, 55, postmaster of Stover, was found dead at the rear of the post office there about 8:30 a.m. Saturday. Death was due to a gun shot wound and indications were that it was self-inflicted.

According to Morgan County coroner Jimmy Scrivner, Versailles, Fry left his home about 7 a.m. and went to the home of his elderly mother, Mrs. Beulah Fry, as was his custom. Scrivner said Fry left his mother's home and went to the post office and about 7:15 a.m. he was seen to come out of the front door of the post office and walk between it and the Stover Clinic to the rear. Shortly after this a shot was heard, Scrivner said, but it was disregarded as Fry had been known to shoot birds.

About 7:30 a.m., Fry's daughter, Mrs. Darlene Huffman came to work and found the post office unlocked but no one was around. It was reported that she thought something might be wrong at that time.

About 8:30 a.m., a substitute postal clerk came to work and discovered Fry's body at the rear of the post office, Scrivner said.

Upon Scrivner's arrival after notification of the incident, Fry had a .38 cal. snub-nosed revolver in his right hand. Scrivner notified Morgan County sheriff J. T. Hull who, with Deputy Bill Arnold and Trooper Harold Hall, of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, and Scrivner, started an investigation.

Scrivner reported that Fry had been depressed and recently had been under a doctor's care.

Fry was born, Oct. 28, 1908, in Stover, son of the late Edward Jacob Fry and Mrs. Beulah Fry. He spent all his life in the Stover community. He was married to Noma Rehner, Oct. 16, 1929. She survives.

Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Beulah Fry, Stover; two daughters, Mrs. Darlene Huffman, Stover; and Mrs. Nevelle Raines, Shawnee Mission, Kan.; two sons, Eddie Fry, Paola, Kan.; and Kerry Fry, of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Viola Irwin, Independence; and Mrs. Millie Holtzen, Brentwood, Ark.; a brother, Charles Fry, Iuka, Kan.; and seven grandchildren.

He was a veteran of World War II and a member of the American Legion Post 343 in Stover. He was an active member of the Stover Baptist Church.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Stover Baptist Church with the Rev. Eugene Edwards officiating.

Burial will be in the Stover Cemetery.

The body will lie in state after 12 noon Sunday at the Scrivner-Stevinson Funeral Home.

Cease-Fire Ends

Morocco, Algeria Resume Fighting

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Morocco dispatched troops to its eastern frontier with Algeria Saturday as both sides riddled the Bamako cease-fire agreement with artillery and machine-gun fire.

Each side accused the other of violating the midnight cease-fire only minutes after it went into effect. Artillery duels shattered the short calm in the three-week conflict in an area straddling the frontier with the Moroccan town of Figuig on the north end and the Algerian town of Beni Ounif on the south end.

Morocco's dispatch of troops to the eastern frontier switched attention from the vast Sahara area south of the Atlas Mountains. While the Sahara is an unmarked wasteland, the mountainous eastern frontier is well defined by the remnants of an electrified fence and mine field barrier set up by France during the Algerian war.

The new fighting was near the south end of the line where the north-south frontier cuts southwest. Algerian authorities said 105mm Moroccan shells ripped into Beni Ounif 23 minutes after midnight and kept coming for 20 minutes. Civilians had been evacuated after shelling Friday.

The Algerians said another barrage started at 5 a.m. and Algerian artillery was ordered to reply at 7 a.m. Fighting was still going on in the late afternoon, officials said.

The Algerian reports mentioned the Moroccan firing on Beni Ounif, and did not say they were firing on Figuig as Morocco charged. The Moroccans were equally silent on the shelling of Beni Ounif.

18 Cars, Building Destroyed

Two airmen were injured, not seriously, and 18 cars were destroyed as fire leveled the Whiteman AFB Auto Hobby Shop about 1:41 p. m. Saturday.

According to base officials, injured were A-2c John Smalley, a firefighter, who received second degree burns of the right shoulder and A-2c Robert J. Bosar, who assisted in fighting the fire, received minor burns to his hand.

Base sources said that the fire, of undetermined origin, began in the southern end of the building and was extinguished with a part of the northern end left standing. All of the vehicles in the shop at the time of the fire were privately owned, and those in the northern portion of the shop were also damaged by fire, heat and water.

Officials indicated there were several small explosions from paint and gasoline containers, but none of the blasts was of a major nature. Fire trucks from Sedalia, Warrensburg and Knob Noster were called to the base on a standby basis in case the fire got out of hand, but none of the units was called on to assist in fighting the fire, which was put out by the Whiteman AFB firefighters.

Lt. Bruce Chalfant, of the base information office, indicated that an investigation into the cause of the fire would be held.

Of the 18 cars in the shop, none were saved. Some of the vehicles, base officials indicated, contained the possessions of their owners, but the total extent of the damage could not be determined until the investigation was completed. The building itself was a total loss.

7-Month-Old Girl Dies In Accident

WAYNESVILLE, Mo. (AP)—A 7-month-old girl was killed Saturday when a car driven by her mother, Mrs. Winfred Keeling, 26, collided with another on the U.S. 66 city route at St. Roberts.

Also in the car was the husband and father, Michael.

Mrs. Keeling was in serious condition.

Five persons in the other car, driven by Alex Shovestull, 53, Dixon, Mo., were treated for injuries at a hospital here. Besides the driver they were his wife, Lenora; Mrs. Enid Germind, 50; Harold Montgomery, 10, and Sarah Montgomery, 9.

Libel Suit Against 'Star' Is Dismissed

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A $525,000 libel suit against the Kansas City Star by Milton M. Thomson, a private detective, has been dismissed by Circuit Judge Henry A. Riederer.

Thomson alleged there were libelous statements in a story about the 1960 election in Johnson County, Kansas, where Thomson was a Democratic candidate for sheriff. The judge upheld a Star's motion that the plaintiff's petition was not actionable.

Burglaries Investigated By Police

Sedalia police were investigating two major burglaries late Friday night, one to a residence and the other to an East Main Street business.

Ernest Holst, 1014 East 10th, told police at 7 p. m. that when he and Mrs. Holst returned home from the grocery store they surprised a burglar who fled through the rear door of their home.

Investigation revealed the house had been entered by prying the stripping from the back door of the house and then forcing the door open.

Missing, Holst told police, is several hundred dollars in money. Police described the loss as old coins and collector's item currency.

Largest loss was counted at the Radio and Television Supply Co., 321 East Main, where an estimated $2,000 in merchandise was taken, according to reports. Items missing included portable television sets, tape recorders and transistor radios.

Police said Joseph Allen, a proprietor of the firm, had been called to the business place about 9:30 p. m. by a customer and the loss was discovered at that time.

For Retarded Children

Tremendous Growth In State Program

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's training program for mentally retarded children has grown tremendously since the Legislature authorized it in 1957.

The first school was established five years ago with an enrollment of 27 pupils. By the end of 1959, there were 10 small centers providing a training program for 178 youngsters whose mental retardation was such that they could not be given even a basic education.

The appropriation for that biennium was $100,000.

Today there are 47 training centers and 4,093 pupils in the special schools. Approximately 90 per cent of the state has a training center available. The current biennial appropriation is $2,300,000.

The State Board of Education, which administers the program, has this stated goal:

"Every trainable mentally retarded child shall be offered an opportunity to accomplish to the fullest extent of his abilities the skills that will help him in his everyday living so that he may make the most successful adjustment to his home and community."

The centers range from the one-teacher facilities with the minimum number of eight pupils to the largest, in St. Louis, with 155 children and 17 teachers.

The size of the center is based on the area in which the children can be transported five days a week, not on school district or municipal lines.

The importance and growth of the program was pointed up

New England Has Bulk Of Clammy Weather In U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — New England had the bulk of the nation's clammy weather Saturday. There was snow, fog, rain and cold in the upper Atlantic Coast and Appalachians region.

In most other places, there was pleasant fall weather, although cloudy.

There were a few sprinkles along the Pacific Coast. Some light showers and snow flurries spread out south of the Great Lakes.

The great fall drought, dampened by a moderate sweep of rains in the last three days, almost ceased to be a concern. However, conditions remained essentially lacking in moisture over much of the drought region. This section included much of the nation's eastern half.

Snow fell in northern New England at an increasing rate. Elsewhere, it rained or periodic showers and thundershowers wet down southern New England.

Temperatures in New England's snowy sections remained in the 30s and fogginess persisted over much of that region. The 30s also predominated in the northern Great Lakes area.

In the Gulf states, the afternoon brought readings in the 60s, and there were 70s in Florida and the Southwest. Much of the country's weather ran to the 40s and 50s.

Shot Ends Pursuit Of Three Men

CAMDENTON, Mo. (AP)—A sheriff's pursuit of three men in an automobile ended Friday night with the shooting of one of them in the shoulder.

Melvin Charles, 38, of Raytown was taken to St. John's Hospital in Springfield for treatment of the wound.

Sheriff Russell Osborne of Camden County said Lloyd Charles, also of Raytown and brother of Melvin, and Calvin R. Smith, of Kansas City were held in the county jail in Camdenton.

The sheriff related that he observed a car weaving on a road north of Camdenton and while following it saw it force a motorist off the road. He said the driver refused to stop and soon caused another car to leave the road.

The sheriff said he fired one shot at the car and that it stopped after going several more miles. Three men got out of the vehicle and attacked him as he tried to arrest them, he said. He said he wounded Melvin Charles while struggling to put him in his car about 12 miles north of Camdenton.

The sheriff said the three men had been drinking and that he found a wine jug and beer in their car.

He said Calvin Smith would be held for careless and reckless driving and the others for drunkenness, peace disturbance and resisting arrest.

United Fund Campaign Is Extended

Sedalia Pettis County United Community Fund campaign officials have reluctantly extended the drive for two more weeks. In announcing the extension of the drive, UFC president, J. S. Simon, said "With our total now standing at approximately a third of the goal, a good strong effort in the next two weeks just may put us within striking distance of the goal."

Continuing, he said, "Our total is running slightly ahead of last year's and this is an optimistic sign."

The grand total stood at $27,300.79 Friday night, but Simon said less than a third of the businesses and industry have been solicited. He urged volunteer workers to follow up on their calls and made an urgent appeal for volunteer workers to contact the division chairmen or call or visit the United Fund office room 304, in the Gordon Building.

This past week saw the total tabulation swelled to its present mark by several sizeable contributions and 100 per cent contributors.

Eight more business organizations joined the select 100 per cent club this week. Included in this category were State Fair Floral Co., Burton's Ready to Wear, the Prudential Insurance Company of America and its employees, the Hartford Fire Insurance Group, Haller's Office Equipment Co., Bryant Motors, Inc., and the Wahrenbrock Implement Company and its employees.

Man's Body Is Found In Ruins Of Home Destroyed By Fire

MARIONVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Officers found the body of a man in the ruins of a farmhouse destroyed Saturday by fire.

Sheriff's officers identified him as George Webster Gregg, 37, of Marionville.

The fire destroyed the home of Gene Starbuck north of Marionville. Starbuck, 50, was found, burned and dazed, walking near his place.

Starbuck mumbled that someone was in the burning house. That set off a search that brought discovery of the body.

Mrs. Gregg told authorities she left her husband at the Starbuck place Friday night.

The Weather

Generally fair and warmer Sunday; highs in low to mid-60s; increasing cloudiness and warmer Sunday night; lows in the 40s; considerable cloudiness with scattered showers Monday.

WINGS OF THE NATION—Despite the inroads of housing developments, shopping centers and highways, there are more than 8,000 airports in the 50 states today. Of these nearly 5,000 are privately owned. A total of 95,831 airplanes are based at these fields, the vast majority being small private craft. (Top figure in boxes above shows the number of airports in each state; bottom figure, the number of airplanes.) Totals on Newsmap do not include 22 American-controlled airports and 114 airplanes outside the U.S.—Puerto Rico, 13 airports and 102 planes; Virgin Islands, 3 and 8; South Pacific, 6 and 4. Grim Posters In Venezuela Campaign

By PAUL FINCH

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Grim posters showing the results of terrorism are a key to the presidential election campaign now going on in Venezuela. One shows a shoeshine boy whose legs were blown off by a terrorist bomb.

These are posters put up by President Romulo Betancourt's Democratic Action party. Its candidate for the Dec. 1 election is Raul Leoni, 58, a labor attorney who helped Betancourt found the party. Betancourt is ineligible for re-election.

The background is years of bombings, shootings and sabotage blamed officially on followers of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. The Betancourt government says the leftist terrorism aims to drive it from power.

At this stage, Leoni seems headed for victory unless enough voters believe his party somehow is responsible for the violence or has failed because of ineptitude to halt it.

Six candidates oppose Leoni. Of these only Rafael Calera, whose Social Christians have been part of the government coalition for nearly five years, blames Communists for terrorism.

Leoni defends Betancourt's struggle with terrorism and accuses the Communists and MIR of aiming to overthrow democracy and establish a Cuban-type regime in Venezuela.

Leoni argues that Communists were trying to overthrow the government long before Betancourt's 1962 decree banning Communists and the MIR from posting election candidates.

ROTARY SPEAKER — Maj. Gen. Joseph J. Preston, commander of the Missile Division at Whiteman AFB, will be the featured speaker at Rotary Monday noon at Bothwell Hotel. Gen. Preston will show slides and talk on the subject, "Whiteman Air Force Base Today." Don Loseke is program chairman for November.

President Illia seeks to modernize methods and increase meat and grain production so that greater income from exports will permit the country to import goods it needs from abroad.

The chief complaint which officials make about industry is that it is not geared in many respects to the country's needs.

A top economic planner summed up: "In a country like Argentina, it's stupid to have 14 different factories producing automobiles."

Things like that do not worry the workers, at least directly. They're thinking about jobs, rising prices, and the fact that while they can vote as individuals they cannot put up their own candidates.

Argentines in the white collar jobs and better, earn far above the workers' level, and at the top of the economic pyramid thousands of people are immensely wealthy.

Man In Madrid Big Worry To People In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentine (AP)—It isn't the man in Moscow they worry about here. It's the man in Madrid.

The armed forces sent Juan D. Peron into exile eight years ago, but he still commands a powerful and sometimes fanatical following.

From President Arturo Illlia down, everyone says communism presents no threat in this country. Peronism is another matter. Peronism is the result of an uncompleted revolution in Argentina, and until some way is found to reintegrate the millions of Peronists into the political system there will be trouble.

Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Zavala Ortiz says social and economic reforms will solve the Peronist problem. Illia also plans to propose political reforms that may help.

But essentiallly Peronism is a dream that has caught up the hopes for a better life of possibly one-fifth of the 21 million people in Argentina.

The secret of Peron's strength lay in the 6-million-man labor force and it is here that the main force of Peronism is still felt.

The reason is that when Peron began building political power late in World War II he gave the workers a voice for the first time. Peron was elected president in 1946 and again in 1951, and in his early years he built schools, roads, and hospitals and promoted industrialization and full employment. He preached social justice for the descamisados or "shirtless ones" and that gave rise to the movement which is his legacy.

His followers do not remember the violence and repressions of his later years or how he grew wealthy. They remember his social justice doctrine and his magnetic personality.

Those who remember the evil and oppression are the military and the anti-Peronist politicians of a decade ago. Many of the political crises and military coups since 1955 have arisen from tension between those who prospered and those who suffered under Peron's rule.

The Peronists are unable to function effectively as a national party but have formidable strength. Illia was elected with only 27 per cent of the popular vote. Political leaders estimate the Peronists could have amassed 30 per cent or more if they had been able to put up a candidate.

Argentina is suffering from unemployment and slowly spiraling inflation. Many workers are caught in the squeeze. The government is operating at a deficit. Tax collections, by U.S. standards, are unsatisfactory. More schools and roads are needed and the housing shortage is critical.

Agriculture is prosperous and

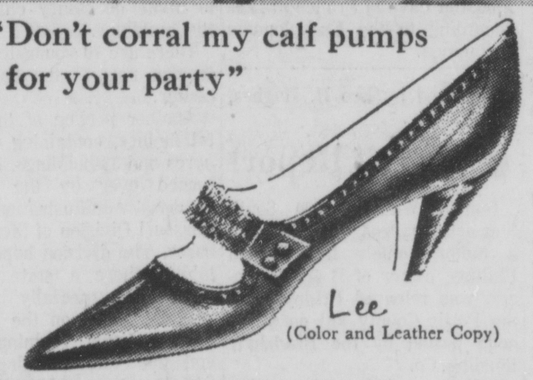
"Don't corral my calf pumps for your party"



(Color and Leather Copy)

Can't blame the daughters for envying their mother's shoes. Vitality is bravado outside, bravery inside. Like these pumps with calf uppers. Pettable, pampering. Slimmed to sleekness. Finished with finite details. But beneath this brazen beauty is a stalwart arch, the courage of a cushioned sole.

VITALITY!

The sensible shoe too smart to show it.

Mrs. Nhu Blames US For Military Coup

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu blamed the United States Saturday for the military coup which deposed her ruling family in South Viet Nam — and for anything that may have happened to her husband and three younger children.

Her voice choked with sobs, as she told a news conference she had not been able to learn positively the fate of her husband and his brother, Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem who reportedly committed suicide after being captured in a military upheaval.

Nor does she know what has happened, she said, to her three younger children, ages 15, 11 and 4, who she believes were in a palace bombarded during the uprising.

But, she said, the United States must take responsibility.

Wholesale Grocery Firm Closes Doors

One of the oldest wholesale grocery firms in the midwest is discontinuing business on about Dec. 1. It is the S. H. Beiler Grocery Company, which was first organized in Sedalia in 1867 under the name of Hall and Beiler and in 1889 the firm was incorporated under the name of S. H. Beiler Grocery Company.

With changes of conditions in the wholesale grocery business, the firm discontinued first its operations in Sedalia but maintained its business at Lexington.

The company is now liquidating its stock there preparatory to closing on or about Dec. 1.

When first organized in 1867 and then incorporated in 1869, S. H. Beiler became the grocery company president. He held that position until his death in 1902. He was succeeded by E. B. Farley, a resident of Lexington at that time. Farley moved to Sedalia a short time later and lived at 700 West Sixth Street until his death in 1943.

The branch store at Lexington was established in 1915 under the management of the late I. G. Neale who at that time had one employee. The business was in a building directly across the street from the present structure in Lexington which was purchased in 1920. Upon the death of Mr. Neale in 1926, his son Irwin Neale, who was then employed in the firm's operation in Sedalia, was transferred to Lexington to take over the management and part ownership and has since then continued in that capacity.

Between 1937 and 1939 the Beiler operation was discontinued in Sedalia, but with the construction of the Missouri River bridge at Lexington, the business territory was expanded to the north and it grew into an 11 employee operation there with an annual payroll exceeding $40,000.

Upon the death of Mr. Farley in 1943, his daughter, Mrs. A. F. Allen, of Albany, N.Y., was elected president and served until 1956. Due to illness she resigned and her brother-in-law J. B. Emmert, of Kent, Conn., whose wife was also a daughter of Mr. Farley, was elected president and still serves in that capacity.

Other present officers of the firm other than Mr. Emmert, are Miss Bertha Rostagno, vice-president; and Irwin Neale, secretary-treasurer. Miss Rotagno has been an employee of the firm since 1916.

When in Sedalia the S. H. Beiler Grocery Co., was located in the big brick building at 301 East Main Stret. When the firm discontinued business in Sedalia the building was purchased by the McMullin and Whitaker Distributing Co., now known as the Whitaker Company.

K.C. Attorney Will Speak For Sorosis

Tom Parrish, a Kansas City attorney, will be the speaker at Sorosis Monday afternoon at Heard Memorial Club House, and will take for his subject: "Greek 'Odd-yssey'."

A native born Missourian, Mr. Parrish is a graduate of the University of Missouri, and took his undergraduate work at Wisconsin University. He and Mrs. Parrish were in Greece in October 1962. They started at Delphia, crossed over the Corinthian Gulf to the Peloponnesus and spent some time in Athens.

Mrs. Clain Cain, chairman of the history and literature department, will introduce the speaker.

A luncheon will precede the meeting.

● Accidents

Two cars were damaged in an accident in the 100 block of South Ohio at 5:16 p.m. Friday.

Involved, according to the police report, were a 1962 Buick, driven by Darwin M. Scott, 55, 609 East 16th, and a parked 1957 Pontiac, owned by William Dean Faulwell, Otterville.

The hood of the Scott auto and the rear deck lid of the Faulwell auto were damaged.

Four airmen stationed at nearby Whiteman Air Force Base were injured—one severely—in a one-car accident 2.1 miles east of Route 127 on Highway 50 between LaMonte and Dresden at 1:45 a.m. Saturday.

Airman Donald Thompson, 20, was the driver of the westbound 1954 Ford, according to Troop A headquarters of the State Highway Patrol at Lee's Summit. He was believed the most seriously injured with severe head lacerations and to the right ear.

His passengers were: Larry Neil McManahan, 19, who sustained some fractured ribs and head lacerations; Donald George Andrews, 19, lacerations of the face; and Lloyd Wayne McElroy, 19, lacerations to the body.

All four of the airmen were taken to the base hospital at Whiteman.

The patrol said Airman Thompson's auto went out of control, left the roadway and overturned. The wrecked auto was towed in to Bacon's Service Station.

A young Lincoln man received minor injuries and the 1960 International Coca Cola Bottling Company truck he was driving was extensively damaged in a one vehicle accident at 3:10 p.m. Friday three-tenths of a mile south of Route D on Highway J in Johnson County.

According to Highway Patrol Troop A headquarters at Lee's Summit, Curtis Fisher, 21, of Route 1, Lincoln, said he would seek medical treatment himself.

The truck hit a rough area in the blacktop pavement, the patrol reported, bounced off the road, struck a culvert and overturned in a ditch.

Extensive damage was recorded to the truck. It was towed to Sedalia to Bacon's Service Station.

A driver of a car who told police he fell asleep at the wheel escaped injury, but his 1964 Chevrolet sedan was extensively damaged when it crashed into a parked car in the 1600 block on East Broadway about 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

According to the police accident report, the new car was driven by James Edmund White, 34, of 905 Royal Avenue, Sedalia, and was headed west on Broadway when the accident occurred. The car crashed into the rear of a 1951 Ford tudor sedan owned by Glen P. Moon, which was parked in front of his home, 1611 East Broadway.

The front end of the Chevrolet was damaged while the rear of the Ford car was damaged.

White was issued a police summons to appear in police court next Wednesday.

Officer Herbert Mayfield came upon the accident while on patrol in a police car and notified the police station. Officers Newt Raines and Don Stratton made the investigation.

● Fires In City

A 1963 Pontiac Tempest parked in the 100 block on East Fourth was thought to be on fire by passersby about 11:45 a.m. Saturday. Firemen reported the car was only overheated and there was no fire. The car was owned by Leo H. Hughes, Kansas City.

● Sheriff Report

Donald Williams 900 South Stewart, charged with stealing a motor vehicle from Lloyd Phillips, owner of B &B Cleaners, was released Friday from the Pettis County jail on $1,000 bond posted by the Bradshaw Bonding Co.

Williams waived a preliminary hearing on Oct. 28 and was bound over for trial in Circuit Court during the November term, which convenes Nov. 25.

● Police Reports

Two more reports were received by the Police Department Friday of paint vandalism on two automobiles.

Donald Stratton, 1005 East Fourth, reported someone sprayed gold paint on the left side of his 1957 Pontiac sedan, sometime Thursday night.

Leroy Oehrke, 1706 East Sixth, reported vandals sprayed black paint on the right door of his automobile sometime Thursday night.

Ray Tickameyer, 1700 South Ohio, reported to police Friday that while his pickup truck was parked in the alley in the 100 block on West Main, someone threw a fur coat into the back of it.

Vernon Elliott, 812 East Tenth, reported to police Friday that someone sprayed black paint on the left front fender of his 1957 Mercury Thursday night.

Charles Taylor, 508 North Washington, reported to police Friday that his bicycle was stolen from Hubbard School Friday. It was valued at $10.

Police received a report about 12:05 p. m. Friday that Dennis Johnson, 7, 1013 East Tenth, had run away from Washington School. He was located in a shed behind his home and taken back to school by officers about 1:10 p. m.

Vandals threw a rock through a front door glass at the Wallace Grocery, Osage and Cooper, sometime Friday night. Police found the damage at 10:43 p.m.

concert, under the direction of Abe Rosenthal, will open with the overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," Nicolai, to be followed by a group of songs by Mussorgsky sung by O'Bannon. Bernstein's "Selections from the West Side Story," will close the first half of the program.

The second half will include a Mozart suite, musical comedy selections by O'Bannon, and close with "La Vie Parisienne," Dorati, by the orchestra.

The concert promises to be one of the most interesting and rewarding yet presented by the symphony orchestra. Pearl Roemer Kelly, who is no new-comer to Sedalia audiences, will accompany O'Bannon's selections.

recently with an announcement that the state board has acquired a portion of the wartime O'Reilly General Hospital for the Springfield training center. In the past school rooms throughout Springfield have been used for the training program.

But by next September the new center should be ready for use, said Hubert Wheeler, state education commissioner.

Involved at Springfield is a five-acre portion of the old military hospital. It contains nine buildings. Wheeler said the state board has enough money to make necessary changes in the buildings.

There are 70 youngsters being trained now at the Springfield center.

Another portion of the hospital facility, containing up to 20 acres and 33 buildings, has been turned over by the General Services Administration to the Missouri Division of Mental Diseases. The division hopes to establish there a state training school for mentally retarded persons, much on the order of the St. Louis Training School and the State Training School with branches in Marshall, Higginsville and Carrollton.

The division will not be able to make use of it, however, until the Legislature provides the money to put the buildings into shape for occupancy.

TV Star Is Former MU Student

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It was close to noon, and in a television set of a small, shabby grocery store George C. Scott took a hungry bite from a cream-filled chocolate cupcake and, for the umpteenth time, plunged into his lines with another actor.

It was his eighth cupcake of the morning and Scott, a steak and potatoes, man, was thoroughly bored with the sweet. He was also impatient with having to repeat over and over a short scene until the director was satisfied.

Scott, a tall, broad-shouldered man with a prize-fighter's nose and a prickly disposition, is the star of CBS' "East Side, West Side," and plays a social worker.

In a highly commercial medium, Scott stands out as an unreconstructed idealist, a theater man who has been trying to move his high standards intact from the proscenium arch to the orthicon tube, an almost impossible task.

Scott insists that there are many vitally important subjects which should be and could be tackled by his type of television. He ticked off a few: "water pollution, air pollution, sewage problems, traffic problems, various types of social injustice, political patronage — perhaps even the advertising business."

Scott, at 36, is a dedicated actor and an angry man who, even in routine scenes, is watched with unconcealed admiration by his colleagues.

He started his career comparatively late after four years in the Marine Corps and after he had entered the University of Missouri to study journalism. A part in a play of the university's drama workshop changed his sights. He toured in stock companies and kept himself going between acting assignments with the usual odd jobs. His big chance came in a Shakespeare festival in New York six years ago when, an unknown, he was cast in the title role of Richard III and won rave notices.

A year later he played opposite Judith Anderson in Broadway, and by this time he had really earned that much-abused tag, any actor's actor.

Of "East Side, West Side," Scott says, "I don't like to fail, and so far I feel I've been a failure. But I intend to stay in television until I can make some sort of a standard for myself and for the people who watch television — the people who want some sort of standards for themselves. I just don't believe that all the mass audience wants from television is light entertainment."

Scott, a furious perfectionist when it comes to his own participation, obviously is not naive enough to expect to turn out a really great show every seven or eight days, which television demands.

"But if ever you let down, if ever you stop trying, you're licked," he said.

United Funds Aid Girl Scouting

On my honor, I will try: To do my duty to God and my country, to help other people at all times, and to obey the Girl Scout laws. Five hundred Sedalia girls—31 troops—85 volunteer leaders have made this promise.

As an agency supported by the Sedalia-Pettis County United Community Fund the Girl Scouts endeavor to express their gratitude to Sedalia and Pettis County which makes Girl Scouting possible to all girls between the ages of 7 and 17.

To the girls of Sedalia, scouting offers every girl outdoor camping experiences and an opportunity to enhance her love of nature. It helps her to assume community responsibility through service projects, encourages good citizenship and teaches her the real meaning of international friendship. Ideals of honor, loyalty, usefulness, friendship, courtesy, obedience, thriftiness, cheerfulness and cleanliness in thought, word and deed are developed. These are the basic foundation and laws of Girl Scouting and are all a part of her program.

Senior Scouting gives the 15-17 year old girl a chance to take part in national and international Scout events. The service aide program enables a fuller exploration of career and service opportunities for Senior Girl Scouts.

The most often asked question by those not helping in the scout program is, "What are the requested funds used for?"

The Heart of Missouri Council maintains an office in Jefferson City. Out of this office come all the services needed to keep the scout program going. Sedalia has a professional Girl Scout advisor who is making her home in Sedalia to be closer and more available to the area which comes under her jurisdiction. Training is provided for troop leaders, day camp directors and all those who in some capacity will lead girls on the wonderful Girl Scouting path.

All the material needed by a troop to keep its records of each girl's progress, program aids and ideas, leader material and kits of handbooks (first aid, songs, outdoor skills, troop planning) come out of this council office. Maintenance of Camp Sakajawea and basic equipment needs come out of the Council. Established camps are provided and staffed through the Council.

The local district chairman, Mrs. George T. Lockett, goes to a field meeting and a council meeting once a month, bringing back ideas and information that has been exchanged among the chairmen of the nine districts of the council. These nine districts all share through their community drives in the maintenance of this council which binds us all together in the Heart of Missouri and all receive the benefits of services, help and materials.

The activities of the Girl Scout program enrich the girl's whole life as she grows to womanhood. Those who give to help this program in the community can feel assured that every dollar comes back to this community in a full program for every girl desiring it.

Uneven Water Distribution Major Case for Big Concern

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Always, somewhere, man is gasping for water. U.S. conservation experts say its depletion poses a greater problem than the disappearance of other natural resources such as coal and iron.

Yet, water doesn't disappear. It covers three-fourths of our planet and can be forever reused.

Why, then, the shortages that have ruined lands and destroyed civilizations? Uneven distribution is to blame. In the United States, for example, two-thirds of the seven trillion tons of annual rainfall occurs over one-third of the land area.

Man finally is attacking the problem on a worldwide scale. Plans are being laid for a 10-year study of the earth's water resources—an International Hydrological Decade to begin Jan. 1, 1965. Projects initiated before 1975 may continue for a century, planners say.

Scientists of 100 nations will gather and study data on the earth's water cycle—the continuous movement of water from the oceans to storm clouds to the land and back to the oceans.

They'll study its infiltration into the soil and how it moves through the soil—the effects of agriculture, man-built reservoirs, highways and cities on water circulation and quality—how it is lost to the atmosphere through evaporation from the soil and the "breathing" of plants — how snow and ice accumulate and release water.

International teams of hydrologists will study streamflow, levels of natural underground reservoirs and the way water steals topsoil — three billion tons of it in the United States every year.

Water erosion has destroyed an estimated one-fourth of this nation's fertile cropland. Since the 1880s, erosion has dug gullies and pits in the U.S. Southwest. Yet seemingly similar conditions have not had similar results in the southern Soviet Union and elsewhere in the world. Why? Hydrologists hope to find answers during the decade of cooperative study of the earth's waters.

Our water needs are enormous. The average man consumes about one ton of water a year in his food and drink. Plants need about 1,000 pounds of water to produce one pound of food. Industry and transportation require tremendous amounts.

The constant resource can be magnified by re-use. And man is learning how, even to the point of purifying and reclaiming sewage water.

He is learning how to recharge depleted underground reservoirs, nature's storage regions that are immune to the evaporation of surface reservoirs.

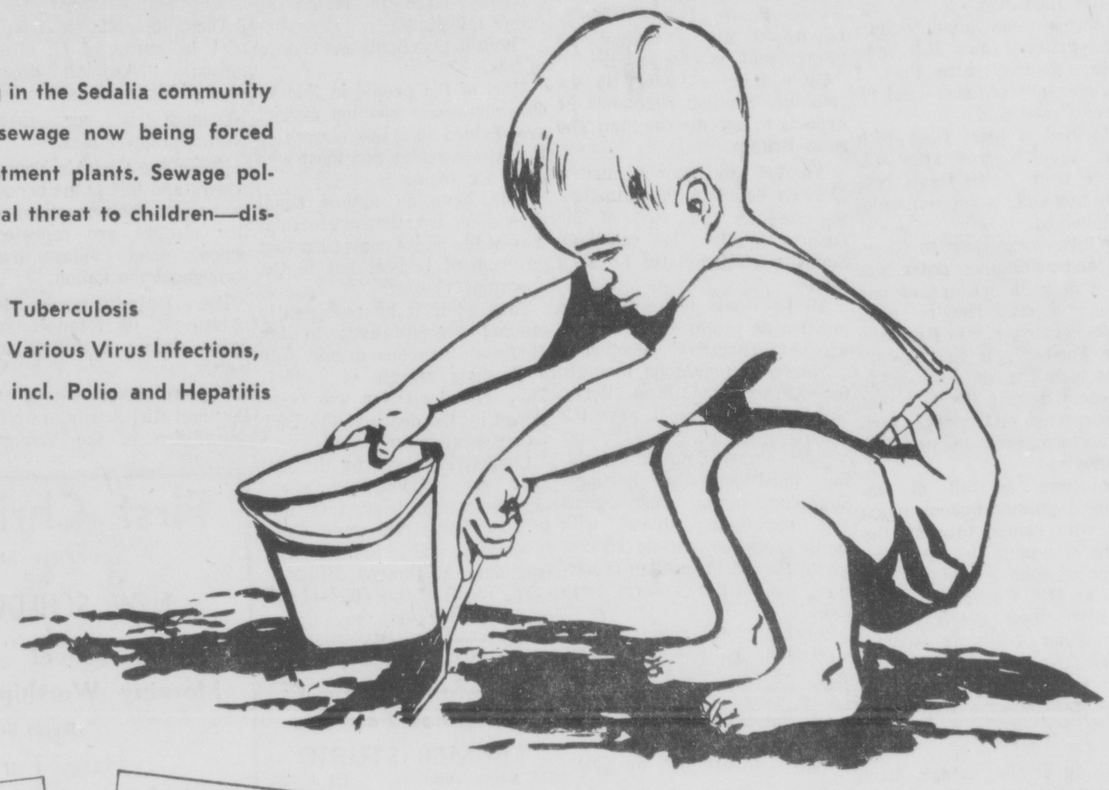
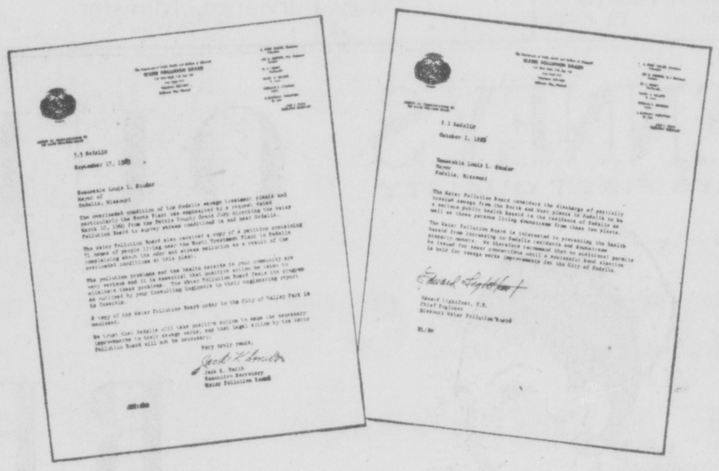
WE CAN'T AFFORD RAW SEWAGE

The health of everyone living in the Sedalia community is endangered by the raw sewage now being forced through our overloaded treatment plants. Sewage pollution diseases are an especial threat to children—diseases that include:

Dysentery Salmonella Tuberculosis
Cholera Typhoid Fever Various Virus Infections,
Diphtheria Leptospirosis incl. Polio and Hepatitis

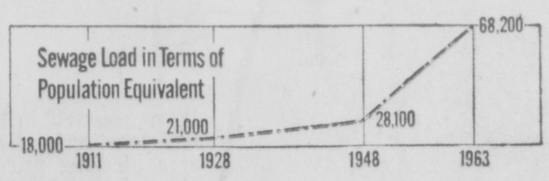




When sewage problems become acute, the State is forced to step in, as it has now done in our case.
These two letters explain why it is so necessary for us to vote the sewer improvements NOW.
The first letter asks us to take measures to end our pollution practices. Naturally, the State is not going to tell us what will be the consequences if we fail to take action, but it DOES tell us what happened to another city in such a situation:

1) Valley Park's sewage collection system operating permit was revoked.
2) The city was ordered to stop its pollution of the Meramec River.
3) A fine of $100 daily against the city, until it stopped violating the above orders, was recommended.
4) A court injunction against the city, to prevent further discharge of the objectionable sewage into the river, was recommended.
5) Revoking the city's permit left it open to lawsuits from property owners down the river.
6) The Order cleared the way for Federal action against the city.
7) Valley Park had already been forbidden to extend its sewers, thus ending construction activity.

LET'S KEEP THIS LINE TURNED UP!



The line of this graph represents demand on the Sedalia sewage system — a growing population —growing business and industry. The total of the two is shown in "population equivalent" — that is, in 1963, the total load on our sewers was as great as would be expected from 68,000 citizen residents.
By voting the sewer bonds, we will be providing the sewage capacity to keep this line up where it is — and pointing upward, with room to grow in the future!
Our sewer improvement program, on which we will vote November 12, was drawn up by Burns & McDonnell Engineers, and approved by the State of Missouri. The sewer system improvements will meet the State's requirements — and our own needs as a city.

OUR PROBLEM

Our sewage treatment plants have the right kind of facilities, but not enough. The overload is so great that sewage is coming in and being forced through the plants, asd out, before the purification process can be finished.
The State has withdrawn our operating permits for the NORTH and WEST plants, and issued us TEMPORARY permits until we can make the necessary improvements.
The SOUTH plant is overloaded and "ON THE BORDER LINE."
TRUNK SEWERS, PUMPING STATIONS AND FORCE MAINS need repairs and extensions in order to provide satisfactory sewage service to our West Industrial Park, industrial sites at the Airport neighborhood, and to prevent a potential health hazard in the 28th St. district.

OUR SOLUTION

All our plants will be enlarged in capacity to handle our present load — and the increase now anticipated — and maintain Missouri State standards.
When the improvements are voted and completed, the State will give us permanent permits for all three plants.

The Bonds we vote will be enough only for the three treament plants. Once we have voted these bonds we will be allowed to file for Federal Aid and this should enable us to complete the entire program.

WHAT WILL IT COST YOU?

Total cost of the improvements is estimated by the Engineers at $3,548,200. Anticipating that we will receive at least $548,200 in Federal Air AFTER WE HAVE VOTED THE BONDS for the principal improvements, the bond issue is set at $3,000,000.

YOUR COST will be NOT MORE than 35c per $100 assessed valuation per year.

If your assessed valuation is	your cost will be
$1,000	$3.50
$2,000	7.00
$3,000	10.50
$4,000	14.00

If you know your assessed valuation you can figure your own cost. The City-wide average is $3,000 valuation, or $10.50 a year.

THIS IS THE BIGGEST BARGAIN IN MANY YEARS!

Mother Role For Queen Of Fildom

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rita Hayworth, once America's love goddess, is in Spain playing the mother of Claudia Cardinale, an up-and-coming love goddess out of Italy.

"Why not?" asked Rita, her hair as flaming red as ever and her figure just as enticing. "I'm over 40. I could have a daughter Claudia's age."

Miss Cardinale is 24.

The movie is "Circus World" and Rita is co-starring with John Wayne.

"I play a trapeze performer," says Rita. "I haven't read all of the script yet but I hope they use a net. I've never swung on a trapeze."

As Rita talked in her Beverly Hills home, her daughter, Princess Yasmin, 13½, came in looking for all the world like the new Rita Hayworth.

When Yasmin, daughter of the late Aly Khan and by Mohammedan tradition a direct descendant of the prophet, was a youngster, I baby-sat for her.

It was in Las Vegas, when Rita was getting ready to marry Dick Haymes, the fourth of her five husbands.

"There's been another husband (writer James Hill) and another divorce since then. I think now only of today—and tomorrow," she said.

Rita had a brief fling with actor Gary Merrill after his divorce from Bette Davis but, at the moment, is not romantically involved.

She lives next door to Glenn Ford and sometimes dates him —or acts as a hostess at one of his parties. They're good friends because it was Rita who made Ford a star in "Gilda."

Rita hasn't made a movie in two years despite the fact that she surprised critics with serious performances in her last two movies.

The town is full of unemployed glamor queens much older who refuse to play the mother of infants, let alone the mother of such a budding sex queen as Miss Cardinale.

In Rita's case, the transition from glamor to drama seemed natural.

"Let's face it," says she, "either you change your pace in your career — or you don't work."

Rita, docile by nature, has been dominated by men, mostly husbands and lawyers. She once had a lawyer on a $40,000 annual retainer fee.

Last year she was to have made her Broadway debut but in the midst of rehearsals she checked into a hospital where a spokesman said: "She is slightly anemic."

To which Rita counters: "Not quite as anemic as the play."

It flopped.

Rita is willing to try Broadway again. Maybe even night clubs, "After all, I was dancing in a night club when the movies discovered me."

The late Winfield Sheehan cast her—then known by her true name of Margarita Cansino —in the title role of "Ramona."

But Fox merged with 20th Century, Sheehan was out as studio boss and Darryl Zanuck was in. Zanuck scrapped Rita's scenes and re-cast the picture with Loretta Young.

The late Harry Cohn at Columbia grabbed Rita and made her an international star.

Sir Home Expects To Run Britain

CRIEFF, Scotland (AP) — Where Bonny Prince Charlie failed, Sir Alec Douglas-Home is confident he can pull it off.

By winning a victory in the romantic Scottish Highlands he expects to become the man who runs Britain.

Whereas the prince met a glorious defeat after campaigning through this part of the country in the 1745 rebellion, Sir Alec contemplates no such fate.

All he needs to confirm his position as prime minister is to win next Thursday's election of a House of Commons member for Kinross and West Perthshire. The form book says it's a one-horse race.

Cinch or not, Sir Alec is fighting hard on the hustings. Stomping around misty glens and mountains ablaze with heather, the 60-year-old successor to Harold Macmillan is carrying the battle to cottage doorsteps.

Roaring into some sleepy hamlets at the head of a mud-spattered motorcade, Sir Alec shakes hands with housewives, beams at kilted yokels and scratches autographs on scraps of paper thrust out by little boys.

Always he tells his audience that he is a Scotsman and farmer himself. Sir Alec is in fact lord of a 50,000-acre estate in Lanarkshire.

The whole campaign is something of an unprecedented spectacle in modern British history. By tradition, a prime minister must sit in Parliament. On becoming prime minister, Sir Alec relinquished the Earldom of Home and thereby automically left the House of Lords. If he lost his fight to get into the Commons he would almost certainly have to resign as prime minister.

There is practically no chance of this.

Most of the people in this 8,000-square-mile election district are divided into two classes — the landed gentry and those who work for them.

Both have an almost equal reverence for the aristocratic way of life and a conviction that government is best left to the governing classes.

They show it by persistently sending Conservatives to the House of Commons, usually with a crushing margin of victory. This special election was occasioned by the death of the Tory —Conservative—member.

Challenging Home for the seat are six opponents whose chances range from very thin to nonexistent. The man likely to come second is Liberal party candidate A. Duncan Millar.

The result of this election will be declared Friday.

Dairymen Urged To Attend Meet Here Nov. 7

Earl Wood, dairy farmer of Smithton and president of the District 4 board of directors of the American Dairy Association of Missouri, urges all dairymen in the district to exercise their right to vote and attend their annual meeting to be held at Smith-Cotton High School cafeteria in Sedalia Thursday evening, Nov. 7. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and adjourn at 9:45 p.m. Dairy farmers have an opportunity each year to see how their two-cent investment is used when attending their annual district meeting, Wood reports.

Dairy farmers elect district directors that comprise the district board. Board members in District 4 are: Amos L. Finkeldei, Blackburn; Frank Curtis, Odessa; John N. McBee, Jr., Braymer; Russell McFatrich, Sedalia; Harry Brock, Carrollton; Joe W. Davis and Wood, both of Smithton.

Counties in District 4 are: Caldwell, Carroll, Cass, Clay, Jackson, Johnson, Lafayette, Pettis, Platte, Ray and Saline.

Dairy refreshments, recipes, films, prizes, gate post signs, and the American Dairy Association car sticker will be available. The doors are open to everyone interested in the dairy industry.

Nkrumah Is Godlike To Ghana Youth

By DENNIS NEELD

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — In an assembly hall in downtown Accra 100 boys and girls raise right hands and pledge to "live by the ideals of the redeemer, Kwame Nkrumah, founder of the state of Ghana, initiator of the African personality."

Then the children, from tots of 4 to youths of 17, chant in unison: "Nkrumah does no wrong. Nkrumah is our leader. Nkrumah is our messiah. Nkrumah never dies."

These are Ghana's Young Pioneers and this is the ceremony that opens their meetings. Similar pledges are repeated in schools and village halls throughout the nation.

The state-sponsored youth movement of Ghana's ruling party claims a million members.

With an obvious smack at the Boy and Girl Scouts, an official description of the Young Pioneers declares: "In organization and program it is a complete departure from colonial youth movements and other colonial hangovers with their cult of romanticism, exclusivity and loyalties to another time and place."

Following charges by church leaders that the movement was godless, the Young Pioneers added "fear of God" to their rules of conduct.

"Although the movement does not formally include religious education in its program, members are free to pursue whatever religious faith they want," says a headquarters brochure.

The movement, it explains, has never meant to imply that President Kwame Nkrumah is immortal even though the children sing, "Nkrumah never dies."

In practice, the Young Pioneers are less politically conscious than their opening ceremony would indicate. There are sessions for the teaching of "Nkrumahist" ideology, but few children seem to take them seriously.

An instructor trained in East Germany was in charge of the Young Pioneer group meeting in the Accra assembly hall.

"I was impressed by what I saw of East Germany's youth work, but I'm not a Communist," said the instructor. "I'm a Socialist."

'Join a 4-H Club Week'

By OWEN FOX,
Extension Youth Agent,
University Extension Center

November 2 - 9 is "Join a 4-H Club" Week. The 788 4-H members and 256 volunteer adult 4-H leaders in Pettis County give boys and girls, age 9 to 21, a special invitation to join their 4-H club.

November is the time to join 4-H club work. You may join at a later date, but you have the opportunity to begin work at an early date along with the other members of the club if you join now. Join the 4-H club in your area. If you would like to know who to contact in the club in your area, don't hesitate to contact our office.

Now is the time to organize new 4-H clubs, too. In order to organize a 4-H club, there should be a group of five or more boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 21. If there is a group interested in organizing a 4-H club, contact the Pettis County University Extension Center.

A 4-H club may be made up of both boys and girls or there may be a boys club by themselves or a girls club by themselves. The most successful clubs are where there are both boys and girls. The desirable size of a 4-H club is from 15 to 20 members. But in order for a beginning club to get started, a 4-H club may begin with as few as five members. For instance, this may be a project club made up of five girls enrolled in Clothing I or a group of five or more boys enrolled in the woodwork project. For a small club like this the only leader necessary is a project leader. For larger clubs the leaders that are necessary to operate a 4-H club sucessfully are a community leader, assistant community leader, and project leaders for each one of the projects carried.

4-H Club work may be carried on fy either farm or urban boys and girls. Several years ago 4-H club work was only for rural boys and girls, but in recent years projects have been developed for the urban boys and girls, too.

Let's consider what goes on in a "going" 4-H club. Members enroll in a community club. They elect officers and plan and conduct monthly meetings. The club trains them to work with others, teaches them to lead and to follow, gives them the experience in public appearance and group action.

Each member carries at least one project. There are 85 propects from which to choose.

In addition to project work, 4-H members take part in activities which greatly increase their knowledge, such as demonstrations, tours, judging and exhibiting.

Games and singing are included in monthly programs of local clubs. Special recreational events such as parties and picnics are planned throughout the year.

Each club has a community and assistant community leader who serve as advisors in planning and conducting meetings and activties. Other adult voluntary leaders serve as project leaders or teachers for the various projects.

Ex-Newsman In Congress Plugs for Kennedy Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—By the strange workings of politics and government, a part of President Kennedy' s program is being shepherded through the House by a congressman who is not exactly pro-Kennedy.

"Imagine that," said the congressman, Rep. F Edward Hebert, D-La., with a warm appreciation of the irony of the situation. "Imagine Hebert plugging for an administration bill!"

Hebert, pronounced "A-bear," is often pointed out to newcomers as a most unusual personality on Capitol Hill, which is rich in characters.

For one thing, he has one of the most luxurious offices anyone ever saw. For another, he's the type that can laugh at himself, unusual in Congress.

As chairman of the legislative subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee, Hebert has the job of getting some major measures passed.

A Southern conservative and opponent of federal legislation in the field of civil rights, Hebert is frequently at outs with the national Democratic administration.

Born Oct. 12, 1901, Hebert has had two successful careers—23 years as a New Orleans newspaper reporter and editor and then 23 years as a congressman.

As city editor of the New Orleans States, Hebert broke the "Louisiana scandals" stories that routed the remnants of the old Huey Long political machine back in 1937. As a result he was elected to the House of Representatives in 1940.

A power on the Armed Services Committee, Hebert — a tough, direct questioner — has given many a member of the Pentagon high brass set a rough morning of testifying.

A big, genial man, he obviously relishes life and enjoys being F. Edward Hebert.

Typical of the man is his office. It's right out of Hollywood. From the high ceilings, half a dozen spotlights shine on his big desk. The room has wall-to-wall carpeting, handsome window drapes that are always drawn, big, comfortable leather chairs and divans, a large television set, a hi-fi set from which comes soft music, a bar and a grandfather clock with soft chimes.

He paid for the extra equipment.

As a result of an accident in his youth, Hebert is blind in his left eye. Some years ago a cataract impaired the vision of his right eye with the result that he can barely see.

He can read by holding a letter close to his face. He strides around the Capitol corridors as if he could see a mile. In committee he afixes a special lens to his glasses to enable him to see a witness.

This has led military people to refer to the Hebert "evil eye."

His attractive wife does most of his chauffering for him.

Brash and confident, Hebert is one of the few members of the Armed Services Committee who will tangle with Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., who is a pretty tough cookie himself. Hebert refers to Vinson affectionately as "Uncle Carl."

He is easy to interview—never ducks a question or hedges on an answer. Often he comes up with a good line or quote.

"Hey, that's good," he will say, "Use that."

Tigers Get Second Taste Of Victory In '63 Season

Trounce Higginsville 'Huskers' 18-0 Friday

The Smith-Cotton Tigers got their second 1963 taste of victory, Friday night, when they shut out the Higginsville Huskers 18-0 at Higginsville. It actually was the "Johnson Twin Brothers Night" at Higginsville with Jim the fullback making one touchdown and brother John picking up two others on sensational runs.

In spite of the Tigers' underclassmen team, four sophomores, four juniors and three seniors starting off the night of battle, Higginsville was no match for the Sedalians this year. However, the first half of the game was scoreless, although the Tigers missed what the sidelines figured two opportunities to score.

The dressing room instructions brought out on the field almost a different team, although it was the same players.

After taking the kick off and moving the ball from their own 36 yard line down to the Higginsville 14, the Tigers failed to keep the ball as Jim Johnson smashed from the 14 to the goal line only to fumble the ball which was recovered in the end zone for a touchback, moving the ball out to the 20 yard line.

The Huskers picked up a first down on a Tiger 15 yard penalty but were held. They took the ball on a punt on their own 44 yard line and moved to the Huskers 38 yard line to lose on downs.

Tommy Gibbs set up the first scoring attack when he intercepted a pass thrown by Dick Van Meter on his own 46 yard line and moved across field down to the 20 yard line. Jim Johnson smashed through the line for 18 yards and it was on the two. It took Jim two tries, one yard on each, to hit the pay dirt for the first score.

Try for the extra point went into a state of confusion as Jim successfully kicked the goal but lost it because of a holding penalty. Then on a pass, John Johnson to Dennis Hotchkiss good for 10, Higginsville was penalized 15 and the ball moved back to the two yard line. Jim's try for the point saw the ball fall wide of the cross bar.

The third quarter ended with the Tigers leading 6-0 and the ball in the Huskers' possession on the 28 yard line.

Higginsville was able to pick up a first down and after losing ground they were forced to kick from their own 30 yard line, the ball rolling out on the Tigers 41 yard line.

Jim Arnett picked up five yards. Johnson's pass was over Phil Matthew's head for an incomplete pass. John Johnson faked back and suddenly burst out like a reindeer and with some right fancy blocking on the part of his teammates and a great job of sidestepping two safety men went the 54 yards for the touchdown with eight minutes and 20 seconds left in the game. Jim Johnson's kick was blocked.

The Tigers kicked off and the Huskers started from their own 24 but were stymied when Morris Cordle lost nine yards and was able to get back only eight. Paul Ehlerts' punt went to John Johnson who made a fair catch on the 49 yard line.

Jim and John picked up four and 15 yards respectively. Russell Cusic picked up one, and John lost it. John passed to Matthews for five yards and then connected with Gibbs for 12. The ball was on the 15 then.

John picked up four yards and the Tigers lost it and one more on an off-sides penalty. John lost another two yards, then Tom Hasler picked up eight yards and the ball was on the 12. John Johnson was able to shake off his tacklers and again some neat blocking assisted him to the opening spaces and the Husker safety man missed him and he was over for his second touchdown. Jim's kick was blocked.

The Tigers kicked off and the Huskers took over on their own 25 as the game ended.

A Husker fumble on the Tiger 24 yard line and recovered by a Tigerman, whose identity was not determined, probably saved Sedalia from being scored on in the first quarter.

A Tiger fumble was recovered by the Huskers in the first part of the second quarter, but the Tigers held their opponents to downs.

Phil Matthews pulled in another Husker on the Husker's 44 and they moved to the 23 only to lose the ball on the fourth down and a 15 yard penalty. Russell Cusick came back on the Huskers second play and recovered another of their fumbles, on the Husker 49. But the Tigers ended the half on their 13 yard line unable to make a last minute pass click.

The Tigers journey to Lee's Summitt for their final game, also a non-conference tilt.

Smithton Defeats Vikings

The Smithton Tigers met and defeated the LaMonte Vikings 76-45, in both teams first conference game of the season, Friday night.

Rebounding was the strong point in the game for Smithton, with Mark Teter getting 18 and Gary Cook, 16. Both teams matched points in the first quarter, but the Tigers then took a lead in the second period and held it throughout the game.

Four Tigers scored double figures. High was Mark Teter, 21, followed by Gary Cook, 15, Philip Rodewald, 14, and Bob Hyatt, 12. High for the Vikings was J. Brown with 15.

In the "B" contest, the Tigers again downed the Vikings, 35-34, with one overtime period necessary to accomplish the task. The final score was 35-34, and had been tied 31-31 at the end of regulation play.

Top scorers for Smithton were Rodney Thomas with 15 and Mike Turner with 12. P. Harmon had 8 for high honors for LaMonte.

LaMonte managed to salvage the girls volleyball game, 37-19, over the Tigers. Barbara Gecker served 14 points to take high point honors for LaMonte High for Smithton were Sherry Klein and Linda Mayer with 5 serves each.

Smithton will meet Bunceton Tuesday night in a non-conference clash on Bunceton's court.

Illinois Whips Purdue 41-21

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Sophomore fullback Jim Grabowski, running like a souped-up bulldozer, slammed to three touchdowns Saturday as second ranked Illinois rolled over Purdue 41-21 and kept a share of the Big Ten football lead.

Grabowski ended the first drive by bolting over from the six. Mike Taliaferro's 17-yard pass to Bill Paski and 15-yarder to Jim Warren set it up.

Al Wheatland scored on he second drive from the one after paving the way with an 19-yard run, and Grabowski pumped 18 yards to cap the third drive, helping the Illini to a 21-0 lead.

In the opening four minutes of the third period, Warren spun across from the six in a march supported by Grabowski's 21-yard gallop.

Later Grabowski plunged over from the one, climaxing an 83-yard smash enlivened by Fred Custardo's 55-yard sprint.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

OFFICIATING was discussed in this column a few weeks ago on the high school level but it appears some of that poor work is rubbing off up in the college bracket after seeing the Nebraska - Missouri game in Columbia, won of course by Nebraska 13-12. But fans on both sides need not worry — the officials were not "choosey."

Dan Devine let it be known in no uncertain terms just what he was thinking on some of the calls. But Dan wasn't alone in this department either, so did Coach Bob DeVaney of Nebraska. It appeared from up in the stadium both coaches were thinking about the same thing of the officiating as were the greater part of the 50,500 fans.

Actually the exhibition of the officiating came when Nebraska was on the march, and a penalty appeared to have been called after the whistle was blown. Nobody seemed to know whether it should have been a fourth down or remain the third down — especially the fans who became more confused as the officials went into a huddle, then conferred with John Waldorf, headman of of officials in the Big Eight.

It was changed from third down to fourth down, then Devaney put in his "two-bits" worth and the officials changed it back to third down. From what I gathered later some said "yes" and some said "no" among the fans sitting around me. The Huskers of course said "third" and the Missourians insisted "fourth."

What astonished many was the fact the officials themselves appeared to be at a loss as to what to call it. One official got hold of the sideline telephone and conducted a conservation with — what I was told — Waldort and after a consultation walked across the field and signaled for a fourth down — that's when Devaney came off the bench shaking his finger.

Then when I looked up it was back to "three."

Actually the officials demonstration from time to time indicated they had lost all control of the game. The men, and there were five of them, seemed to wonder what the others were doing from time-to-time.

But the game itself was good, interesting and thrilling. But the mannerism of the officiating was such it was confusing to the players both on the gridiron and on the sidelines. One thing for certain it was hard on the players when they were — on both teams — delivering their best to produce a good account for their squads. As far as the two teams are concerned everyone had praise bor both, but it was concensus of opinion among the fans they were undergoing an unnecessary strain wondering what would come next from an official call.

But in fairness to the officials, there have been so many changes in rules and instructions on calls in the past few years — they too are under an unnecessary strain as to what rule if any had been broken or if the decision made was right or wrong.

The Rules Committee, it seems, actually likes to make changes from year-to-year which do not make the game any better, but puts officials, coaches and players in a "state of confusion."

We hope the crew which works the Oklahoma-Missouri game on Nov. 16, will not get in to the "state" the one which worked Saturday was in. At least not in such a manner they will get 50,000 fans wondering what's going on.

—o—

NOW that the 1963 home schedule has ended for the Smith-Cotton Tigers, I believe it timely to call attention of the school officials and the trustees of the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Stadium, they should take inventory of the stadium property. It is time some money is spent there to improve the physical facilities and make it inviting in such a way prospective football material will feel the desire to play football.

Surroundings, I believe, would play a big part in interesting the Tiger football team. In spite of the haphazard spray painting of the dressing rooms, they are still dingy and dirty. There should be a large drawing or blackboard where the coaching staff could operate their plays on the board and hold real good classes for the team. A bulletin board would also be in order.

Yes they'll tell you there's a blackboard down there and a bulletin board — but take a look.

An example of the gridiron upkeep was seen by the fans this fall, when before one game it was not "watered" down and as a result dust flew on every play. It wasn't nice, but the people got a good chance to see what the boys had been working in the whole week before the game. And it wasn't until Homecoming that someone got the bright idea to clean up the weeds from the track in front of the stadium, and I must say congratulations to those who did it—it really gave an appearance and looked nice.

BUT the gridiron needs a face-lifting. Needs to be gone over and cleaned and replanted with good grass, and taken care of not just for a few days but year-round. The front area should be landscaped and made beautiful.

After-all this institution of sports will be on one of our main U.S. North - South Highways and will be seen by thousands throughout the year. Let visitors to Sedalia know we are proud of our Memorial Stadium.

As to the gridiron I would suggest maybe who ever is responsible for the upkeep to get in contact with some of our landscape artists, and have them contact someone who knows about the upkeep of a gridiron and get a job going.

A sparkling gridiron, a clean stadium, most certainly will have an affect on a boy who likes to play football and at the same time appreciates what's being offered him for his convience as an athlete.

It is just one of my "brain storms" but I still think its good.

Atom League Sees First Soccer Play

Two teams of the recently organized Atom League in the Sedalia soccer organization, got their first taste of official action Saturday afternoon at Liberty Park, with Sealtest and Freese Dairy battling to a 1-1 tie. Other action saw Freese Dairy whip Sealtest in the Bantam League, 4-0, and Lions edged S and M Athletic Goods 1-0 in the Midget League.

The Atom League contest saw David Lees score for Freese and David Schaundelmeyer put one across for Sealtest. Both boys are nine years old.

Freese Dairy got very little competition from Sealtest in the Bantam League contest, and was sparked by agile Sam Gravitt, who put three goals across, backed up by Stanley White's one.

A penalty kick by Monty Finley in the first half gave Lions their victory over S and M. All games were played at Liberty Park.

LIBERTY PARK

1 p. m.—Jaycees (0-0), vs. Third National (0-0) AL
2 p. m.—Jaycees (4-5-2) vs. Third National (6-5) BL
3 p. m.—Optimist (4-3-4) vs. Adco (5-5-1) ML

CENTENNIAL PARK

1:30 p. m.—Optimist (2-5) vs. Mutual of Omaha (1-1-5) JL
3 p. m.—T and G Motors (1-3-3) vs. Adco (1-1-5) JL

AL—Atom League
BL—Bantam League
ML—Midget League
JL—Junior League

Tigers Edged, 13-12

Missourians Lose Gamble And Game To Nebraska

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Nebraska's brawny Cornhuskers, led by Dennis Claridge and Rudy Johnson, nipped stubborn Missouri 13-12 Saturday in a crucial Big Eight football game as Missouri lost a gamble when they went for a two-point conversion and didn't make it.

Bruce Smith, Nebraska back, broke up the two-point conversion pass from Missouri's Gary Lane intended for end Jim Walker in the end zone and Nebraska's 13-12 lead was preserved with 8:30 left in the game.

Quarterback Claridge then directed the powerful Huskers on 49-yard drive which killed seven minutes and Kent McCloughan intercepted Lane's last-minute desperation pass.

The largest Missouri football crowd on record—50,500 — saw the game.

The victory gave Nebraska a powerful boost in its drive for its first conference football championship since 1940. Bob Devaney's club now has a 4-0 record in league play and is 6-1 in all games. Missouri stands 3-1 in the league and 5-2 overall Claridge, a 6-foot-3, 222-pounder, made the key plays in Nebraska's winning 64-yard, 16-play drive. Johnson, a swift 193-pound senior fullback, was the game's top rusher with 126 yards in 19 carries. The big Nebraska line averaging 233 from tackle to tackle had the edge over the gritty Tigers averaging 203.

Guards Bob Brown, a 269-pounder, and John Kirby, 218, and tackle Lloyd Voss, 245, were the top Nebraska linemen.

Down 13-6, Missouri struck back in just two pass plays, Lane to John Sevcik for 14 yards and Lane to halfback Ken Boston for 53 yards and the touchdown. Then came the two point gamble.

Nebraska drove 76 yards to score from the opening kickoff —all on the ground—with Claridge going from the five. Missouri struck back in two plays. Ted Saussele made a diving catch on a 30-yard pass from Lane and Ken Boston recovered Gus Otto's fumble in the end zone for the touchdown.

Nebraska, the nation's top rushing team with a 287-yard average, ground out 299 on the ground. Lane hit 8 of 20 passes for 143 yards to keep the Tigers close.

Kansas State Loses 26th Big 8 Contest

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas handed Kansas State its 26th straight Big Eight football loss Saturday by overpowering the Wildcats, 34-0, before a Homecoming crowd of about 30,000.

Leading only 14-0 at the half, the Jayhawks erupted for three touchdowns in the third period to put the game beyond reach.

Kansas halfback Gale Sayers who entered the game as the leading rusher in the Big Eight and the nation, scored two touchdowns on a punt return for 64 yards and a 4-yard end sweep. The fleet 205-pound junior rushed for 79 yards in 15 trips to boost his season's total to 634.

On the fourth play of the game, Sayers fielded a punt on his own 36 and raced virtually untouched to the end zone. He sat out much of the second quarter when he aggravated a leg injury. However, he returned early in the third quarter and showed no effects of the injury in scoring his second touchdown.

The victory gave Kansas 4-3 record for the year and a 2-2 mark in league play.

Kansas State is now 1-6 for the season and 0-5 in conference play.

Kansas State's last league victory came against Nebraska in 1959.

The punting of halfback Doug Dusenbury held the Jayhawks at bay most of the first half.

But Kansas moved 62 yards quickly in the third period with a 50-yard Steve Renko to Jay Roberts pass setting up a four-yard touchdown run by Sayers.

The Jayhawks then capitalized on a fumble deep in K-State territory which led to a 17-yard touchdown run by Tony Leiker. Quarterback Sid Micek intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards for the final counter of the game.

Kansas State missed scoring by a half yard with one second to go. Ralph McFillen intercepted a Jayhawk pass and the drive started on the Wildcat 14. The visitors battled all the way to Kansas 1-yard line as the clock was running out. But a desperate dive by Larry Coggigan fell a half yard short of the goal.

Kansas, which has had its troubles with pass defense, contained K-State's heralded passing attack effectively throughout the game. Three interceptions helped blunt the K-State air assault. Kansas outrughed K-State 243-156 while K - State held an 84-72 passing edge.

Hughesville Defeated

The Warsaw Wildcats soundly trounced Hughesville, 94-34, in their second game of the season and a PBCAA conference game at that.

Warsaw took an early lead and was never threatened by Hughesville. As a result, many of the Wildcats' players got to see action.

Roger Pickard took high scoring honors for Warsaw with 21 points. Wall was high for Hughesville with 9.

In the "B" contest Warsaw was again victorious over Hughesville, 56-25.

Breshears took scoring honors for the Wildcats with 15 hits. Callis led Hughesville with 7.

The Wildcats will meet the Sacred Heart Gremlins, Nov. 5, at Warsaw in what promises to be an exciting PBCAA conference game.

Iowa State Trounces OSU, 33-28

AMES, Iowa (AP)—The brilliant passing of Oklahoma State's Mike Miller couldn't match the running of Iowa State and the Cyclones won a 33-28 Big Eight football thriller Saturday.

Miller, tall senior quarterback, showed no respect for the top-rated Iowa State pass defense which had yielded only 76 yards per game previously this season.

He ripped the Cyclones for 201 yards on 15 completions and didn't have a pass intercepted until late in the fourth quarter.

Hard running fullback Tom Vaughn, the nation's third best rusher, scored three times on short runs and wingback Dick Limerick added two others, one on an 84-yard kickoff return. Vaughn rushed for 98 yards on 26 carries.

Iowa State was in front 13-0 before Miller marched the Cowboys 74 yards in seven plays. He got the score on a short run.

After Limerick's long touchdown run, Miller again directed the Cowboys 86 yards in nine plays for another score, with fullback George Thomas getting the touchdown.

The Cyclones carried a 26-14 lead into halftime after halfback Jeff Williams' third fumble of the first half was turned into another touchdown. Vaughn scored from eight yards out on the third play after he recovered the fumble on the Oklahoma State 38.

Miller's accurate tosses carried the Cowboys 85 yards for a touchdown at the outset of the third quarter. Thomas' one-yard plunge was his second touchdown of the game.

Iowa State, which had Oklahoma State back on its one-yard line, capitalized on a short Williams punt to the Cowboy 43 then moved on in for the final score.

Williams, whose fumbles set up two Iowa State touchdowns, sprinted 80 yards for the last Oklahoma State score midway in the final quarter.

The defeat was Oklahoma State's sixth straight of the season. The victory gave Iowa State a 3-2 record in the conference.

Cape Girardeau Downs Warrensburg's Mules

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Gary Lynch threw four touchdown passes Saturday night as Cape Girardeau defeated Warrensburg 41-13. He had Lyman Brown as receiver on three of the passes.

Wayne Stevens caught the other one and scored another touchdown on a 10-yard run through the Warrensburg line. Irvin Whiteheat kicked five conversions and missed the sixth.

Warrensburg's Robert Nolting intercepted a pass and went 50 yards for one touchdown and James Crane scored the second from the one.

Oklahoma Whips Buffaloes 35-0

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Sixth-ranked Oklahoma, pestered more by its own miscues than by Colorado's defense, packed most of its scoring into the second and third periods Saturday and defeated the Buffaloes 35-0.

It was the 14th consecutive Big Eight Conference victory for the defending champions and their third this year.

The Sooners gained almost at will against Colorado, but four lost fumbles and ragged play execution stymied Oklahoma's drives time and again.

The Sooners mauled the Buffalo defense for 284 yards in the first half and racked up 17 first downs before intermission. But their own errors limited their scoring production to only 14 points. They added two more touchdowns in the third quarter and another late in the final period.

Oklahoma's defense kept the Buffaloes bottled up completely and Colorado threatened only once.

That came after Oklahoma's final touchdown when Colorado quarterback Frank Cesarek passed the Buffs to the Oklahoma 19, where the drive stalled.

McKinley, Ralston Give U.S. Lead

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston scored crushing straight-set victories in the opening singles Saturday which sent the United States into a 2-0 lead over India in the Davis Cup interzone tennis finals

First, McKinley, the bounding, rocket-hitting Wimbledon champion, blasted Premjit Lall off the court 6-4, 6-3, 6-0. Then Ralston, resorting to trick drop shots and lobs, completely confused India's world-ranking ace, Ramanathan Krishnan, 6-4, 6-1, 13-11.

Now the Americans need only to win Sunday's doubles match to clinch a challenge round berth against Australia Dec. 26-28—the first for the United States since 1960.

U.S. hopes for recapturing the symbol of world tennis supremacy are the brightest in years.

In the doubles, McKinley and Ralston, who hold the U.S. National championship, play Lall and Jaidip Mukerjea, with an American victory regarded as a foregone conclusion. The two young Yanks are now rated the best doubles combination in amateur tennis.

India apparently conceded defeat when it benched its best player, Krishnan, for the doubles and decided to play Mukerjea for the sake of giving the latter additional experience.

The final two singles are scheduled Monday, with Ralston opposing Lall and McKinley meeting Krishnan. If the United States should win the doubles, as expected, then these matches would become little more than exhibitions. The tie is a best-of-five match series.

Barrington Puts Ohio State Over Iowa, 7 to 3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sophomore Tom Barrington, shifted from substitute quarterback for his first try at left halfback, sparked Ohio State to a 7-3 victory over Iowa Saturday that kept the Buckeye Big Ten title and Rose Bowl hopes alive.

The Bucks, who had scored only one touchdown in their last two games, had only one first down in the first eight tries with the ball and were behind 3-0 when Barrington was sent in late in the third period.

On his first try, he faked a pass and raced 13 yards and Ohio was off on a 73-yard touchdown march.

Fullback Matt Snell bulled his way three yards for the counter.

The loss was third straight for Iowa, during which the Hawks have scored but one touchdown. Their lone score came on 34-yard field goal by Jay Roberts at the start of the third period.

Otterville To Play Jamestown In Finals Of Cage Tournament

Final rounds of play, for the championship, were held Saturday in the Jamestown Invitational Girls Basketball tournament, with Otterville playing against Jamestown. However, final results of the tournament were not available before press time late Saturday night.

In Friday night's action, Otterville's girls whipped Russellville 45-27 to go into the game for first place Saturday.

Otterville, after building up only a one-point lead in the first quarter, went ahead to out-point Russellville in every quarter thereafter. Russellville never posed a threat.

Top point producer for Otterville was Kay Cramer with 23, followed by Linda Paul with 13. High for Russellville was Cheryl Sartin with 11, followed by Wanda Koester and Sharon Vernon, who scored eight each.

Wally Lemm Has Tough Problems

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Getting a team up week after week is a huge problem for all pro football coaches. So picture the job Wally Lemm of the St. Louis Cardinals has ahead of him starting this Sunday with a key National Football League game against the New York Giants.

Within a five-week span, the Cards take on the Giants and Cleveland Browns twice each. After the Giants this Sunday, the Cards face Washington at home, the Browns in Cleveland, the Giants in New York, and then the Browns at home. By then the Cards could either be ready to wrap up the Eastern Conference pennant or nurse their bruises a few notches down from their current tie for second place.

The Browns, 6-1, are first in the East followed by St. Louis and New York, 5-2 each, and Pittsburgh's rugged Steelers, 4-2-1.

In the other top NFL games Sunday, the Browns, hoping to be on the rebound from their 3 shellacking by the Giants, take on the injury-riddled Eagles, 2-4-1, at Philadelphia; the Steelers face the Green Bay Packers, 6-1, who are tied with the Chicago Bears for first in the Western Conference, at Milwaukee, and the Bears visit the always dangerous Johnny Unitas and the Colts, 3-4, at Baltimore.

The other NFL contests pair Detroit, 3-4, at San Francisco, 1-6, and Los Angeles, 2-5, at Minnesota, 2-5.

The American Football League, which spreads its games over the weekend, as only two games scheduled for Sunday.

Kansas City's defending champion Chiefs, 2-4-1, battling to stay in contention in the Western Division, meet the hot Raiders, 4-4, at Oakland, while the Buffalo Bills, 3-4-1, take on the Broncs, 2-4-1, at Denver in a clash of the cellar teams. The Chiefs have lost three straight while the Raiders have swept two in a row, including a 34-33 upset thriller over the San Diego Chargers last week.

The Chargers, leaders of the Western Division, met the Jets at New York Saturday night.

Policeman Suspended

Police Officer Robert Quann was given a five-day suspension from active duty for conduct unbecoming to an officer, Police Chief Ralph Hamlin said Saturday night. Hamlin said Quann could appeal the decision to suspend him to the police grievance committee within 24 hours. The appeal has to be in writing. Hamlin said that if no decision on the suspension is reached between him and the committee, the group can then call for a hearing before the police personnel board.

Hamlin did not elaborate on his decision on the suspension.

Army Trounces Air Force 14-10

CHICAGO (AP) — Ken Waldrop returned a punt 78 yards and set up one touchdown, then smashed 17 yards for the winning touchdown with 1½ minutes left giving Army a 14-10 victory over the Air Force Saturday before a Soldier Field crowd of 76,660.

The senior halfback pounded across from the one-yard line in the third quarter, putting the Cadets ahead 7-3, after returning a punt 78 yards.

Then, after Terry Isaacson had directed a 70-yard touchdown march in the fourth quarter for the Air Force, Waldrop led the Cadets in a 65-yard do-or-die drive for the stirring triumph.

Army captured its sixth victory against one loss while Air Force suffered its third loss against four victories.

Until the second half explosion by Waldrop, Army had spent a frustrating first half, in which the Air Force took a 3-0 lead although held to only 43 yards gained, all on the ground.

Kirksville Defeats Maryville, 22 to 7

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Kirksville ground out 359 yards Saturday and downed Maryville 22-7 to maintain their unbeaten record at four games in the MIAA.

Willie Jones intercepted one pass to start a Kirksville touchdown drive and later scored a touchdown and ran across the conversion.

Kirksville held Maryville to minus 44 yards rushing. Maryville got more yardage in the air, 90 yards to 67.

Now how are the high-priced cars going to explain this!

Here are looks, luxury and comfort you'd expect to set you back plenty—if they came from anybody but Chevrolet.

Fresh-minted styling with clean uncluttered lines that give the '64 Jet-smooth Chevrolet its feeling of new length and lowness.

Rich new interiors with supple fabrics (sink your hand into the new vinyl upholstery of the new Impala Super Sport Series, for instance, and ask yourself if you've ever felt softer seat covering).

Here are the niceties of Body by Fisher craftsmanship like you'll find on expensive cars. And stylish touches like the vinyl-clad roof* you can order on the Sport Coupes.

Door-to-door carpeting and foam-cushioned front and rear seats are standard now in all models, including the modestly priced Biscaynes.

And there's a wealth of power to pick from. Engines from a peppery 140-hp 6 to a 425-hp V8*. Transmissions that are refined for smoother, more silent operation. Sixteen power teams in all.

Then, with all of that going for you, you've got the '64 Jet-smooth ride at work to cushion you from road noise and vibration like few other cars can at any price.

Been promising yourself luxury like this someday? Your someday is here, as your dealer will gladly show you.

Black Sea Vacation Center Has an Organized Program

By PRESTON GROVER

SOCHI, U.S.S.R. (AP) — This Soviet city on the Black Sea is a vacation factory.

Groups of vacationers from various industrial plants, farms and institutes come from all parts of the Soviet Union — always in groups, with an organized program ahead of them and organized housing arrangements.

Besides that, there are 55 sanitoriums in the city, each dedicated to providing not only a vacation rest but some sort of cure for what ails you. An important part of the treatment is to "take the waters," that is, to drink quantities of the hot mineral spring water. It tastes awful.

The Soviet system caters to groups, not to individuals. It is that way at Sochi. Vacation groups travel in clusters, like starlings. They breakfast together, pile into trucks together to go sightseeing around the countryside, or go to party lectures.

Neither the city nor the beach is attractive. The beach has no sand, only cobbles. When you want to sun you rent a wooden couch to lie on. Not very glamorous, but the boys and gals get sun tans.

The water is warm enough for bathing at least six months of the year and is as clear as crystal. The Black Sea is salt.

If the Russians knew how to glamorize a place, this shore line could be made into a strong competitor of beaches on the Riviera in France and Italy, many of which also have rocks, not sand.

The surrounding country is more beautiful than the Mediterranean coast. Trees, ferns, palms and flowers of all sorts grow right to the water's edge. The hills rise steeply from the water, for the tail end of the big Caucasus range plunges under the sea here.

Unfortunately, Russians everywhere have managed to provide the poorest hotel service on the European continent and it is that way at Sochi. A group of correspondents tried to breakfast early to have time to see more of the town.

The Hotel Sochi, where they stayed, could not provide them breakfast. All the tables were assigned to other groups. So they drove several miles to the "Intourist" hotel. The first waiter appeared at our table 40 minutes after we sat down. Coffee finally was delivered one hour and 25 minutes later to as snarling a gang of correspondents as could be found anywhere. Coffee, eggs, toast, all were served cold.

Why Sochi was chosen as the spot for a beach resort is hard to fathom. Those cobbles on th beach are a nightmare.

Farther along to the east and south are sandy beaches, to be converted into resorts for the asking. Some are rapidly building up and presumably will displace Sochi as the Soviet vacation show place.

It won't take half an effort.

LONDON (AP)—Robert Parris, 14, stricken with infantile paralysis at the age of 1 year, has qualified for his Boy Scout first class badge in London.

When the English lad contracted polio, doctors told his parents he never would be able to sit up. Paralyzed from the hips down, he also has the use of only one hand.

But Robert learned to sit up, and taught himself to walk with the aid of leg irons and crutches. He passed the 50-yard swim, knot-tying and star navigation tests. To climax that, he accomplished the eight-mile hike in six hours.

ATHENS (AP) — Constantine Caramanlis, prime minister for eight years, has appealed to his countrymen for four more years in office.

His chances of winning them in Sunday's election seem fairly good. His rightist National Radical Union must win more than half the 300 seats in Parliament. In the outgoing Parliament it held 180 seats.

Caramanlis wound up his campaign Friday.

BAD AUSSEE, Austria (AP) —Underwater television cameras, searching for sunken Nazi treasure in Lake Toplitz, have located a large object near the spot where the body of a diver was found earlier in the week.

Officials said they could not identify the object.

A World War II aerial bomb was also found on the lake bottom. Officials said they would plot any objects in the lake and send down divers.

Meanwhile, a former SS-man, Max Gruber, who had said he witnessed the sinking of 300 crates of valuables and documents in the lake in 1945, told police he fabricated the story.

Tide of Profit Reports In

By ROGER LANE
A PBusiness News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A tide of rosy third - quarter corporate profit reports rolled across the nation's business scene during the week.

By one reckoning, earnings of more than 500 large corporations ran 15 per cent ahead of the 1962 September quarter, and stamped 1963 as a record high year — barring a cataclysmic reversal in the final two months.

They were estimated at an annual rate of about $26.t billion in the July-September period, well above the existing full-year record of $24.6 set in 1962.

Major contributions to the uptrend came from the steel industry, a weak sister last year, and from the automobile, airlines, chemical, electric-electronics groups, and several others.

Giant General Motors Corp., continuing to set a blazing pace, posted an historic earnings high for the first nine months, with profits topping $1 billion. Ford Motor Co. faltered a bit, however.

The earnings surge had many ramifications, including important ones in Washington, where tax cut and budget struggles inched along.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon told the House Ways and Means Committee that healthy business profits helped swell federal tax collections and shrink budgetary deficit prospects.

Dillon said the present outlook is for a $9-billion deficit for the fiscal year ending next June 30, rather than the $11.9-billion deficit anticipated earlier. Tax revenues appear likely to be $1.9 billion higher than last January's estimate, he said.

A note of dissent to widespread optimism over business prospects ahead was struck by department and variety store proprietors. Polled by a trade group, less than one-half looked for better Christmas season sales this year than last.

The pessimists blamed this year's five fewer shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas, and an unseasonably warm autumn.

Assembly lines in the booming auto industry kept running lickety-split. In the busiest week since mid-1955, nearly 184,000 cars were produced.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics in Washington reported the cost-of-living index held steady in September for a second straight month, and said it probably would do so again in October.

Responding partly to lush profit reports, the stock market bounded to another all time high at the start of the week in heavy trading before falling back a bit under profit - taking pressures.

Sales on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 28,722,840, down slightly from the previous week's volume of 30,346,801. Bond sales, however, were up. Volume for the week was $24,624,000 par value as compared with the previous week's total of $21,801,000.

Housewife Spends Night In Rock's Home, Confesses Love

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A 32-year-old housewife, accused of spending the night in the Beverly Hills home of actor Rock Hudson and taking a few souvenirs, says she was in love with him.

Mrs. Dorothy Jean Strashinsky, of Anaheim, Calif., was found guilty of trespassing and petty theft. But the court postponed sentencing Friday pending recommendations of a probation report.

Mrs. Strashinsky said she and her 5-year-old daughter, Deborah, spent the night in Hudson's home last August. She insisted she had received permission from a friend.

The actor was in Georgia at the time.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

CARRIER: The Navy expects to award the contract for the new conventional carrier approved by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara not later than next May.

A spokesman gave this word today when asked about invitation for bids for carrier No. CVA 67. He added that a decision was made some months ago to build the attack carrier in a private yard.

Congress provided funds for building the carrier a year ago. The Navy subsequently asked McNamara to approve an atomic-powered carrier. A week ago he issued orders to go ahead with a standard-powered carrier.

STATUS OF WOMEN: President Kennedy has set up two groups in and out of government to improve the lot of the nation's women.

By executive orders Friday, the President created a citizens advisory council on the status of women and a special interdepartmental committee to coordinate governmental efforts in the field.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz will head the government group.

MOHOLE: Sen. John O. Pastore, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, has suggested that Russia and other nations be invited to take part in Project Mohole.

The Rhode Island Democrat expressed the idea during a Senate Appropriations subcommittee's hearing Friday on a request for funds for the project. Mohole, estimated to cost $68 million, calls for drilling holes deep in the ocean bottom to penetrate the earth's mantle and study its core.

HOME BUILDING: Sales of new one-family houses in August were 59,000—6 per cent lower than in July but 16 per cent above a year earlier.

Statistics released by the Census Bureau and the Housing and Home Finance Agency Friday put the medium price of houses sold in August at $18,200.

No Future for Communist, Turncoat Soldier Relates

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

HONG KONG (AP)—Wrapped up in the slight figure of a bewildered young man is the story of a generation caught in a world of hot and cold war.

It is a story of a young man who thought he had found the answer and discovered that his answer was wrong. Today he has no dreams, no illusions, not even an "ism" to cling to.

He was born the same year as the great world depression. He was 11 when the Nazis invaded his country. He was a teen-ager when World War II ended.

He went to the United States and fought for the United States, tried to be an American and failed to make it. He found frustration, he turned to communism, and found hopelessness.

Albert Belhomme, now 34, is one of those men described by the word turncoat. He was one of a small group of Americans captured in Korea who refused to be repatriated.

He wound up 13 years later in a tiny one-room flat in a run-down hotel in Hong Kong, with his Chinese wife and three children, living on handouts of the Red Cross and the Salvation Army and waiting to be sent to his native land, Belgium.

"I felt myself a sort of idealist," he told me. "I had faith in people. A lot of that has been destroyed. I have not really lost faith in people, but I know now that power is the most corrupting thing in society. I am going to stay away from all political parties from now on. There is no future in it for me."

Belhomme was knocked about by the European war. He wound up in Berlin at 16 when the war ended. A year later his mother took him to the United States and settled in Ashland, Pa.

"I tried to get a job," he said, "but there were obstacles because I was not a citizen, so I took out first papers. Then I heard that you could become a citizen more quickly if you were in the Army, so I joined."

In the summer of 1950 he was shipped to Korea with a field artillery battalion. Belhomme was a corporal by the time he and 11 buddies were captured late in November. They were taken north to a big prisoner camp on the Yalu River.

They were lodged 30 men to a room, so crowded that often they could not lie down. Their food was mostly boiled kernels of corn. They were too weak to bury their dead. They rolled the bodies in mats and laid them in the snow.

Their captors supplied them with reading matter, all political propaganda and mostly Soviet publications. By the time negotiations were under way for prisoner exchanges, conditions got better in the camp, and there was more food.

Belhomme refused repatriation. He had been a prisoner almost three years. The thinking-over period failed to change his mind because he felt he already had gone beyond the point of no return. He had only two choices: home or China.

They took him to Shansi Province, to the town of Taiyuan, where he was taught some basic Chinese and given more political indoctrination. He was put to work in a flour mill as an electrician.

In 1956 he married Hsiu Ying. Then came the children, Billy, Ricky and Leon. But he felt the pressure of the Communist state. Nobody was free to move, free to speak.

Last Aug. 30 he came out of China with his family, "sick and tired of the place."

"The life, the industry, the farms and all the rest did not agree with what I had read . . . The people were apathetic, although active resistance was out of the question. I had been of the opinion that people are basically good and, given a chance could make a go of communism. But it was proven to me that it isn't possible."

Food for Man's Best Friend Prepared By Sedalia Plant

Many Dogs Eat Ration Made Here

By LARRY EMBRY

Dog-loving Americans spend more and more each year to keep their canine chums happy and healthy and a Sedalia firm is a growing midwestern competitorin the industry.

From a two-man start at Versailles in adjoining Morgan Co., the company expanded to quarters here and now employs 10 persons in the mixing and milling of a meal form ration.

Still small by standards of dog food manufacturers who clamor for the dog owner's eye on television and in leading publications, the firm nevertheless markets its product in Missouri, Arkansas, Indiana, Kentucky, Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Nebraska, Ohio, Tennessee and recently added customers in Denver, Colo. and Ogden, Utah.

Co-owners are Gordon Childers and Earl Clift. They began business in March of 1957 at Versailles and came to Sedalia in February, 1959.

"When we first started, one of us would mix the feed while the other was on the road selling," Clift recalled.

Salesmen traveling principally in Missouri and Arkansas now handle the selling and the feed in 5, 25 and 50 pound bags is shipped to customers and retailers throughout the country.

The firm does not manufacture any of the food's ingredients here. Components arrive in bulk form, are mixed in a huge mill, conveyor-belted into a bagging machine and then taken to another machine where the bags are stitched shut.

Exact ingredients of the feed are a guarded secret, but Clift points out the ration contains cereals, rolled and toasted corn, cooked and dehydrated beef, crude proteins, fats and fibers, calcium, phosphorus and 17 vitamins and nutrients. The meal is 78 per cent digestible.

"Our formula was originally started in Georgia," Clift said, "and had over 10 years research before we began using it."

What about table scraps for dogs?

Firing this question at a dog food manufacturer might be expected to touch off a tirade of words but, surprisingly enough, Clift was calm about it.

"A dog that is fed scraps just doesn't get the vitamins and minerals he needs," Clift said.

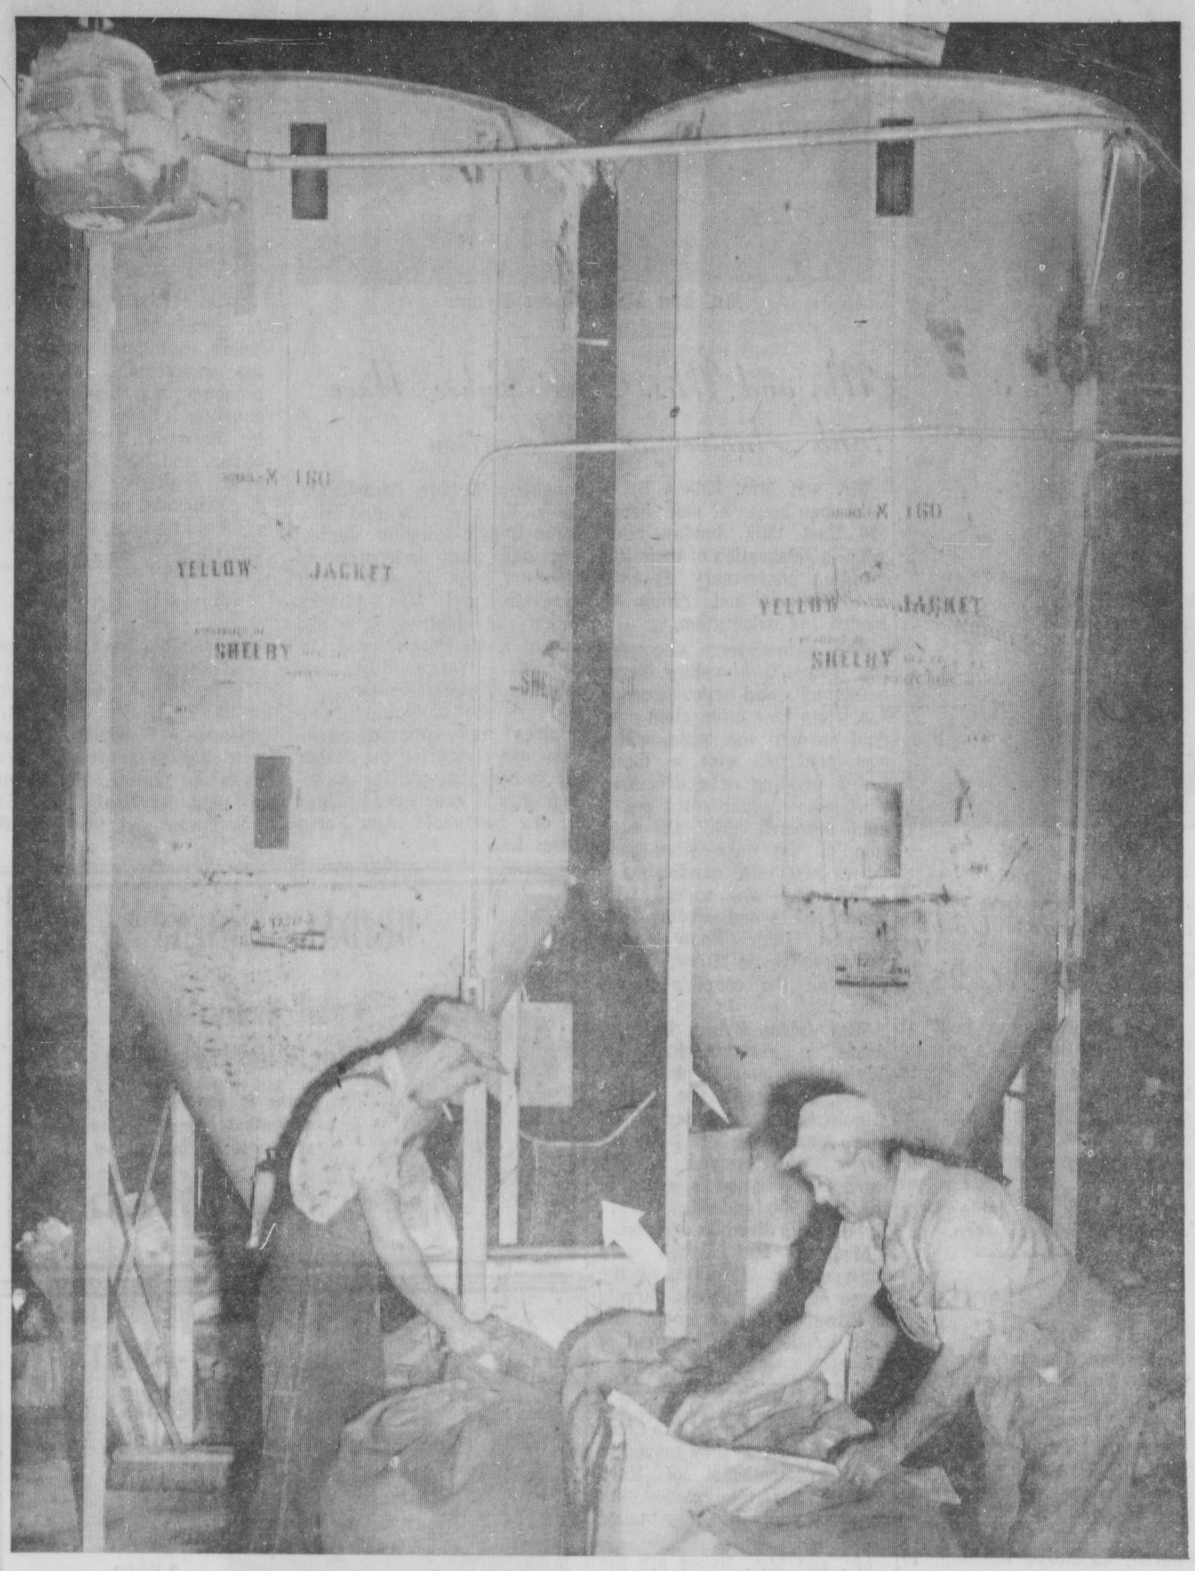
He went on to say that any good dog food is scientifically formulated and a dog fed such a prepared mix normally needs nothing other than water to supplement his diet.

Good nutrition is particularly important for hunting dogs who must work hard under tiring conditions, but Clift relates a poodle kennel is also one of their good customers.

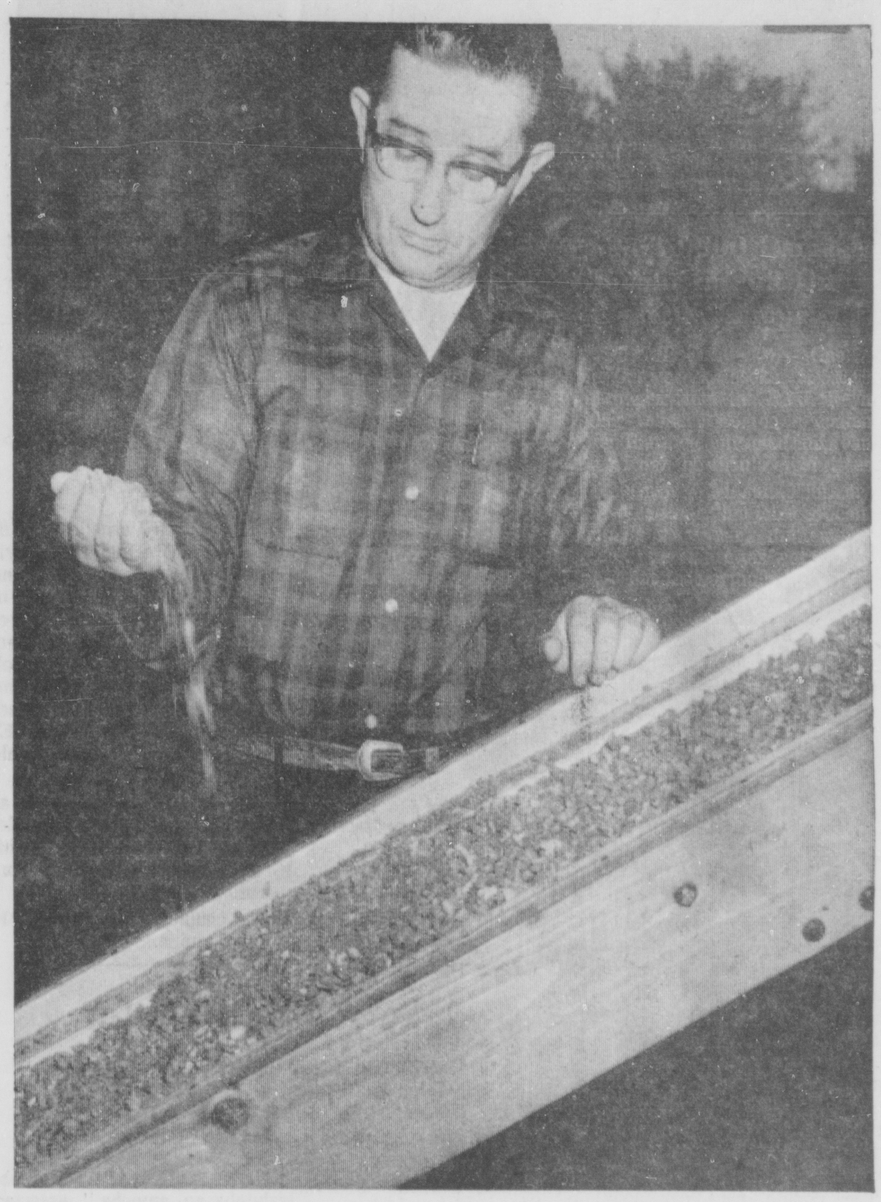
Childers and Clift maintain what might be called a "laboratory" for their feed in four pointer bird dogs, who naturally get only the company's mix as a diet.

Known formally as Ozark's Agrippa Ben, Joy Hayride, Jubilee Belle and Murph's War Admiral, the dogs have accumulated 31 field trial trophies since the fall of 1959.

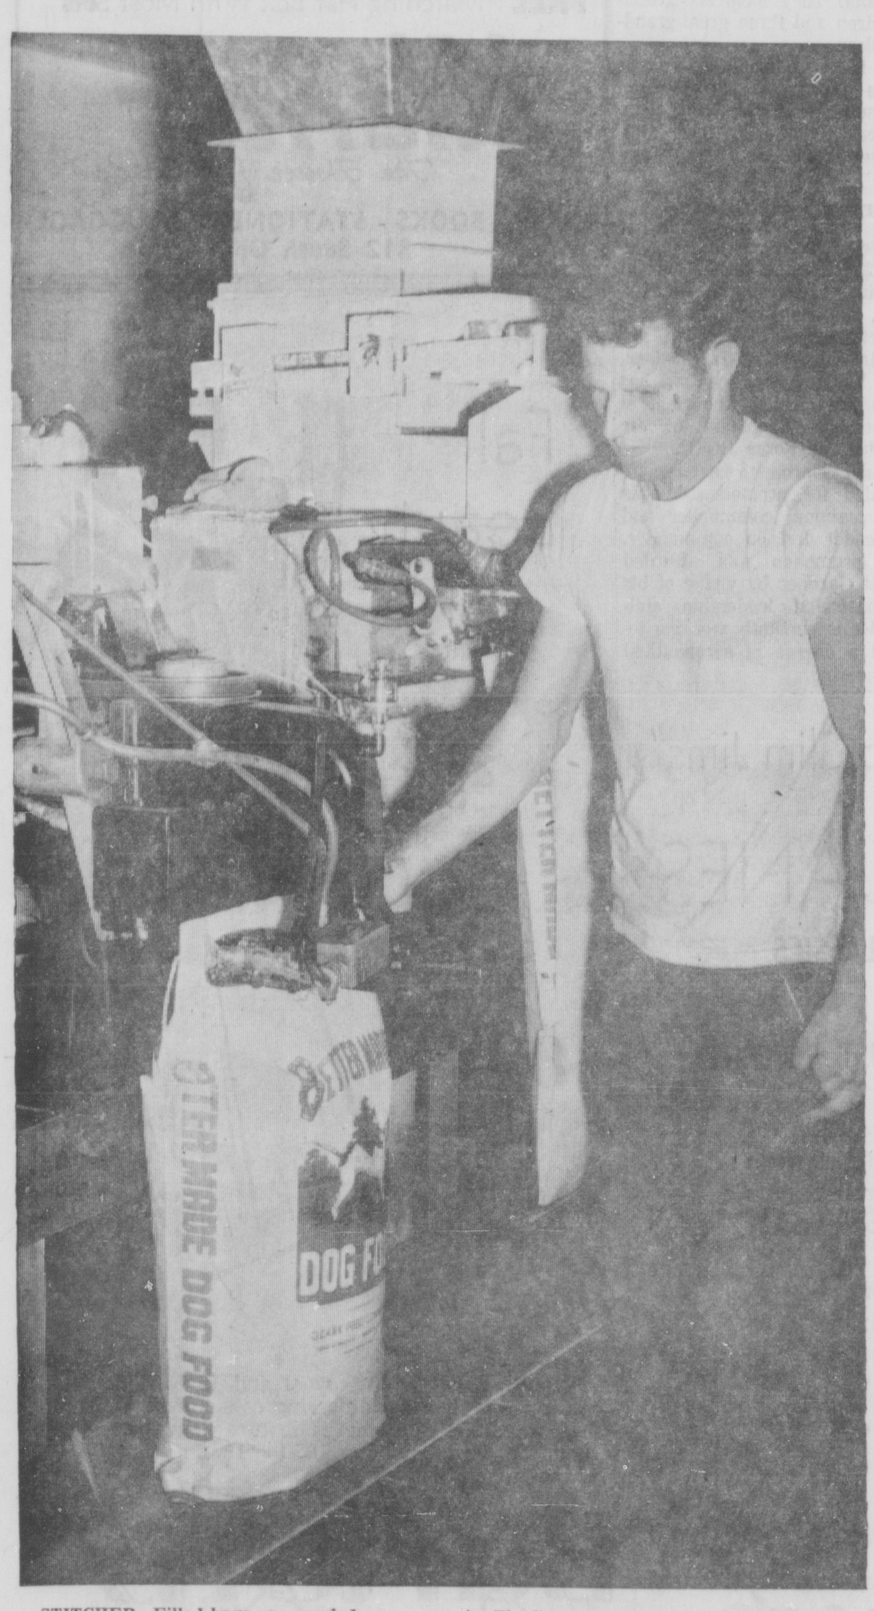
Clift believes the latter dog is his most promising now. A male, just past two years, the dog recently bettered 22 dogs in a field trial at the Sedalia Rod and Gun Club and the following week was third of 20 entries in a trial at Springfield. He is a finished gun dog on quail, pheasant and Hungarian partridge and obeys commands from Clift almost flawlessly.



MIXING MILLS—Ingredients of Ozark Feed Company's dog food are augured into these two huge mills where they are mixed and then moved on to a conveyor belt (designated at center by arrow) where they are carried to a bagging machine. Employees shown here are Jack Kumberg, Versailles, and Clifford North, Pilot Grove.



CONSISTENCY CHECK—Earl Clift, one of Ozark's co-owners, checks the consistency of the dog meal as it flows up a conveyor belt to a bagging machine. The feed must be well mixed so as to look and smell palatable to the dog.



STITCHER—Filled bags are carried on a conveyor belt and employee Lester Petree operates a machine which stitches them shut. The bags are then ready for loading and shipping. Ozark markets its dog meal principally in the midwestern states.

BAGGING DEVICE — This machine, operated by employees, Ralph Naylor and Lester Petree, automatically weighs the amount of feed wanted and drops it into paper bags held beneath its mouth. Being filled here are 50 pound sacks.

FIELD TRIAL TROPHIES—Ozark's owners take an active interest in the field trial circuit and these trophies are a portion of those collected by four dogs owned by the company. Field trials keep one of the owners busy on weekends from September to June.

HEADQUARTERS—Located at 2200 West Main, Ozark Feed Company is one of Sedalia's newer industries. The firm came here from Versailles in February, 1959.

$2,536,000 Damages Sought In Suit On Cigarette Company

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Geo. A. McGraw, 52, seeks $2,536,000 damages from the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. on a contention that he contracted lung cancer from the firm's cigarettees.

McGraw filed suit Thursday, alleging that the tobacco company's advertising matter indicated the cigarettes were harmless but that actually they were not.

The plaintiff said he smoked the company's cigarettes for 30 years at the rate of three packs a day. He contended the cigarettes gave him lung cancer in 1962 and part of one lung was removed.

The first pure nickel coins were minted by Switzerland in 1881.

Mrs. Kenneth T. Hartman

Sharon Kelsay, Kenneth Hartman Trade Wedding Vows in Autumn

The sanctuary of St. Andrews Catholic Church, Tipton, was the setting at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, Oct. 19, for the marriage of Miss Sharon Ann Kelsay and Mr. Kenneth T. Hartman. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Kelsay, Latham, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hartman, Tipton.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert J. Chenoweth. Miss Georgia Schmidt was organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length white satin gown embossed with flowers and sewn with seed pearls on the skirt front. The neckline also was trimmed with embroidered flowers. The back waistline was accented with two white satin rosettes and a half sash. She carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Miss Phyllis Wolf, cousin of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Bridal attendants were Mrs. Jerry Hartman, Manhattan, Kan., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Janice Kelsay, Latham, sister of the bride. They wore apricot taffeta dresses. Their accessories were bronze.

Best man was Mr. Ralph Hartman, brother of the bridegroom. Mr. Jackie Wolf, cousin of the bridegroom, and Lt. Jerry Hartman, Manhattan, brother of the bridegroom, were groomsmen.

Ushers were Mr. Larry McBroom, cousin of the bride, Mr. Sonny Hartman and Mr. Dan Yoest, cousins of the bridegroom, and Mr. Jerry Lutz.

The mother of the bride selected a black jersey dress, pink hat and matching accessories to wear at the wedding. The bridegroom's mother chose a navy blue dress with matching hat and accessories. Each had a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

A reception was held in the church dining hall and a wedding dinner was served in the American Legion hall basement.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Mary Lou Wolf, cousin of the bridegroom. Assisting at the reception and dinner were: Mrs. Robert V. Hirst Jr., Miss Barbara Ketterlin, Mrs. Paul Hirst, Mrs. James Ellison, Miss Sharon Grazier, Miss Janice Wittman, Miss Norma Price, Miss Virginia Hays, Mrs. Earl McCleery, Tipton; Miss Elaine Aeschbacher, Versailles; Miss Marilyn Hibdon, Eldon; and Miss Linda Thomas, Wayland, Iowa.

For traveling, the bride wore a beige ensemble and accessories of bronze. White roses from the bridal bouquet were worn at her shoulder.

The couple will reside in Kansas City, where Mr. Stratman is employed with the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

The bride was graduated from Tipton High School and was employed at Co-Mo Electric in Tipton. The bridegroom, also a Tipton High School graduate, was graduated from Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg.

Policy On Weddings Publication

The following information concerning publication of items on wedding ceremonies is intended to encourage readers to expedite such information to the newspaper's offices as soon after the ceremony as possible.

Wedding items turned in for publication in The Democrat-Capital cannot be accepted for a Sunday edition after two weeks have elapsed, due to the untimeliness of the item. However, such items are accepted for publication in weekday editions with or without a picture for a period of four weeks after the wedding date. A picture will not be published after four weeks.

Pictures for Sunday Society must be in by 12 noon Thursday.

After six weeks have elapsed, wedding ceremony items are no longer considered of significant news value to warrant publication.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hainen, Tipton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Norma Frances, to Mr. Gordon A. McBeath, son of Mrs. Andrew McBeath, Tacoma, Wash., and the late Mr. McBeath. The wedding will take place in January at the Church of All Saints in Puyallup, Wash.

Bintliff-Moore Vows Are Said October 25th

Miss Sharon Vernelle Bintliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bintliff, Roseburg, Ore., and Mr. Jerry Ellen Moore, son of Mrs. Henry Helmers, Sweet Springs, were united in marriage at half past six o'clock Friday evening, Oct. 25, at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Sweet Springs. The Rev. Ross E. Haupt, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

The bride is employed at Bothwell Hospital and the bridegroom is associated with Growth Insurers Holding Corporation.

The couple is at home at 1611 South Lamine.

Character Acting For Van Heflin

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'm absolutely an amoeba," asserted Van Heflin the other day. "It's my survival value."

The sandy-haired stage-screen veteran was explaining the wide role range of his own career and examining the general show business situation.

"I've never played the same part twice," he continued, "and no one has ever said 'This is a Heflin character' like they've said about Cary Grant and Clark Gable."

Heflin touches on such topics in a spirit of candor rather than envy.

"I'm a character actor, always have been, but you've got to be a star to get places."

With this reasoning Heflin for the past half dozen years has been concentrating on film work in Europe.

"Hollywood these days is making very few of the pictures I like to do," he says. "They've got some hot young kinds and keep making films with them."

Heflin now is back on Broadway at the Longacre Theater with the key assignment in "A Case of Libel." The show, and particularly its star, won the kind of notices that should keep the box office thriving for months, which is gratifying to Heflin's wary realism.

"I'm a very practical actor, and having an artistic triumph that's a commercial flop doesn't do you any good, in any phase of show world.

"Believe me, you're shooting dice every time you do a part."

Mrs. Darrel Joe Buso

Miss Dana Smith Exchanges Vows With Darrel J. Buso On Oct. 25

Miss Dana Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dan Smith, Route 3, and Mr. Darrel Joe Buso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Buso, 415 East Harvey, were married at 8 o'clock Friday evening, Oct. 25, at Broadway Baptist Mission. The Rev. R. D. Alsip read the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace with white acetate peau de soie. Miniature seed pearls and sequins highlighted the scalloped front neckline. The bodice dipped to a V at the waistline and flowed into a bouffant pleated skirt. Her veil was of pure silk bridal illusion with a tiara type crown of miniature seed pearls and crystal bead trim. She also wore a single drop pearl necklace and carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and a white lace handkerchief made by her great grandmother. Her slippers were white satin.

Miss Anita J. Kelley, 1680 West 16th, was maid of honor. She wore a baby blue velvet tapered sleeved sheath with blue satin slippers. Her veil was of silk illusion, dyed to match the dress. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Daniel W. Smith, brother of the bride, served the bridegroom as best man.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. White lace covered the bride's table. Centering the table was the wedding cake, decorated with pale yelow roses and a miniature bride and bridegroom. Arranged on the table were yellow rosebuds and fern.

Mr. nad Mrs. Elbert Bybee

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bybee Have 50th Anniversary Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bybee held open house at their home, 520 East 13th, Sunday afternoon in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. Seventy-five relatives and friends attended the celebration.

The rooms were decorated with bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and yellow roses.

A white lace orlon cloth over gold covered the table, which was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow sugar roses and a gold numeral "50." On each side of the cake were gold tapers in crystal candelabra.

The cake was served with punch, mints and nuts by Mrs. Charles Miller, Knob Noster, and Mrs. Wayne Miller, Belton, wives of the couple's grandsons.

Miss Janice Bybee, Independence, a granddaughter, attended the guest book.

Mrs. Bybee is the former Minnie Green, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Green, who resided in Edwards. Mr. Bybee is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bybee, who lived at Fristoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Bybee were married Oct. 22, 1913, at the home of Mrs. Bybee's parents in Edwards. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Hockman of Edwards.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Bybee lived near Edwards, and then moved to Cross Timbers. In 1928 they moved to a farm southeast of Knob Noster, where they resided until six years ago, when they moved to Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. Bybee are the parents of three children, Mrs. Everett (Lorene) Miller, Knob Noster, Lorene Bybee, Independence, and Lowell Bybee, Sedalia. They have six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A family dinner was held at noon Sunday at Holiday Inn. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bybee, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Bybee, son, Tommy, and daughters, Debbie, Pamela and Janie, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Loren Bybee, daughter, Janice, and son, Jim, Independence; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and children, Lyle and Karen, Knob Noster; and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Miller and daughter, Debbie, Belton.

All of the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were there for the dinner and celebration with the exception of one grandson, Rodney Bybee, Barksdale Air Force Base, La.

Mrs. Gary Joe Garrison

Miss Arlene Kay Council Weds Mr. Gary J. Garrison in Fall

In an all white setting of gladioli in baskets, spiral eucalyptus, lighted tapers in an arched brass candelabra and a background of palms, Miss Arlene Kay Council, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Council, Chillicothe, became the bride of Mr. Gary Joe Garrison, son of the Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Garrison, 1305 South Lamine.

The double ring ceremony was read at half past two o'clock Sunday afternoon, Oct. 27, at the First Christian Church in Chillicothe by the Rev. Walter L. Bingham, assisted by the Rev. Garrison.

Pews were marked with white satin bows, centered with white gladioli and spiral eucalyptus.

As guests were seated, Mrs. Tom Reed, organist, played a selection of wedding preludes. Included were: "Panis Angelicus," Franck; "Fantasia," Pacheibel; "Liebestraum," Liszt; "At Dawning," Cadman; and "Chorale," Bsellman.

Miss Virginia Wall, vocalist, sang "Because," d'Hardelot; "O Promise Me," DeKoven, and "Wedding Prayer," Dunlap. She was accompanied by Mrs. Reed.

Wearing a princess gown of white bridal taffeta and Alencon lace, jeweled with pearls and sequins, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Appliqued Alencon re - embroidered lace circled the reverse scoop neckline and extended down the front panel. The sleeves were long and tapered. Controlled in front, the skirt was gathered with fullness at the side and back. From deep unpressed pleats, the skirt fell into a wide chapel train, accented at the waistline by two taffeta roses. A forward rose with Alencon lace petals trimmed in pearls held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom.

For something borrowed, she carried a lace handkerchief arranged in her cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses, lily-of-the-valley pearl sprays and white tulle butterflies, centered with a white Catelleya orchid.

Miss Donna Garrison, Kansas City, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jennie Garrison, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Marietta Council, Barnard, cousin of the bride. Their short dresses of Azure blue satin, were styled with short sleeves and bateaux necklines dipping to deep V's in back. The bell skirts were pleated in back, giving bustle effects and were accented with bows. They wore matching Azure blue satin head rings, featuring bows in front with matching silk illusion veils. Each attendant carried a long stemmed white Butterfly Rose.

Miss Lisa Lyn Tharp was flower girl. Her matching dress and veil were designed like those of the other bridal attendants. Her corsage was of white sweetheart roses. She scattered blue tinted petals from an all lace white basket decorated with blue satin bows and lily-of-the-valley.

Mr. Gary Machholz carried wedding bands to the altar on a white satin pillow trimmed with wide white lace.

Mr. Marvin Rhoads was best man. Groomsmen were Mr. James Reeter and Mr. Warren Woodson. Mr. C. V. McCloughan, Mr. Ed Williams and Mr. Jon Hanson were ushers.

The Saccaro twins, Jim and John, were candlelighters.

Mrs. James Reeter attended the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Council chose a champagne chiffon dress, styled with a short jacket of metallic gold scroll design. Her accessories were gold and her corsage was a beige cymbidium orchid.

Mrs. Garrison, mother of the bridegroom, wore a brocade dress in beige with matching jacket and autumn brown accessories. Her corsage was a beige Cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the community room of the church. White roses were attached to the white satin with net overlay table covering. A silver bowl held white butterfly roses and blue tulle and was flanked with white tapers in tall silver candelabra.

An ornament of doves holding wedding rings was on the sixth tier of the wedding cake which was decorated with white roses, bells and doves. Under the bridal tier, separated by eight inch columns, was a miniature bride and bridegroom at the head of a flight of steps of blue satin ribbon which descended the cake. Mrs. Homer Council, Barnard, aunt of the bride, cut the cake. She was assisted in serving by Miss Janis Tout and Miss Shirley Yuille. Miss Sandra Stilabower served punch.

Assisting at the gift table were Mrs. Ken Deeter, Mrs. Kenneth Ware and Mrs. Harold Harris.

A tiered waterfall in a setting of palms and quartet tables covered in white satin with centerpieces of a candle entwined with blue velvet leaves completed the reception decorations.

Following a two week wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will reside at 505½ Washington, Chillicothe, after Nov. 15. For travel, the bride wore a beige wool sheath with a touch of leopard trim and matching leopard hat and purse. She wore a white Catelleya orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder.

Wedding guests from Sedalia were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Kroenke, grandparents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Dillingham, Robert Kroenke, Mr. and Mrs. James Bozarth and Kathleen, Mr. and Mrs. Billy G. Thomas and Becky, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman L. McMenany, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hammond and children.

Mrs. W. W. Woodson, Mrs. Howard Barnhart, Mrs. W. F. Chandler, Mrs. Lloyd Machholz, Mrs. William L. Tharp and Mrs. Sam Babb entertained for the bride at a miscellaneous shower in the Colonial Room of the Strand Hotel, Chillicothe.

The honoree opened gifts in a setting of white wrought iron furniture, wedding bells and an oriental tree.

Guests were served at quartet tables centered with nosegays of baby chrysanthemums on gold doilies. Corsages were presented the honoree, her mother and Mrs. Garrison.

The gift table was decorated with a white net umbrella with small yellow flowers and bows. The white linen covered serving table was centered with an arrangement of bronze and yellow pompon chrysanthemums, bittersweet and miniature cattails in a crystal bowl flanked by gold spiral candles in matching candlelabra.

Mrs. Rex Edwards

Miss Lois Jean Holsten Marries Mr. Rex Edwards at Cole Camp

The Rev. Marvin H. Remmers read the double ring ceremony uniting Miss Lois Jean Holsten in marriage to Mr. Rex Edwards at seven o'clock Saturday evening, Oct 19, at St. Paul's American Lutheran Church, Cole Camp.

Altar arrangements consisted of white crysanthemums. Two six-branch candelabra completed the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harlan Hazlett, Cole Camp, and the late Otto Holsten. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Andy Edwards, Branson.

Wedding selections were played by Miss Betty Viebrock, cousin of the bride.

Escorted to the altar by her step-father, Mr. Harlan Hazlett, the bride wore a blue wool dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of white chrysanthemums.

Miss Sharon Loman, Windsor, was maid of honor.

Mr. Kenneth Holsten, brother of the bride, was best man.

Candles were lighted by Miss Vera Eckhoff and Miss Ellen Bauer.

Mr. Robert Holsten, brother of the bride, was usher.

A reception was held in the church basement after the ceremony. A two-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table. Miniature wedding bells and a bridal couple in miniature decorated the cake. Encircling the cake base were roses.

After returning from a trip to the South, the couple is at home at 220 Seminary, Kansas City, Kan.

Engagement

The engagement of Miss Patsy Mathew to Mr. James W. Prather, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Prather, North Kansas City, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Mathew, Windsor.

Miss Mathew is a graduate of the University of Missouri where she was a member of Mortar Board, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Pi Lambda Theta, Gamma Sigma Delta and PEO. She is a teacher in North Kansas City.

Mr. Prather is a graduate of William Jewell College, Liberty, where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and Beta Beta Beta. He is employed in the agricultural chemical department of Consumers Cooperative Association.

Presidential Trip Costs A Big Issue

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody knows for certain how many people are involved in making sure a President moves safely and swiftly on his flying, out-of-town trips.

Nobody can even guess how much they cost. Hundreds, maybe thousands, if individuals have some part, mostly minor, in the complex preparations.

If the trip is long enough, thousands, maybe hundreds of thousands, of dollars can be charged to the trip if all tasks, and the salaries of those who performed them, are included

But how can you calculate the total cost of sending not one, but two, mammoth jets on each trip?

Or of seven plush, air-conditioned, twin-jet helicopters?

Despite this lack of information—or maybe because of it—presidential trips will be a 1964 campaign issue.

Already the cry has gone up, even before the Republican hopefuls have had a chance for early spring tryouts.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the Republican national chairman, said resident Kennedy's recent, so-called conservation trip through the West was "an out-and-out campaign tour," and so the Democrats should pick up the tab.

"He is grossly abusing his prerogatives," Miller said. "I must vehemently protest."

Because vehement protests will continue, and because these trips in themselves have become a remarkable study in jet age logistics, let's look at what happens when a resident goes visiting.

Perhaps we should observe the finished product first.

Any stop would do, but President Kennedy's brief visit to the new Whiskeytown Dam in Northern California is a good, and spectacular, example.

One by one the helicopters flap in, clumsy as seabirds trying a beach landing, but lining up neatly on the top of the huge dam.

After an appropriate pause, President Kennedy, looking casual, steps from the No. 1 chopper.

No matter how often you have seen it, no matter whether it's in a major city or a small town, no matter whether he comes by helicopter, jet liner or limousine, a President's arrival is always impressive.

A huge effort has gone into making certain this moment goes off without a hitch.

Long before the trip is announced, the White House staff and party leaders size up hundreds of requests for presidential time.

As the election creeps nearer the President will want more exposure, for himself, for his programs, for Democratic candidates, especially in states with large electoral votes.

Once a trip is mapped out, the hard work starts.

Presidential pilots go out to practice landings at unfamiliar airports.

Secret Service men worry over potential trouble spots.

Advance men from the White House and Democratic headquarters check schedules, try to keep the would-be dignitaries to hand-shakable proportions, offer suggestions for boosting the size of the crowd.

Everywhere the President goes, he has a White House switchboard set up, ready for any emergency. If he moves into remote areas, extra lines or microwave equipment provide additional long distance circuits.

Around 50 newspaper, radio and television reporters traipse after the President. Their combined telephonic and telegraphic demands won't begin to match those of the touring White House.

Here in the capital things also start popping in advance of a presidential tour.

Ghost writers churn out speeches they suspect Kennedy will throw away as he approaches the podium.

The efficient White House transportation staff arranges for baggage pickups, hotel rooms and 100 other details.

Each reporter on the Western trip was billed $1,011.06, his share in the cost of the chartered planes. The combined bill was about $55,000.

Kennedy traveled in similar, but fancier, planes. He also had a backup plane tagging along in case his developed any bugs. He frequently used helicopters, often brought in from great distances.

Obviously there is no way to figure complete costs on any such excursion. They would be meaningless even if available. For much of the expenses would run on even if Kennedy never left Washington.

On outright political tours the party pays out-of-pocket costs, and in a jet age these can be enormous.

In mid-October, 1962, Kennedy was on a political tour that was cut short by the Cuban crisis. Instead of going on to the West Coast, Kennedy turned back at Chicago.

Even this comparatively short trip cost the Democrats $10,026.72 for the jet and $467.67 for the helicopter.

Ann Landers

Answers Problems Your

Dear Ann Landers: Last June our son went with the rest of his senior high school class on a trip to Upper Michigan. On the trip Irving met a girl from a Detroit high school.

She gave him a line about how she had fallen in love with him at first sight and that he was the nicest, most attractive, most fascinating fellow she had ever met.

When Irving got home he was in a daze—bumping into doors, not hearing his name called—and so on. He told me he was in love and this was the only girl in the whole world for him.

Irving has since written her twelve letters and she has not answered one. He even wrote to her parents telling how lovely she is.

Now he wants to go to Detroit to see her. All he has is her address. I'm afraid he will get lost because he has never been out of Flint alone. Should we let him go and get lost or what? He has a job and has saved his own money. Please advise at once. —BESIDE MYSELF.

Dear Beside: Let him go. Some people must get their lumps the hard way. The girl will probably tell Irving to get lost but a high school graduate should be able to find his way back to Flint from Detroit.

When the boy returns don't ask him a single question. He'll appreciate your leaving him alone.

Dear Ann Landers: My uncle and aunt are both in their middle 60's. Uncle Alf retired two years ago. They are not poor people, Ann, in fact they are better off than most of the family. The first thing they did was to sell their home and move into a one-room apartment. They've been at home exactly seven weeks out of the last two years. The rest of the time they have mooched off relatives.

Everyone in the family is sick of their sponging. Their only expenses are gas and oil. They have never bought a pound of hamburger or an orange. Not once have they offered to take anyone to eat in a restaurant. They never bring a gift when they arrive or send a thank you letter when they get home.

We have had them here twice—for six weeks at a time and to day we received a letter saying they will be with us for Christmas. I am ready to flip my wig. What can we do?—BITTERLY RESENTFUL.

Dear Bitterly: If you allow these parasites to invade your home a third time you deserve them.

Write the free-loaders and tell them you are not to having guests this year and that you will let them know when the situation changes.

Dear Ann Landers: I have had two children out of wedlock. My girl is three and my boy is two. I am now happily married and my husband is a wonderful father to the children. He has never once thrown my past up to me.

We can't afford to have the children's name changed legally now because we owe a lot of bills and are trying to get our credit rating back in good shape.

The children have never known any father but the one they have now. I would hate to tell them about my life. But what will I say when they ask me why their last name is not the same as mine? Please advise me.—ESTELLA.

Dear Estella: Your children's last name should have been changed along with yours the day you married—at least socially. It costs nothing to call your children by your husband's name, and I hope you will begin to do so right now. You can have the legal changes made later.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosign a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

1,100 Families Invited To Extension Meal

The ninth annual Family Night, sponsored by Moniteau County Home Economics Extension Club Council will be held Nov. 7 at California High School. A turkey supper will be served at 7 p.m. in the high school gymnasium. The awards program will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

According to custom, each home economics extension club is responsible for baking a turkey, preparing the dressing and gravy.

Invitations have been sent to 1,100 families. Reservations are to be sent to the University Extension Center as soon as posible.

Upon arrival at the high school, guests may go to the auditorium where Don Burkel, farm forrester, will show films. Junior 4-H leaders and members of the Show-Me 4-H Club will greet guests at the door, while members of the Missouri University Extension Council will act as hosts and hostesses.

Twin City Garden Club, California, and Grow and Glow Garden Club, Tipton, have been invited to provide decorations for the stage and tables. Each extension club is responsible for assisting with the arrangements of putting food on the table or cleaning up. 4-H clubs have been asked to assist with various activities.

During the awards program, 4-H club leaders who have served five years will be recognized. Members of 4-H who have completed the year's work will receive award pins. The 4-H Key Award given by Cities Service Oil Company will be made to two 4-H club members by Charles Munson, Jefferson City. County medals, under the National Awards Program, will be presented.

Files Income Tax Lien Against Clerk

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The federal government has filed an income tax lien against Jackson County Circuit Clerk John McFadden of Kansas City.

The lien, filed in the Jackson County recorder's office, alleges McFadden owes $1,122.21 in 1962 income taxes. McFadden said Thursday night he knows nothing of the lien.

Lamas Still Happy With Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Why can't actors be less emotional and more professional?" asks Fernando Lamas, returned from two years of movie-making in Europe.

"When I went to Rome two years ago, it was filled with American actors who couldn't get work in Hollywood," said the Argentine-born star. "Most of them were handing out the same line of talk — Hollywood was dead, it was going to be a ghost town, never again would it be the movie capital of the world.

"Now I am back in Hollywood and the same actors are here now. They are saying that Rome is dead as a movie center, the working conditions there are miserable for actors, they never will go back.

"I just read such an interview with an actor who shall be nameless. He was the same actor I met at Jeffrey Hunter's pool a year ago in Rome and he was saying that Rome was absolute heaven!"

The Lamas point is this: "Why do actors have to blast a place just because they can't get work there? Doctors, lawyers and architects aren't so unprofessional."

Lamas was frank in discussing the reason he left Holllywood: Work was scarce for him here. He went first to Spain, where he starred in "The Magic Fountain." He also directed the film, something he could not get a chance to do here.

He moved on to Rome, where he made four films, including "The Avenger", and "d'Artagnan." The Roman industry has slowed down but is far from going out of business, he reported.

"It's simply a matter of overproduction," he said. "They made 275 pictures in Rome last year. That is far too many, and a lot of the pictures can't get playing time in Italy. Naturally the money men started to back off because of the over-supply."

Lamas explained the reason for his return to Hollywood:

"I can live anywhere. I am in the peculiar position of having been born in South America, educated in Europe and having worked much of my life in this country. I find that I am happiest here. I suppose that is because I have spent most of my adult years here—the most important part of a man's life. And, although I have had some upsets, personal and otherwise, I have had my greatest success in Hollywood."

Demanding Job for Men Who Man Vehicles in Space

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Each weekday morning at 8:15 America's astronauts assemble in a conference room at the Manned Spacecraft Center here and compare notes on developments in the Gemini and Apollo man-in-space programs.

"Major purpose of these meetings is to permit the astronauts to report and exchange views on latest happenings in the specialty area assigned each man," explained astronaut Frank Borman, 35-year-old Air Force major.

"For instance, I might submit a memorandum on the status of the Gemini Titan 2 launch vehicle," said Borman, whose special assignment covers booster rockets and booster abort systems.

Astronaut Neil Armstrong, 33, civilian and former X-15 rocket plane pilot commented:

"It's rare when all 16 of us attend one of these morning meetings. Because of our special tasks and other commitments, some of us usually are visiting manufacturing plants or training centers around the country. Those who miss a meeting are filled in later."

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — AP SPECIAL REPORT

Armstrong, whose specialty is to monitor development and use of trainers and flight simulators, and Borman were among the nine astronauts named last fall to join the seven Project Mercury space pilots in training for the two-man Gemini flights and the Apollo man-on-the-moon project. Additional astronauts have just been named to the pool.

In interviews, Armstrong and Borman discussed the astronaut training program which eventually may culminate in several of them landing on the moon.

Neither is discouraged by the lengthy delay in the Gemini program, where technical difficulties have postponed the first manned flight more than a year until late 1964. As in any revolutionary program of this sort, delays can be expected, they said.

"The additional time means we'll be much better trained," Borman said. "You can never overtrain for something like this."

The Gemini and Apollo preparation is much more sophisticated than that for Mercury.

"We must accept the fact," explained Borman, "that the missions which will concern us in the next decade will not be designed solely for the purpose of demonstrating man's capability to function in space. As a result of the Mercury experience, the pilot in both the Gemini and Apollo missions will have a more demanding role."

The Gemini astronauts, he said, must train to rendezvous and dock their spacecraft with other orbiting satellites and to conduct complex engineering and scientific exeriments. Eventually, one of the two Gemini pilots is expected to step outside his spacecraft to see what it's like more than 100 miles above the earth protected only by a space suit.

Apollo will have the even more exacting pilot tasks of navigating to the moon, steering to a lunar touchdown and conducting a launching from the moon's surface.

Because of the increased scope of future missions, classroom work plays an important role in the training.

"We cover many things in the classroom," Borman reported. "Physics of the upper atmosphere, astronomy, selenology (geology of the moon), navigation, computers, space medicine, meteorology, the stars, communications, spacecraft guidance, aerodynamics, propulsion and others."

Armstrong estimated the training and study programs keep the astronauts away from their Houston homes 50 to 60 per cent of the time.

Armstrong and Borman said they felt all the astronauts would like to be on the first Gemini flight, primarily because it is the United States' next manned mission. But Armstrong summed up the feelings of the others.

"I'd like to be on any Gemini or Apollo flight. The flight schedules are such that every flight will be unbelievably interesting. We'll be doing so many new things on each flight that none will be dull or less desirable than another.

"But any flight will be sort of like frosting on the cake. The groundwork and homework we are doing today are just as important as making the flight. Without it, no flight would succeed."

World News In Brief

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican Republic's ruling junta says an air force officer has confessed plotting to overthrow the regime and that the plotters expected U. S. backing.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said the report of U.S. involvement was "absurd and ridiculous."

The government said it had arrested four persons including Lt. Col. Danilo Simo Cano, commander of the Santiago air force base 75 miles northwest of Santo Domingo.

The junta, which took over after the military ousted President Juan Bosch Sept. 25, said the plotters planned to install Dr. Juan Casasnovas, the president of the now-dissolved Senate, as president.

LONDON (AP) — Britain has refused to grant early independence to British Guiana and ordered new elections held in the South American territory beset by tension and violence between its Negro and East Indian populations.

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A jobless South Korean father of two small children burned himself to death today beside the Han River in Seoul.

Police said Song Chun-sup, 42, was estranged from his wife. They assumed he committed suicide because he was having trouble supporting himself and his children.

S-H Freshmen Victors In Activity Drive

Sacred Heart Freshmen were the victors in the activity drive which ended Monday morning. They sold an average of $4.77 per student. Their candidate, Marilyn Bone, will be crowned queen at the Homecoming game.

Sacred Heart students will have a holiday Monday as the teachers attend their annual meeting in Jefferson City.

The Student Council sponsored a casual dance Friday evening in the cafeteria. The event featured a popular band and was well attended by the student body.

Sacred Heart will play Calhoun in the second game of the season Tuesday evening. The game, featuring "B" and Varsity ball, will be played at Calhoun.

Sedalia on Borrowed Time

Nine days, remain as time passes quickly, before Sedalians will decide November 12 on a community betterment project—a bond issue for sewage treatment plants.

If any citizen is unaware of what this is all about, then it isn't because of unsupplied information. Every facet of the pollution problem and the means to correct it have been publicized by all news media, city officials, and the Citizens Sewer Bond committee headed by the Rev. Walter Arnold, whose integrity in support of this proposal, as well as that of Mayor L. L. Studer, cannot be stultified by unconscientious critics.

In the bond issue proposal the public is not witness to an act of legerdemain like pulling a rabbit out of a hat all of a sudden. Corrective measures for overloaded sewage treatment plants are long overdue.

The bond issue is simply the culmination of discussion about this condition which started years ago. It was recognized as becoming critical four years ago after an examination by the State Pollution Board and the placing of Sedalia on a temporary operational permit under terms that the city officials would start corrective measures.

At that time, in 1959, former Councilman Paul Hausam, in open council stated: "I have known it was coming, but I didn't know when. Now it is here . . . Eventually a bond issue will have to be voted for the purpose of renewing and bringing these plants all up to date. They must be expanded and built to carry the load."

With approval of council, first steps were taken then by Mayor Abe Silverman to employ an engineering firm to bring a 1956 survey up to date.

So, in this matter, Sedalia has been running on borrowed time in operation of its disposal plants.

The Missouri Water Pollution Board is no longer in a mood to extend indefinitely permits to operate our plants. The penalties are plain and have been fully explained in publicity during recent weeks.

It seems ridiculous to presume that Sedalians will disregard and procrastinate any longer over this matter of public health of such vital concern to its own people as well as neighbors in the county through which the polluted streams flow. The neighbors have been tolerant. They cannot be expected to remain so forever without recourse to the courts for damages.

The issue seems plain enough.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Senators Will Keep Lid On Sex Angle

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The staid rules committee senators now probing the Bobby Baker case are sitting on a Pandora's box as far as sex is concerned. And they are determined not to open it up.

In the Pandora's box are the stories of high jinx not only on Capitol Hill but in high places on Pennsylvania Avenue.

One lady of the evening has given investigators a statement about pandering and partying with Capitol Hill playboys. Another has described girlie parties in the marbled back rooms of the capitol building. But this will be off-limits to the Senate rules committee.

It will pry into Bobby Baker's ramified financial transactions. But it will not discover any American counterpart of Dr. Stephen Ward, who supplied ladies to Britishers in high places.

The only possible peek into Pandora's box will be regarding the affairs of Ellen Rometsch, the striking brunette beauty who hustled back to her native Germany after the FBI started an investigation. But even here the senators don't plan to let their curiosity blow up into a Profumo scandal.

Taxicab Rounder

This column, however, can report some of the facts regarding the intriguing German girl who has Washington society buzzing.

It was Ellen's loose tongue that got her into trouble. She boasted to other girls about her intrigues with White House aides, senators, and congressmen. The possibility that she might have been pumping them for information brought the FBI on her trail.

In a signed statement, she swore to the FBI that her loose talk was untrue, that she had never romanced any big-name politicians.

This column's own investigation, however, uncovered daily visits to the fashionable apartments and hotels that are frequented by politicians.

Checking with the taxi drivers who picked her up, this column learned that she left her home around noon every day for some plush place. She would return in the later afternoon, pick up her four-year-old son at the Piedmont day school, then go out again in the evening.

Taxi records show that she usually was delivered to the River House, a stone's throw from the Pentagon; the Towers, on Cathedral Avenue; the Berkshire, on Massachusetts Avenue; or the Hill House apartments, near the Capitol. Less frequently, she would ask to be driven to the Carrolll Arms, near the Senate office buildings; the Congressional, near the House office buildings; DuPont Plaza, Shoreham, Sheraton-Park, and Statler Hotels, which are near the White House.

Ellen's estranged husband, Sgt. Rolf Rometsch, has stated that they were so hard up it was necessary for Ellen to work on the side as a model. But her side work netted the German brunette enough to buy the most expensive furs, jewelry, gowns, furniture and drapes. She even purchased a sleek Thunderbird for her husband, though she always traveled by taxi herself.

Once a week, a maid picked up her laundry and taxied to the nearest laundromat to do the washing.

Too much prying into Ellen Rometsch's frolics, senators fear, might also show up the drinking and gambling among congressmen. This is not excessive, but it does exist.

In Marble Surroundings

Poker was in its heyday in the era of "Cactus" Jack Garner, who during his many years as a congressman, speaker, and then vice president is reported to have won a million dollars at the poker table. The story sounds fantastic, but those who played with him say it's possible.

The remnants of the Garner poker club still hold forth, from time to time, though the stakes are not as high as when Harry S. Truman, Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois, Speaker John McCormack of Boston, and Sen. Clint Anderson of New Mexico gathered round the table. The club did not, however, mix women with poker.

There is still a secret closet in the vice president's room just off the Senate where Vice President Garner took a nip before presiding over the Senate. Lyndon Johnson shows it with amusement to friends, but does not use it.

However, drinking has become much more open around the Capitol. Liquor is trundled by hand truck through the corridors to the reception room in the new Sam Rayburn addition before receptions. There was a time when liquor was barred in the Capitol, and even today the ABC liquor board refuses liquor licenses within a block of marble, golden drapes, and glittering of the Capitol building. This dates back to the public reaction to Daniel Webster, who was usually as potted as a palm when he spoke on the Senate floor.

Bobby Baker, now under investigation, used to keep a plentiful supply of bourbon in his office. And here, in a stately setting of marble, golden drapes, and glittering chandeliers, senators relax.

It should be noted, however, that most senators work hard and are goood family men. There are a few about whom their secretaries warn new stenographers: "Get track shoes, the boss is amorous." And there are some who entertain amorously in their private offices or in downtown apartments.

But not many. In the House of Representatives the age is lower and the ratio of love-making higher. The statistics, whatever they may be, however, will not be published. The Senate rules committee will see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil, as far as sex is concerned.

The Doctor Says

Drug for Migraine Good, But Some Can't Use It

by Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — My doctor has prescribed Cafergot for my migraine headaches. If I take the drug as soon as the blurred vision starts, it seems to prevent vomiting. What are the side effects of this drug?

A — The tablets you are taking are a combination of caffeine and ergotamine. This is an excellent remedy for migraine if you keep it handy and take it early in an attack. Such occasional use would not be likely to cause any side effects, but this drug should not be used by those who are pregnant or who have high blood pressure, coronary heart disease, or a disease of the blood vessels, liver or kidneys.

Q — I am 45. Lately I have noticed blood spots in the skin all over my body. What causes them and what should I do?

A — Blood spots such as you have may be due to many causes. If they itch they could be due to the bite of fleas, chiggers or other insects. A great variety of drugs including headache pills are often to blame. Purpura, a deficiency of vitamin C, and some forms of anemia may be the cause. Have your doctor determine the cause and the question of what to do should be easy.

Q — I am a woman, age 47. My doctor says the skin trouble I've had for the last two years is parapsoriasis. What causes it and what can be done for it?

A — You have a disease that is very hard to cure. The silver lining on the cloud is that the lesions are usually painless and they will not affect your general health. The cause is unknown.

Q — What causes a coated tongue that makes my mouth taste sour when I get up in the morning?

A — If your tongue is coated you haven't been eating enough solid food such as unpeeled raw apples, raw carrots and hard toast. Doctors no longer look at the tongue routinely to determine what kind of a diagnosis to make. For the unpleasant taste in your mouth, try brushing your teeth on arising. Brush your tongue, too, if you can do it without gagging. You might also try a mouthwash.

Q — Would drinking beer help to cure ulcers or a nervous stomach? I'm not sure which I have, but I think it may be ulcers.

A — Your first step should be to have your doctor determine the cause of any distress you may have in the stomach region. Guesswork never pays. If you have an ulcer you should definitely lay off alcoholic drinks. If you have a nervous tomach, have your doctor treat the nervousness and the stomach will take care of itself. There, are, however, many other causes for uneasiness below the ribs.

Q — My son is nearsighted and has to have an eye examination every year. Is there any danger that the drops used to dilate his pupils will cause cataract?

A—No.

His Power

In Capernaum the sick He healed,
The hungry did He feed,
All His great power he revealed
To those who were in need;
He raised the dead, to crowds He preached
His blessings they received
Because into their hearts He reached
In His power they believed;
But this was where He was not known
And miracles He wrought,
Through miracles His fame had grown—
The things He did and taught,
From faith His miracle had come—
The touch of His garment's hem
Had brought the miracles to some
By the simple faith of them;
In Nazareth where as a lad
He walked the streets and played
Where He had worked with His Dad
Learning the carpenter's trade—
Nazareth, his own home town,
How much good could He do,
This prophet who had gained renown,
For people whom He knew,
Neighbors who were old and ill,
Friends who were in need,
With eagerness His heart did fill,
How wonderful, indeed,
How wonderful to see them all
And heal the sick or grieved,
But He found they had built a wall
For they had not believed;
The carpenter's son — no phophet he,
This boy they all had known,
Certain the miracles could not be,
There was scoffing in their tone—
They had no faith in Him and so
No crowds around him swarmed,
And as about the town He'd go
No miracles performed;
For lo, faith had been His power
And this they did not feel,
So He was helpless at this hour
To comfort and to heal;
And strangely it is true today,
He cannot bring relief
Less we completely give away
In our sincere belief;
He cannot smooth the troubled brow,
Nor lighten any task,
Unless in prayer our heads we bow
And humbly, in faith, ask.

FINDING THE WAY

Let's Mind Our Tongues

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There are two boys in jail, but they are not the only ones who should have been apprehended. The two young residents of Birmingham murdered a 13-year-old lad who was riding his bicycle. This senseless act of violence shocks the sensibilities of citizens everywhere. And why did it happen? Apparently the boys had been in attendance at a meeting where adults ranted and raved, mouthing murderous words which these adolescents now linked with action.

Jesus had strong words for such persons. He spoke of the need of a trusting faith and then added, "Whoever causes one of these little ones to stumble it would be better for him to have a millstone fastened around his neck and to be drowned in the depth of the sea . . . In the nature of things there must be pitfalls, yet alas for the man who is responsible for them."

Remembering this tragedy, it would be easy — too easy — to point the finger of accusation. The truth is that every person needs to consider personal conversation and table talk. When a family discusses the possibility of a change of neighbors, or the social situation of a school, or the new developments in a place of business, let that family understand the importance of words. Table talk is important talk.

Some of us grew up in homes where there was a self-imposed censorship—"At this table we don't talk like that." And that was that!

Now, years later, there comes the memory of that inner discipline. When someone says, "I can't help it, that's the way I feel," and exposes all manner of hatred, it's an admission that he is a victim of his own self. There is the haunting memory of a father saying, "At this table we don't talk like that."

When the Psalmist said, "Thy word have I hid in my heart," he was speaking of a word of holiness. He was a healthier man than that person who treasures some senseless grudge, which erupts and causes others to do violence.

What happens to two 16-year-olds is the responsibility of the courts. Yet this is also the responsibility of the whole of society. The death of that 13-year-old is the result of maddening hatred and emotional irresponsibility. Our very freedoms demand responsibility, especially when we talk. Especially when we talk at our own tables with our own families!

The Mature Parent

Doormat or Realist?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My oldest child, Sherry, is making herself into a doormat for another girl who lives on our block. Once this girl left a note in our letterbox addressed "To the Thief Sherry" accusing Sherry of stealing a box of chalk. She plays with her when she has nobody else, but if she can get another playmate to go over to her house, she tellls Sherry to go home. They are both 8. What worries me is that Sherry will complain when this girl hurts her. Yet as soon as my back is turned, she is over at her house playing with her again.

Answer: Maybe the advantages of this friendship outweigh its disadvantages.

If so, Sherry isn't a doormat. She's a sensible little girl. If we all discarded friends who hurt our feelings occasionally, we would be pretty lonely people. All you know about are the disadvantages. Isn't it possible that her friend possesses an inventiveness in games, a generosity with toys and other qualifications unknown to you which compensate Sherry for the occasional hurts?

We are unwise, I think, to quickly conclude that children are afraid to resist another's occasional mistreatment because they overlook it.

Before we are entitled to conclude that this playmate has turned Sherry into a doormat, we should, I think, take a long look at her other relations. How does she get on with your younger children? Does she allow them to bully her? How does she deal with treatment by you that she considers unfair? Does she protest it? When you withdraw approval of her, does she sustain it—or does she become agitated and try to ingratiate herself with you?

If she makes a general habit of meekly submitting to everybody who hurts her, then we indeed may have a doormat on our hands—and a cause for serious concern.

But if she doesn't, then we may have a special case of realistic and tolerant friendship on our hands.

Polly's Pointers

Multi-Purpose Bag

by POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—Mine is a tip for girls planning a trip. I recently flew to the West Indies and was traveling light. I omitted the evening bag mentioned in lists of "what to take." Invited to a private home for dinner, I did not want to leave my passport and travelers' checks in my room nor could I see myself arriving with big black leather bag slung over one shoulder. I used my new white and gold cosmetic bag that has a zipper top and two handles. It held passport, checks, compact and room key. It served a dual purpose and worked beautifully.—E.N.S.

GIRLS — E.N.S.'s ingenuity is typical of that of our readers. I have a plaid cosmetic bag that would go with any number of dresses and never thought of this possibility for extra use. When planning a trip, the selection of such a plastic-lined bag could be made with this idea in mind.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—To keep paper sacks in correct order, by size, I stick them in an old record album holder. I can see the size at a glance and never have to search through a pile to find the sack I want.—C.S.

DEAR POLLY—Carry a piece of reflective tape in the glove compartment of your car. If one of your head lamps burns out make a cross of the tape over the dead lamp until you can get to a repair station. The reflective tape will enable oncoming drivers to tell where you are and may avoid a head-on crash.—Mrs. I.B.

GIRLS—Don't let this good emergency idea cause you to pass the first station where a lamp can be bought.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When I buy a package of bacon it is usually soft by the time I get home from the store. Before storing it in the refrigerator, I divide the slices into twos and fours and wrap separately in waxed paper. Then I can reach for a packet from the refrigerator and toss into the skillet for a fast breakfast. There are no broken pieces such as used to result from trying to pull apart a hard lump of sliced bacon.—C.F.

DEAR POLLY—When washing plastic shower curtains or plastic tablecloths, I always add a cup of vinegar to the rinse water. The plastic dries soft and pliable and looks just like new.—MRS. H M.

DEAR POLLY—Mine is a timesaving bath tip for young mothers. When folding laundry for baby, make separate groupings of clean clothes. Place a diaper, nightgown, shirt and blanket together in a drawer. At bath time, a complete clean wardrobe is available in seconds —MISS R.C.

What They Say In Letters to Editor

MRS. OPAL GOERING (1615 South Prospect)—I am sure I am only one of the many readers who appreciates very much the larger type you are now using in the newspaper. I noticed it even before I read the article telling us about the change and the expense involved. Thanks.

Report Most Syphilis Cases Since 1950

ATLANTA (AP) — The U.S. Public Health Service reports 22,045 cases of infectious syphilis in the United States for the year ended June 30, the largest number since 1950.

The communicable disease center said Thursday that this is the sixth consecutive year in which increases have been reported.

Florida led the states with 32.6 cases per 100,000 population or 1,752 cases.

Incidence among other states included:

Arkansas 249 cases for a rate of 13.8 per 100,000 population; Kansas 58 and 2.7; Oklahoma 198 and 8.2; and Missouri 210 and 4.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

RAISED FOUR-LEVEL SPLIT is designed for a level site. Its 1,289 square feet of ground cover would do well on a 70 by 100 foot plot. The lowest level, garage, storage and hobby, is raised so that its large windows are above grade. The main entrance is on the ground level. The study is equipped with a closet and could become a guest bedroom; a 297-square-foot family room occupies the ground level rear. Living room has a dramatic corner fireplace and sliding glass doors leading to a covered deck. The three bedrooms also open onto balconies. Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica 32, N.Y., is architect for Plan HA315P.

Dates Ahead

Nov. 2-9—"Join a 4-H Club" Week.

Saturday night, Nov. 9—Pettis County 4-H Recognition Night, Smith-Cotton High School auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

Friday night, Nov. 15—Fun Night for 4-H members age 12 and over, Heber Hunt School gym, 7:30 to 9:15 p.m.

Saturday morning, Nov. 16—4-H Officers Training, Broadway Presbyterian Church Educational Building, 9 to 11:30 a.m.

New 4-H Club

A new 4-H club was organtized in the Jefferson School area Tuesday night. Officers of the new club are as follows: president, Carol Ryan; vice-president, Carl Berry; secretary, Joe Bill Fischer; treasurer, Cindy Berry; reporter, Randy Meyer; and song leader, Vicki Miller.

Mrs. Carl Berry will assume the position of community leader with Mrs. Kenneth Miller as assistant community leader.

Project leaders are as follows: Foods, Mrs. Leroy Mayer; Clothing, Mrs. Kenneth Miller; and Woodwork, Carl Berry. The adult committee advisor for the health activity committee is Mrs. Joe Bill Fischer.

"Join a 4-H Club" Week

About 38,000 4-H members in Missouri will be observing "Join a 4-H Club" Week Nov 2-9. The young people are among the two and one-third million 4-H'ers who belong to about 93,000 clubs in urban, suburban and rural areas throughout the United States.

Pettis County has 788 4-H club members. During this special week, the 4-H members will be telling and showing the public what they are doing in 4-H club work. Some will be putting up 4-H posters while others will be planning exhibits in store windows. This is the time that 4-H members are inviting other boys and girls to join their 4-H club.

This week has a number of local and national aims as follows: To give members a chance to measure progress and set new goals. Influence more youth to join or form 4-H clubs, acquaint more parents with the organization and enlist their aid, encourage more persons to volunteer as local leaders, stress learning to live and serve cooperatively with others, and recognize the major part played by friends of 4-H.

Sharing honors with the club members in all states will be 310,700 men and women who serve as unpaid volunteer leaders, and guide 4-H work in local communities throughout the 50 states and Puerto Rico. In Pettis County there are 256 volunteer leaders.

4-H Recognition Night

The 1963 4-H Recognition Night program will be held at the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium Saturday night, Nov. 9, 7:30 p.m. All 4-H members, leaders, parents and friends are invited to attend. The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce will serve refreshments after the meeting adjourns at approximately 9:15 p.m.

We are asking 4-H members and leaders to sit by clubs. A section will be reserved for each club.

Recognition will consist of the following: recognition of 4-H members and leaders by clubs, recognition of 4-H members by years in 4-H club work, recognition of junior leaders, recognition of 100 per cent clubs, "First-Year Member" 4-H Achievement Summary Contest, presenting the 4-H members pins by club groups (last year's 4-H community leaders are to come forward), awarding 10-, 11-, and 12-year pins, recognition of 4-H members graduating from 4-H, club health, recreation, and safety awards, blue ribbon, gold seal and silver seal clubs (last year's presidents are to come forward), dress revue pins, junior leader public speaking awards, "Friend of 4-H" award, Key awards, Danforth awards, county medal winners, and 4-H alumni awards.

Officers Training

We especially encourage each 4-H club officer to be present for the county-wide 4-H officers training meeting to be held Saturday morning, Nov. 16, 9 to 11:30 a.m., at the Broadway Presbyterian Church Educational Building.

Officers to attend are as follows: presidents, vice-presidents, secretaries, treasurers, reporters, game leaders, song leaders, and parliamentarians.

The first portion of the program everyone will assemble together. Then the 4-H members will divide up into groups for special training. Conference leaders for each group are as folows: presidents, vice-presidents, parliamentarians — Mrs. Walter Kraft, Smelser 4-H Club; secretaries—Mrs. Herbert Mewes, Tanglenook 4-H Club; treasurers—Mrs. Herbert Gerken, Dresden 4-H Club; game leaders—Shirley Standley, home economist in training; song leaders—Sara Oswald and Richard Chappell, Quisenberry Hustlers 4-H Club; and reporters—Mrs. Charles Moore, Georgetown 4-H Club.

4-H Fun Nights

The 4-H Council Recreational Committee met Wednesday night to make final plans for the two 4-H Fun nights to be held in the near future. Those on the committee are as follows: George Nix, Jeanne Stuart, Mary Brandhorst, Judy Moore, Sara Oswald, Mike Dabner, and Larry Lewellen.

The 4-H Fun Night for 4-H members age 12 and under was held Friday night, Nov. 1. The next Fun Night will be held on Friday night, Nov. 15, for 4-H members age 12 and over. The event will be held at the Heber Hunt School gym, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Are You Cruel to Your Pet Without Knowing It?

THE QUINTS AND THEIR MOTHER

An Eyewitness Report of the Birth By the Nurse Who Took Care of Them

ARE YOU CRUEL TO YOUR PET WITHOUT KNOWING IT?

An animal lover's misguided affection can harm a pet as much as any bully

By RUTHERFORD T. PHILLIPS

Executive Director, American Humane Association

MANY ANIMAL LOVERS are shocked to learn that the most common cruelty to animals is by those who love them best.

We at the American Humane Association still fight brutality, cruel animal shows, sadistic hunting and slaughtering but find the most widespread cruelty is born of misguided affection.

Here are the most common ways in which animal lovers unwittingly hurt their pets. Do you know the right answers to these questions?

■ Should you give your pet the freedom to run?

Putting the cat or dog out at night is so common most of us think it is right. The truth is, millions of animals spend winter nights huddling for warmth in frozen corners. They become nuisances to neighbors. They are hurt in fights or killed by autos. They catch diseases. They become lost.

Your pet deserves a place in your home. Fencing him in is not cruel, but turning him loose, away from your protection, is.

■ Do you give your pet what he likes to eat?

Pets do not know what is good for them. They will eat spoiled food or poisoned food. They will eat cold food (which upsets some). Dogs love chicken, but any bone that splinters can choke them. Kittens love milk and birds love crackers, but their digestive systems do not take much. Many pet owners unwittingly keep pets in a state of digestive upset.

A serious cruelty is giving your pet the quantity he wants to eat. Most will eat far too much. Obesity damages an animal's health. A nice, plump animal is usually one that faces a shortened life.

■ Do you spoil your pet?

This is a great cruelty. Animals, like children, become neurotic and unhappy without discipline. Be consistent in discipline, or you will have a nervous, confused pet headed for trouble.

To punish, don't hurt your pet. He won't understand. Most trainers feel that a sharp command or scolding tone of voice can do the job. Act quickly and consistently, and soon a word and a look will be enough.

■ Should you allow your pet to breed?

Many think it is cruel to deny breeding. As a result, we now have 25 million stray cats in America as testimony to our "kindness." We have millions of other unwanted, hungry animals because pet owners didn't want to be "cruel."

Unless you are prepared to give the young a home, we urge that you have your pet painlessly neutered just at maturity. It will live longer and be easier to control. It will not be frustrated.

■ Should you give a child a pet as a gift?

Of course, if—

If the parents agree and will take responsibility for its care.

If the child will be taught to respect the animal as a fellow, feeling creature. Many a child has hurt or killed a small animal by careless play. You must find out what the pet needs and teach this to the child.

If the animal is a suitable pet, not a holiday toy doomed to early death.

■ Should you give an unwanted pet a "sporting chance" for life?

Your circumstances may no longer allow for a pet. But it is cruel to abandon him, as so many do, thinking he will manage somehow.

He will live—for a while, hungry, exhausted, bewildered—until accident, wild animals, or exposure end his torture. If you can't find a home for him, take him to your animal shelter. Perhaps he will be adopted. If not, at least he can be spared a cruel, losing fight.

■ Should you adopt a homeless animal?

But is he homeless?

Call your animal shelter. Check around your community. An anxious owner may be waiting. If not, you may adopt the pet in good conscience.

Never, never adopt young birds or wild animals, however. Very knowing people may be able to handle them properly, but for most people to try is cruel.

■ Do you doctor your sick pets?

If so, are you a veterinarian?

Experienced owners may tell distemper from a cold, or stomach upset from feline enteritis. But most can't. It is appalling how many pets reach a veterinarian too late to be saved. It is cruel to keep a pet from medical attention.

■ Should you shower a new pet with attention?

No. A new young pet should be given time alone. Kittens and puppies are often exhausted or terrified by too much play with children or too many demands to perform. Give the pet hours without strain.

■ Should you choose a house for your pet because of its beauty?

This is one of the most common cruelties. Don't assume a commercial manufacturer knows what your particular animal needs.

Typical is the spherical fish bowl. Fish tanks need large surfaces exposed to air. A spherical bowl can suffocate fish. Many lovely cages are cruel. The smallest bird needs a cage at least two feet square to exercise.

The real answer to loving cruelty? Find out from experts what your pet really needs—in food, discipline, medicine, housing, and all the rest. Don't guess or assume. And remember, real kindness sometimes means denying things which affection makes us want to give.

Free Facts About Pets

The American Humane Association has several useful pamphlets which cover the care of animals and can help you guard against unintentional cruelty to your pet. Pamphlet titles are "Dogs," "Cats," "Birds," "Small Animals," "Fish," and "Horses and Burros." To get your free copy of any of these, write to: American Humane Association, Dept. FW, P.O. Box 1266, Denver 1, Colo.

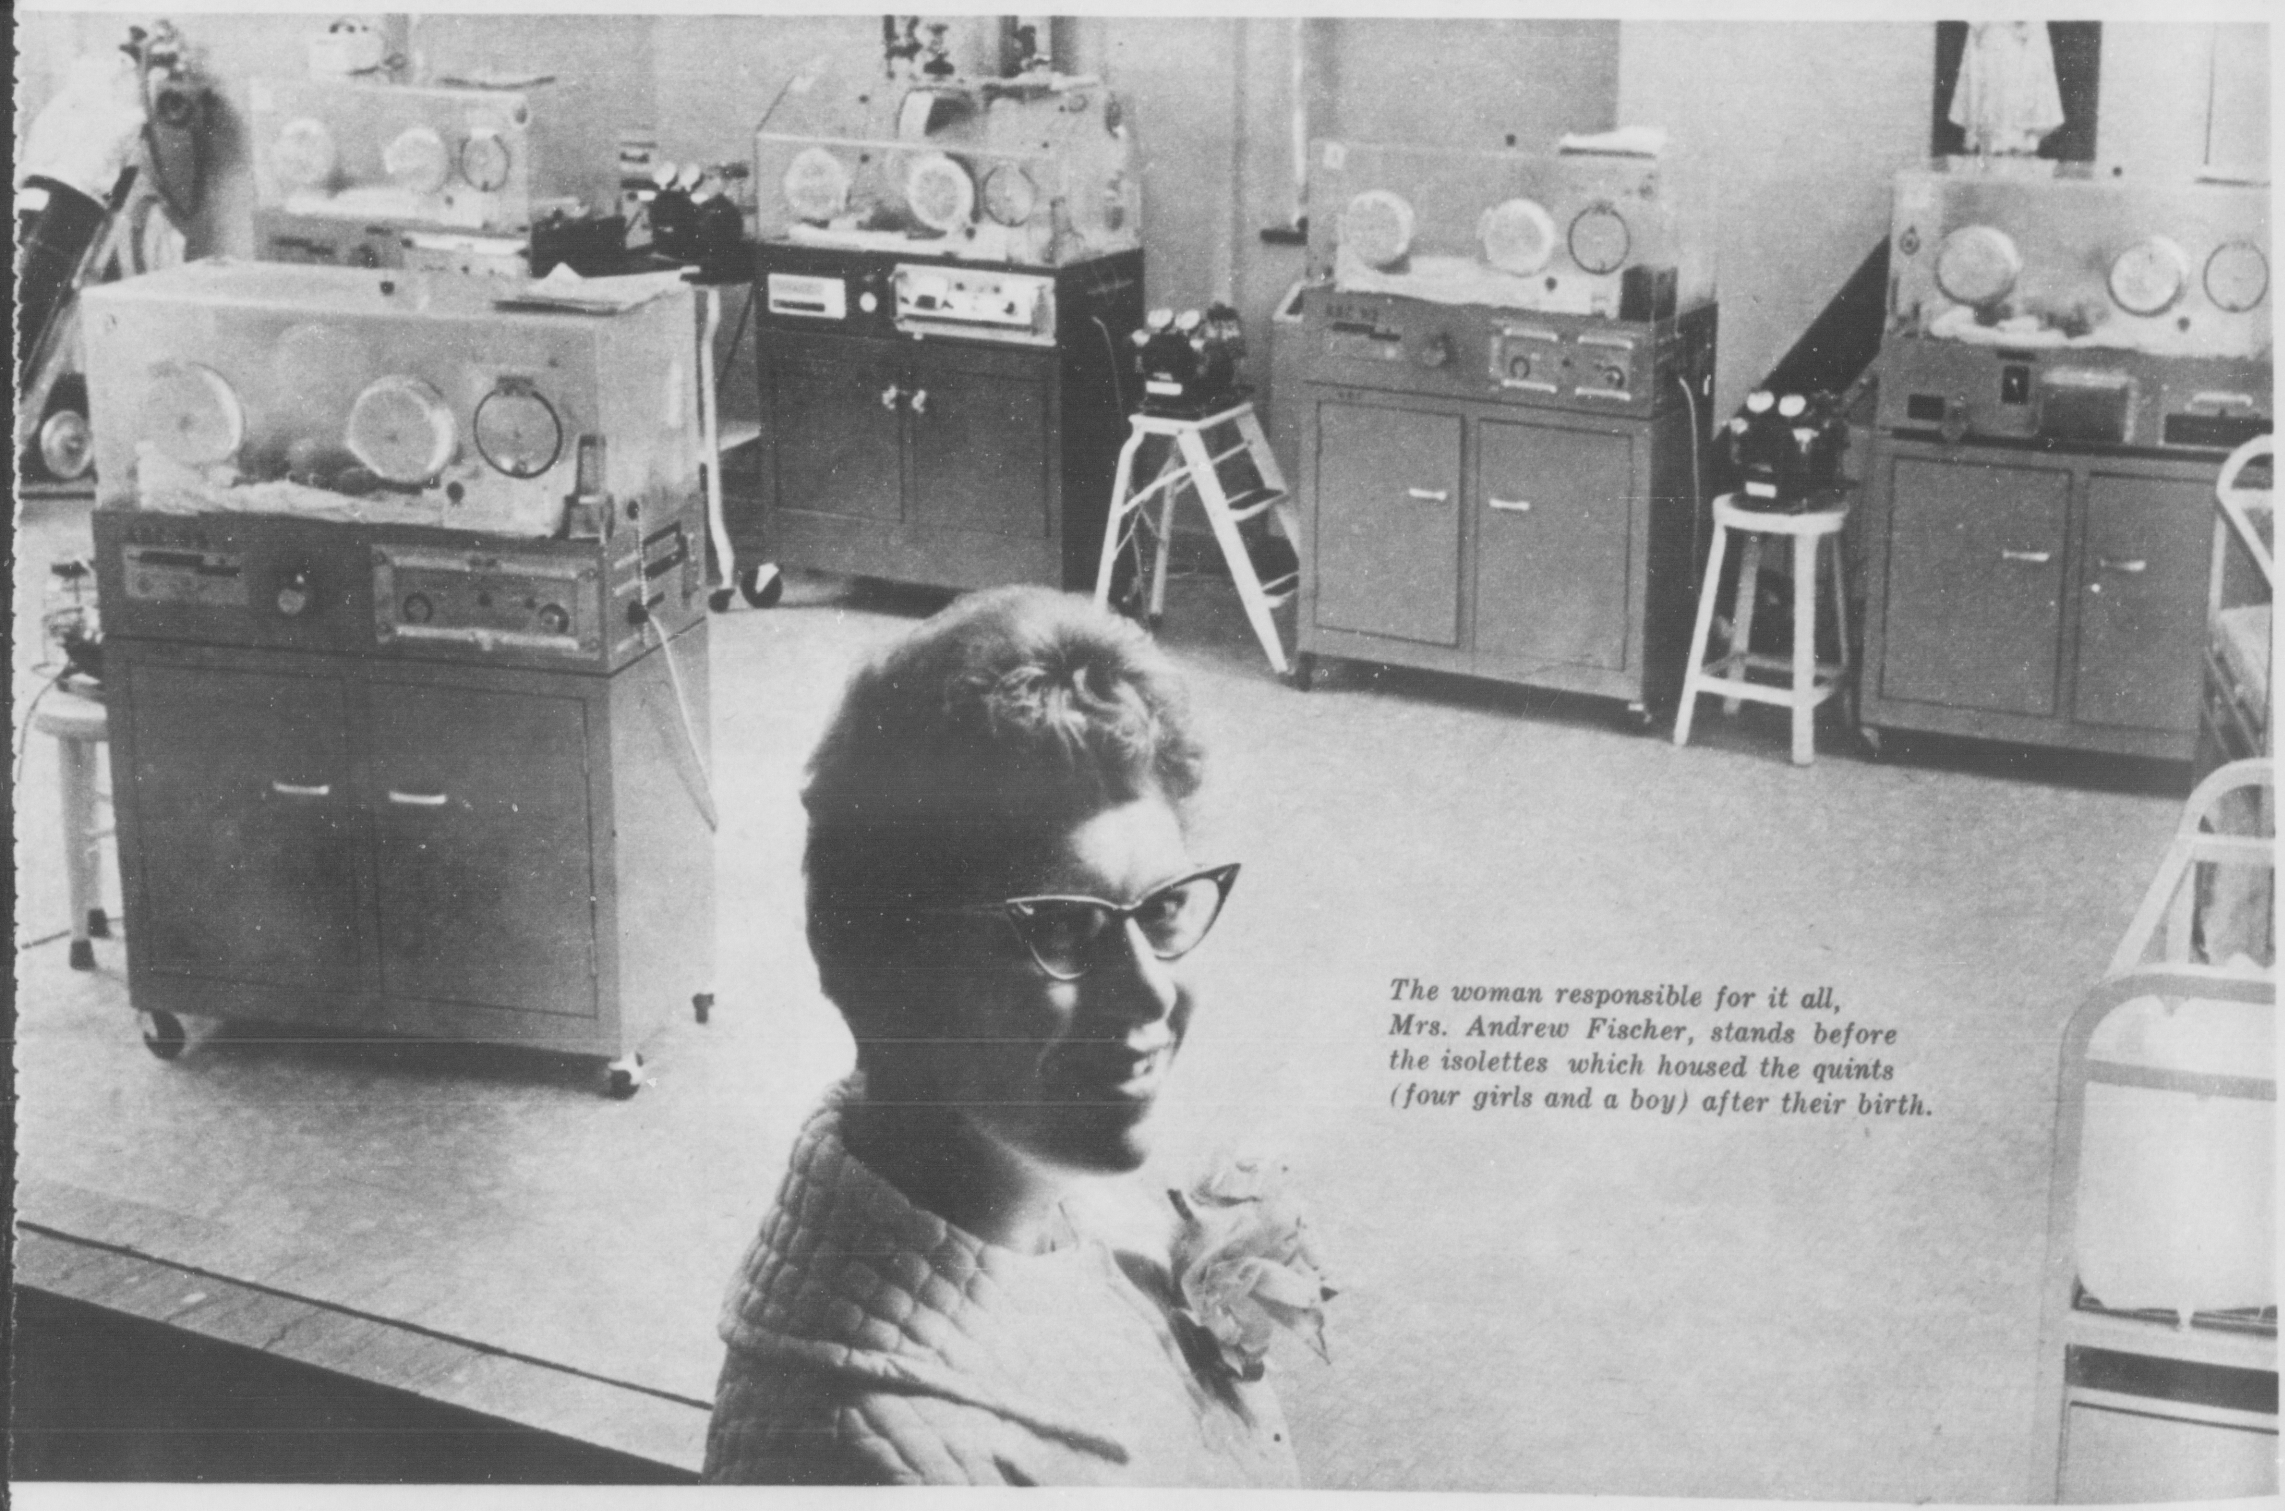
I WAS THERE WHEN THE QUINTS WERE BORN!



The woman responsible for it all, Mrs. Andrew Fischer, stands before the isolettes which housed the quints (four girls and a boy) after their birth.

The woman who saw it all, Mrs. Kirchgasler, proudly displays the piece of bed sheet that records the exact birth times and manner of the quints' delivery.

A nurse who was in the delivery room and who later took care of the Fischer quintuplets tells the whole dramatic, heart-warming story

By MRS. ALFRED KIRCHGASLER
as told to Del Griffin,
Aberdeen (S.D.) American-News

I HAVE A PIECE of bed sheet to remind me of the momentous Saturday when I cared for five very famous newborn babies—the Fischer quintuplets.

On that cloth are written the sex, the arrival time, and the manner of delivery of each of the quints. But even without the cloth, I am sure I could never forget that morning when I placed identification bracelets on the arms of those pink and crying babies!

I have been a registered nurse for 25 years and worked in the maternity section of St. Luke's Hospital in Aberdeen, S.D., for four years before becoming a clinical instructor six years ago.

As the assistant clinical instructor for the maternity unit of the Presentation School of Nursing, I supervise the hospital experience of the students and instruct them in the procedures on the maternity floor.

Mrs. Andrew (Mary Ann) Fischer came to St. Luke's Hospital Wednesday, Sept. 11, three days before the birth of the quints. I assigned one of our students to take care of her, and I saw her often during the following days.

She is a remarkable person—just the right kind of mother to have quints. In spite of all that has happened, she still is beautifully composed.

If I were to describe Mrs. Fischer, it would be as a woman who is humble, calm, and capable of handling any situation. She is steady and strong—physically, mentally, and spiritually strong. One of her first requests the morning of the births was that Sacred Heart medals be placed on the isolettes which housed her infants.

On the day she entered the hospital Mrs. Fischer learned that quintuplet births were expected. She was surprised; she had realized that multiple births were possible, but she did not think there would be that many! During the next few days, I felt she was concerned about the future. She was, I think, apprehensive that the babies might come early and not survive. She was more concerned about them than herself.

When I first heard of the impending births, I felt it was unbelievable—a miracle—that something like that could happen in Aberdeen. I am always thrilled each time a baby is born; each is a miracle; each is a thrill. It happens every time I am in the delivery room. We all wait for that little cry, and then we are relieved. Each birth is a miracle, but this would be a miracle five times over. I felt privileged to be there, and I asked to be called when the births occurred.

The hospital notified me at 1:45 a.m. that Saturday, Sept. 14. I left immediately, picked up another nurse, and arrived in the delivery room between the time the first baby was delivered and the time the second baby came.

Mrs. Fischer, delivering without anesthetic, was beautifully calm and composed. She is physically capable of such delivery. She never screamed or cried out all the while I was there.

No Sedation or Anesthetic Was Used

The births were not "natural" in the sense the word is often used. There is a procedure for natural childbirth in which the mother is given training in breathing and relaxing and other things before the delivery. This was not the case with Mrs. Fischer. But the births were natural in the sense that she delivered the quintuplets without the aid of sedation or anesthetic. All premature babies here are delivered without anesthetic to protect the infant from depression resulting from lack of oxygen.

There was an anesthetist in the delivery room. He administered oxygen to the mother to reduce the chance of an oxygen shortage in the babies.

My piece of cloth gives this account of the births: 1:58 frank breech—girl; 2:03 LOA—girl; 2:14 double footling—girl; 2:39 double footling—boy; 3:01 double footling—girl.

The "double footling" description means the babies came with both feet first; "frank breech" means the baby came with legs folded on the abdomen, knees under the chin, and buttocks first; "LOA" (left occipital anterior) means the baby came head first (normally).

The babies came in pink and crying. With premature babies—the quints were born at about seven months—this is not always the case. The infants were, in my opinion, wonderfully developed for the shorter gestation time.

Dr. James Berbos delivered the quints. Dr. Albin J. Janusz worked with Dr. Berbos in the actual delivery, and Dr. B. F. King took charge of the infants and brought them to the nursery.

I went to the nursery to take care of the babies. Despite the short time between deliveries, the task of caring for them went smoothly, much like a single delivery. The situation always was under control, and everything was well organized. I don't think any of us really felt the excitement until the next day.

Dr. King put the infants immediately into isolettes, machines which control the humidity, temperature, and oxygen and which have wristlet "portholes" which allow a person to reach inside the unit without letting in any outside air.

Babies "A" and "B" were put in one isolette. "C" was put in another, and "D" and "E" were placed together in a unit. They were later transferred to individual isolettes.

The infants' umbilical cords were not tied immediately because of the short time between deliveries. Later, in the nursery, I assisted Dr. Janusz in tying the cords.

Identified by Letters—A to E

The identification bracelets, which all babies at the hospital wear, carried the letters to identify the infants. The babies, of course, have since been given names. "A" is Mary Ann, "B" is Mary Magdalene, "C" is Mary Catherine, "D" is James Andrew, and "E" is Mary Margaret.

The babies were in good condition. The boy appeared stronger—and he was noticeably heavier. The girls all appeared to weigh about the

Learn The Truth About THE CATHOLIC CHURCH By Mail...At No Cost!

You can easily investigate Catholic faith and worship in the privacy of your home.

Just send us your name and address and advise that you want to know what the Catholic Church really teaches . . . what Catholics really believe. We will send you an interesting course of instruction which is short, yet complete.

We will send you a book explaining Catholic faith and worship . . . written in an easy-to-understand form. There are six test sheets which you can mark and we will check and return to you. This will enable you to determine how well you understand the book. It will give you quick and authentic answers on any point you do not understand.

There is no writing to do... and nobody calls on you unless you request it. Nobody knows, in fact, that you are inquiring into Catholic teaching. Thousands of people are taking the course and learning for the first time wonderful truths about the Church established by Christ Himself.

We know that many people would like to learn all about the Catholic Church—but hesitate to make personal inquiries. This offer is made so they may get authentic Catholic information and study it in the privacy of their own homes.

You will find in this course answers to the questions which confuse non-Catholics. You will discover that Catholic belief and practice are not what they are so often misrepresented to be.

And if it is true that the Catholic Church is Christ's Church... as we maintain... you owe it to yourself to get the facts. This you can readily do through this short course of instruction . . . without cost or obligation . . . and in the privacy of your own home.

As Catholic laymen, who treasure our Faith, we invite you to understand it and, we hope, to share it.

Write today, giving your name and address and stating that you want the course of Catholic instruction by mail. The book and simple test sheets will be mailed to you immediately. Nobody will call on you or urge you to join the Catholic Church. If you wish... while taking the course... to ask any questions which puzzle you, we will answer them promptly without any cost or obligation to you. Send a postcard or letter now—TODAY! EVERY WEEK there's good reading in FAMILY WEEKLY same. They weren't weighed or cleaned up when they came from the delivery room. They were put into the isolettes immediately. Dr. Berbos said he thought their weights would range from 2½ pounds to 4 pounds. This turned out to be a very accurate prediction.

Dr. James Berbos delivered the quints.

QUINTS

While the babies were being delivered, the anesthetist kept a record of their birth times and manner of delivery on a cloth sheet in the delivery room. Later, Mrs. Marguerite Dorman, supervisor of the maternity floor, made copies for each of us. There were about 14 people involved in the delivery and nursery work that morning.

After the delivery, Mrs. Fischer was exhausted. A nursing sister and I stayed with her to make sure she had absolute rest. She slept during the morning and by noon was more her usual self. It was about that time that flowers and telegrams (including one from President Kennedy) began arriving and she was able to appreciate them.

Later that day, I acted as one of the sponsors when the Most Rev. Lambert A. Hoch, the Roman Catholic bishop of Sioux Falls, baptized the babies.

The evening after the delivery, Mrs. Fischer went to the nursery in a wheel chair to see the babies. She was given ambulatory privileges the same night. Hers has been a good, normal recovery despite the fact that she had given birth to five babies.

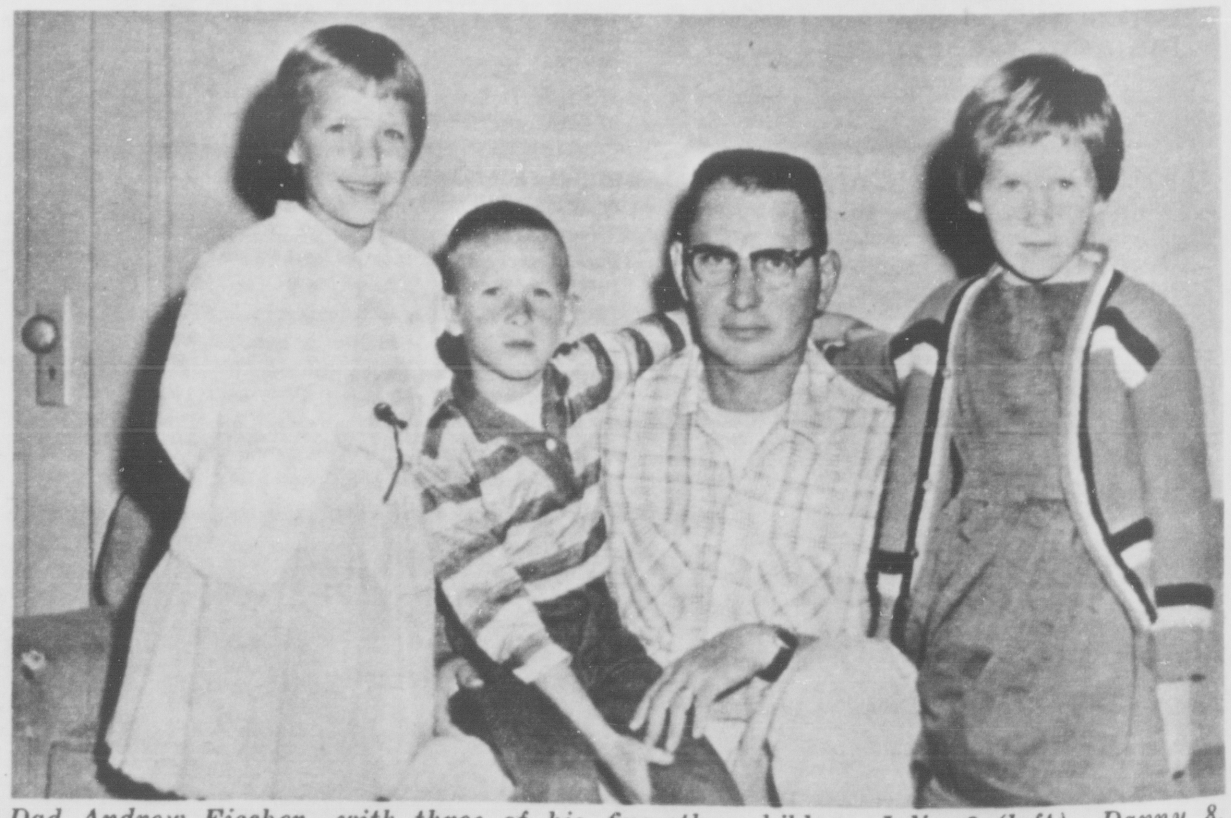
In her hospital room she was sheltered from most of the public excitement about the quints. She did attend a news conference the next Tuesday. I think it took her a couple of days to realize the situation fully.

The Fischers impress me as a very close-knit family. Mr. and Mrs. Fischer are steady people, and I think their family is the most important thing in their lives. I am certain they will make every effort to give their children—all of them —a normal life.

Mr. Fischer told me he hoped the family could continue to enjoy the good life they had. This family life is something very precious to him. A day or two after the births, he was asked whether he might leave his farm home for a city home. He replied that he had chosen where they live to give his children a good place to grow up.

Mrs. Fischer is shy and reserved. When she talked in the hospital, it was about her children. She missed her five older ones at home, and she was anxious to see the quints and expressed concern for their well-being.

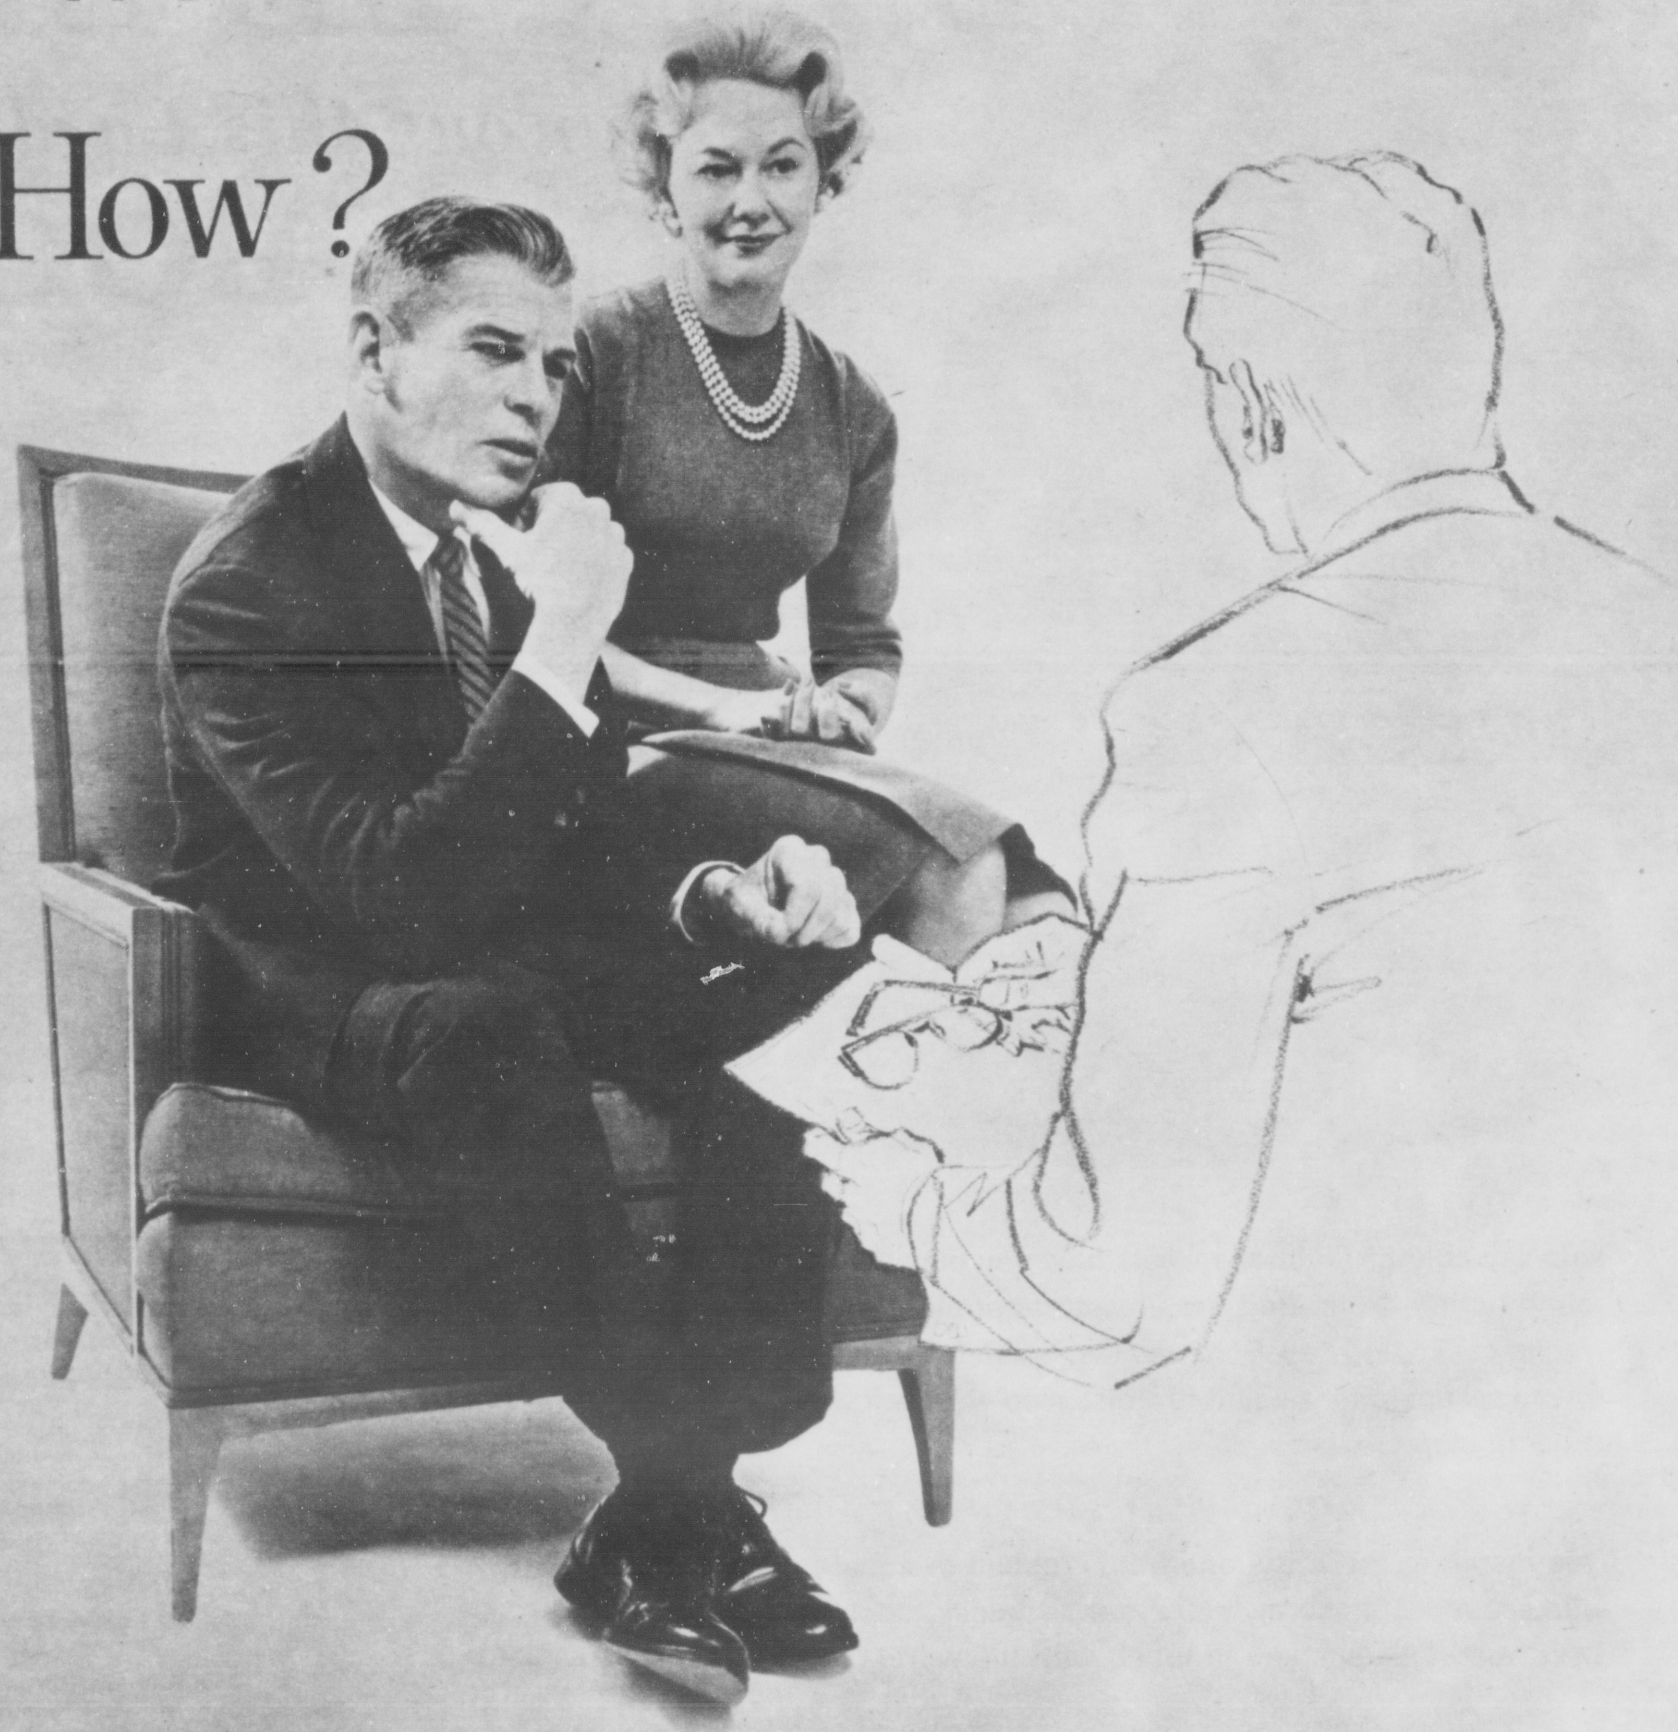
She is, I think, worried about the enormous responsibility of the new life she and her family face. But in spite of her concern, I am sure she will be able to cope with whatever the future may bring.



Dad Andrew Fischer—with three of his five other children, Julie, 6 (left), Danny, 8, and Charlotte, 7—was wondering how he would support his new brood when help poured in.

Guarantee a retirement income we can't outlive?

How?



With your life insurance . . . and the help your agent is trained to give you!

YOU: You mean any of my life insurance policies?

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE AGENT: Any of them that have cash values.

YOU: How much income can I get?

AGENT: Well, naturally, that depends on the policies you use, and how long you've had them. But you'll find that the additional income these policies can provide may make the difference between a comfortable retirement and just getting by.

YOU: How do I do it?

AGENT: By making use of a unique advantage of life insurance. When you're ready to retire, we'll just convert your policies so they'll bring you a regular income.

YOU: Sounds good. But how about my wife? I'll want her protected.

AGENT: Of course. I can set it up for you as joint income. One that's guaranteed to last as long as either of you lives.

YOU: I never realized life insurance could do that.

AGENT: Well, that's why you have an agent!

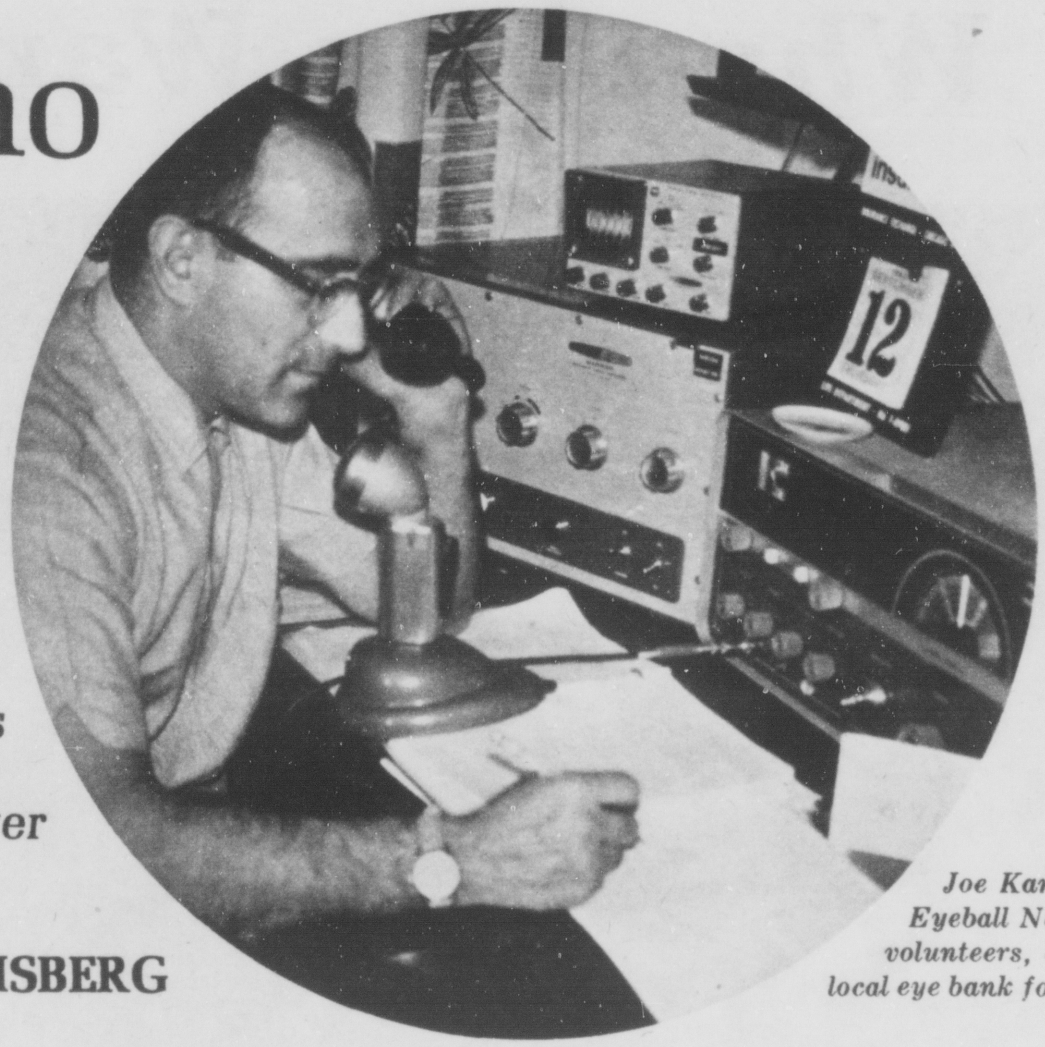
The Hams Who Save Sight

A cornea is needed to prevent a child's blindness, but where can one be found? These amateur radio operators can be relied on for the answer



Joe Kaniuk, one of the Eyeball Network's 25 volunteers, checks with local eye bank for emergencies.

By CHARLES and BONNIE REMSBERG

LAST MARCH, a two-year-old girl in Oklahoma City lived for hours in a terrible shadow.

Her eye had accidentally brushed against the hot tip of her father's cigarette. Unless surgeons could remove the damaged tissue and transplant a fresh cornea within the next few hours, the stricken youngster would lose vision in her injured eye.

The eye bank nearest her home had no cornea available. No interoffice communication exists among the 60-some eye banks scattered across the U. S. Time could easily run out before the costly chore of tracking down an eye in another city could be completed by telephone.

Thanks to a remarkable group of amateur radio operators, however, a cornea was found within hours, and the child's sight was saved.

The "hams," calling themselves the "Eyeball Network," form the first and most efficient link between U. S. eye banks. Their dramatic dedication could someday save you or your children from blindness in the wake of sudden tragedy.

The network's 25 volunteer members in 16 cities are notified at any hour by their local eye banks of emergency needs or of surplus corneas. Then, twice daily, at 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. (CDT), the hams go on the air at 3970 and 3963 kilocycles to exchange information.

When the Oklahoma child was injured, Travis Harris, that city's network representative, broadcast the girl's plight during the morning roll call. No network members knew of extra corneas at that time, but each reported the emergency to the nearest bank.

Two hours later, an elderly Chicago eye donor died. His eyes were surgically removed for use by the eye bank of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Because there were no known emergencies in Illinois, the bank turned to the case from Oklahoma, reported that morning by one of the Chicago area hams, Joe Kaniuk of suburban Morton Grove.

Now because of the hams' relay, one of the donor's eyes was specially packaged and flown to Oklahoma City to aid the little girl.

Since the network was organized in December, 1962, some 35 similar emergencies have been met. In addition, the hams have helped secure 25 "surplus" corneas for use in planned operations.

"If it hadn't been for the 'Eyeball Network,'" says Corinne Cloppas of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, "more than one person would have been condemned to blindness."

Eye injuries must be corrected swiftly, or irreparable complications will develop. Also a donor's eyes must be utilized within 36 to 48 hours of his death if corneal transplants are to be effective. Time and again, the hams' ability to establish simultaneous contact with a variety of cities has proved the best means of bringing together persons threatened with blindness and the eyes of persons who wished them to be useful after death.

RECENTLY WE LISTENED to a network roll call over Joe Kaniuk's ham equipment and heard factory owner Ted Hunter of Iowa City tell how he and a fellow ham, Dr. Alson Braley, had conceived the idea.

"Doc Braley is the head of the ophthalmalogy department at the University of Iowa," Hunter explained. "Some years ago, a patient already blind in one eye lost sight in his second eye because no cornea was available for a transplant. It was a terrible thing, and it haunted both of us.

"We knew some inexpensive system of communications was needed between eye banks. One bank might need an eye desperately while another would have one going to waste and not know of the other's need. What was fast and free?—well, ham radio was the answer."

Hunter and Braley began discussing the net with hams in areas where banks were located. Kaniuk heard their repeated calls about a "new way to help people see" as he was listening to his set in bed one night. Others listened, too, and soon the network began taking shape.

One man in Iowa needed a fast transplant because his cornea had ruptured. The emergency call went out at 7 a.m. By 10, a cornea was on its way to his doctor.

In Kansas, a girl's cornea was diseased and threatening to burst. As she was rushed to a hospital, the net's amazingly swift relay located a donated eye so that surgeons could operate before her sight blacked out.

"IF YOU WANT to get a spine-tingling sensation, just be a network ham meeting one of these people you've helped," Ted Hunter told us. "It's hard to describe how it feels when someone looks at you and says, 'You have saved my sight.'"

For some of the hams, the thanks of a patient carries special impact. Travis Harris, for example, is himself totally blind.

"I was 10 years old when my eyes were damaged in a stove explosion at school," he told us over the air. "I could still see light for 25 years. Then glaucoma developed and I became blind.

"When I was first hurt, a corneal transplant might have saved my sight. Unfortunately, the technique hadn't been devised yet. But now that it has, one of the biggest satisfactions I get out of life is helping others see again."

That sums up the attitude of all the hams on the "Eyeball Network." Some West Coast hams must rise before 5 a.m. to make roll call; others adjust social and business schedules to accommodate the regular broadcasts. Yet in talking to many of them we didn't hear these inconveniences mentioned once.

All referred only to their "good fortune" in being able to use a hobby to perform a needed public service.

Shrimp Curry

- 1 1-lb., 4½-oz. can pineapple chunks
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, crushed in a garlic press
- ½ cup flour
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- 1½ to 3 tablespoons curry powder
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- Few grains cayenne pepper
- 2½ cups chicken broth
- 1 cup coconut milk (see recipe)
- ½ cup cream
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 lbs. peeled and deveined cooked shrimp
- Raisin Rice (see recipe)

1. Finely chop ¼ cup pineapple chunks; set aside. Chill remaining pineapple in sirup.

2. Heat butter or margarine in a skillet. Add onion and garlic; cook until golden, stirring occasionally. Stir in a mixture of the next five ingredients. Gradually blend in broth, coconut milk, and finely chopped pineapple. Bring to boiling and boil 5 min., or until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Simmer, uncovered, 20 min., stirring occasionally.

3. Blend in cream and lemon juice. Stir in shrimp; heat thoroughly (do not boil).

4. Serve with hot Raisin Rice and accompany with bowls of the reserved well-drained pineapple chunks, chutney, toasted coconut, chopped hard-cooked eggs, sliced green onions, and chopped almonds or peanuts.

6 to 8 servings

Coconut milk (1 cup)—Combine contents of a 3½-oz. can flaked coconut and 1⅓ cups milk. Simmer over low heat, stirring occasionally, until mixture foams, about 2 min. Cool slightly and strain, pressing coconut against sieve to extract as much of the creamy coconut liquid as possible.

Raisin Rice

Bring 2 cups water to boiling in heavy saucepan. Stir in ¾ cup uncooked rice, ¾ cup dark seedless raisins, and ¾ teaspoon salt. Cover tightly and cook over low heat 20 to 25 min., or until water is absorbed and rice is tender. Serve hot.

Ham-Olive Crêpes

- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- 5 oz. mushrooms, coarsely chopped
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups cream
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- ¼ teaspoon oregano, crushed
- 1 cup (about 6 oz.) thin 1½-in. strips cooked ham
- ⅓ cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
- 8 Crêpes (see recipe)
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

1. Heat ⅓ cup butter or margarine in a large skillet; add mushrooms and onion. Cook over medium heat 5 min., stirring occasionally. Using a slotted spoon, remove mushrooms; set aside.

2. Add about 2 tablespoons butter or margarine to skillet; blend in flour and cook until bubbly. Remove from heat and gradually add cream, stirring constantly. Continue to stir and bring mixture to boiling; cook 1 to 2 min. longer.

Very Best...

3. Add 1 cup of the sauce to a mixture of the mushrooms, pepper, oregano, ham, and olives. Toss lightly until well mixed.

4. Lightly butter a shallow baking dish. Spoon and spread enough cream sauce over bottom of baking dish to make a thin layer.

5. Spoon 2 to 3 tablespoons of the filling onto the center of each crêpe. Fold one edge of crêpe over filling and roll up. Place filled crêpes in baking dish with open edges down. Spoon remaining sauce over crêpes; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Cover dish.

6. Heat in 350°F oven for 15 min. Remove the dish from oven and uncover.

7. Place baking dish on broiler rack with top of crêpes 3 to 4 in. from heat source; broil 3 to 4 min., or until cheese is lightly browned. 8 servings

Crêpes

½ cup flour
2 teaspoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon butter, melted

1. Blend the flour, sugar, and salt together; set aside. Beat eggs, milk, and butter together. Add egg mixture to dry ingredients and beat with rotary beater until the mixture is smooth.

2. Heat a lightly buttered 6-in. skillet; pour in just enough batter to cover bottom (about 2 tablespoons). Immediately tilt skillet back and forth to spread batter thinly and evenly.

3. Cook each crêpe over medium heat until lightly browned on bottom and firm to touch on top. Loosen edges with spatula. Turn and brown second side. (It should not be necessary to butter skillet for each crêpe.) Transfer to baking pan and set in warm oven until all crêpes are cooked.

4. Fill immediately. 8 crêpes

Italian Meat Stew

¼ cup olive oil
1 lb. lean beef stew meat, cut in 1½-in. cubes
1 lb. lean lamb stew meat, cut in 1½-in. cubes
1 1-lb., 12-oz. can tomatoes
1½ cups boiling water
1½ cups chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon black pepper
4 large potatoes, pared and quartered (about 3 cups)
5 large carrots, pared and cut in strips (about 2 cups)
1 teaspoon basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
½ cup water
¼ cup flour

1. Heat oil in a large sauce pot or Dutch oven; add meat and brown on all sides.

2. Add tomatoes, boiling water, onion, celery, salt, and pepper to sauce pot. Cover and simmer 1 to 1½ hrs., or until meat is almost tender.

3. Add potatoes, carrots, basil, and garlic powder. Simmer 45 min. longer, or until meat and vegetables are tender when pierced with a fork.

4. Blend the ½ cup water and flour together to make a smooth paste. Gradually add to meat and vegetable mixture, stirring constantly, and bring to boiling. Continue to stir and boil 1 to 2 min., or until sauce is thickened. (Leftover sauce may be served the following day on mashed potatoes.) 8 to 10 servings

During a lull in the conversation at a ladies' luncheon, one guest nodded to a woman passing her table, then turned to her companion. "She's such a wonderful girl. I've never met anybody who said anything bad about Meg."

The woman's companion nodded. "That's true. Let's talk about somebody else."

The weary mother of a large and hungry brood was being interviewed by a researcher for a kitchen-range company. He wanted to know what improvements she would like to see in new stoves.

"I'll tell you," she replied, "I'd like one that played, say, "Oh, Marie" when I'm cooking spaghetti and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" when it's stew and "Home on the Range" for steak."

"You like music when you cook?" the researcher asked.

"No, but that would stop every kid who tramps through here from asking: 'Hi, Mom, what's cooking?' "

The new bride and her mother went shopping in the supermarket every day, and the young woman unburdened herself of the perplexities of wedded life. But what puzzled the mother most were the bride's buying habits. At last she could restrain herself no longer.

"Every day this week," she said, "you've bought a can of tuna."

"Yes, I know," the bride replied. "I've been giving John tuna every night—and he still wants to go fishing over the weekend!"

A cattle baron from the Southwest was visiting his son's college campus for the first time, and he took his wife on tour of the street where all the sororities and fraternities were located.

"Look at that!" he exclaimed, pointing to the neon signs with Greek letters on each house. "What a good idea—everybody has his cattle brand in lights!"

—Herm Albright

One brother was ambitious and hard-working and became a successful businessman. The other was lazy, constantly in debt, and an embarrassment to his family. The successful brother tried to ignore the ne'er-do-well, and this so irritated the latter that he cornered him at his office one day and told him off:

"I don't understand your attitude! You're a stuck-up snob. If anybody has a right to be stuck up, it's me—look at the successful brother I have! You? Why, your brother is nothing but a bum!"

I was just thinking...

IF THE SEED which was to become you had never flowered, do you know what you would have missed?

The sun's gold blessing on your head.

The sound of your own voice, your own laughter, your own tears.

The miracle of your body, a beautiful instrument designed for experiencing, learning, caring, achieving.

The sweetness of water on thirsty lips and the silk of it on dusty skin.

The taste of bread, fruit, meat and the mingled caress of their fragrance.

Long grass under your toes. A bird in flight against a cloud. The soaring ache of the universe beyond the stars.

The release of rain and the awesome anger of thunder.

The satisfaction of seeking and finding the peace of fulfillment.

A CERTAIN ECSTACY at unspecified times and for unspecified reasons, yet somehow a justification for being.

A quick recognition of love in the lines of a face, the touch of hands, in words left unsaid, in an act of kindness with no other reason.

Seeing again the same home town, the same home, the same family as for the first time and seeing in them the full circle of existence.

The creation of a child or a place or a piece of something beyond self, giving your heart the right to beat for more than its own need.

The lights of man's night and the lights of God's night and you between, a partner of both.

The privilege of being allowed these years out of eternity to share the greatest adventure you can ever know:

Life itself.

A Colorful Flower Vase

By Ragna Eskil

Ask your mother to give you one of the prettiest empty glass bottles on her pantry shelf. Then ask your dad for a little of his left-over household paint.

Mix the paint well and pour it into the bottle until it is about one-half inch deep. Then tilt the bottle, and, as the paint runs down the sides, keep twisting it round and round so that the paint coats the inside evenly. Now hold the bottle upside down for several minutes until the excess paint drains off.

When the vase is dry (this may take a day or two), you might like to paste a pretty picture on it. Fill it with flowers, pods, or an attractive arrangement of dried grasses, and you have a gift that will surely please your mother or grandmother or a favorite friend.

Chopsticks!

ROMY SCHNEIDER

LIKE MOTHER, LIKE DAUGHTER?

Romy Schneider in a scene from "The Victors." Her mother Magda (above) was a one-time favorite of German movie-goers.

Our Hollywood correspondent had been a great fan of her actress mother, but reports hinted that Romy was quite different; here's what he learned when he interviewed Europe's hottest star By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

I WAS A BOY in Germany when I first saw Romy Schneider's mother, Magda Schneider—then the Doris Day of her country.

When Magda married Wolf Albach-Retty, an Austrian matinee idol, and they were blessed with a beautiful daughter, Romy (a contraction of Rose-Marie), their storybook romance seemed complete.

But life is no fairy tale, and Magda and Wolf split up in 1942, when Romy was four. After her parents' divorce, Romy was reared primarily by her grandparents. She didn't see her parents together again until 20 years later, when Otto Preminger—producer-director of "The Cardinal," in which Romy stars—arranged "a chance meeting" at a Vienna cafe where they were on location.

Like any fan of Magda's, I was curious to see how her offspring turned out. I'd seen Romy in "Boccaccio '70" and "The Trial." I'd heard glowing reports about her performance in the soon-to-be-released "The Victors." But I'd also heard less encouraging reports—such as the angry protestations of Germans who haven't forgiven Romy for leaving her lucrative film career in their country to settle in Paris and Monaco.

Romy was just 19 when she became fed up being an apple-cheeked, pleasantly plump Teutonic Shirley Temple in schmaltzy German movies and fled to Paris. There she costarred in "Christine" with newcomer Alain Delon. The film didn't take, but Alain did, and Romy's new ambition was to be an actress and woman who would fit in with her sophisticated new environment—and her new French boy friend.

For two years Romy all but disappeared from the face of Europe while perfecting her French, studying acting, and transforming herself into a sophisticated, chic Parisienne. Then came the break she'd hoped for—a play opposite Alain in which she portrayed a wicked woman. Romy liked such parts, and producers and her new public were intrigued by the result.

I had heard that Romy's new life had made her temperamental and hard to get along with. But I just couldn't believe that the girl who sprang from the cradle of Gemütlichkeit and who was the daughter of an actress I had adored could have turned into a little monster.

My first approach, however, was not reassuring. I had called Romy in Monaco from Los Angeles to set up an appointment. She agreed but was curt and businesslike. At $4 a minute, I didn't mind. Not yet.

When I reached Monte Carlo two weeks later, I phoned her home to arrange for our get-together. Romy informed me tersely that she was leaving for Paris.

"But I came a long way to see you!" I exclaimed.

"Some days I'm in Monte Carlo, some days in London or Rome or Paris. Tomorrow I'm going to Paris," she snapped. Then she relented a bit and added, "I'll be back the day after tomorrow. If you wish, I'll meet you at the beach club then."

Romy showed up almost on the dot, accompanied by her mother Magda, who had put on a few pounds from the way I remembered her but whose face and laughter retained their vibrance and good humor.

Romy was in blue jeans but quickly changed into a bikini that would have created a riot anywhere but Monte Carlo. Her figure could make Brigitte Bardot blush with envy. Her eyes were blue and sparkling, and her face belied her age and supposed sophistication. Without make-up, the 24-year-old Romy looked an angelic 18.

Romy suggested a swim and then embarrassed me by jumping into the cool Mediterranean ahead of me. She was as lighthearted, gigglish, and full of fun as a teenager on her first date.

But my first interview question—about future career plans—instantly threw her back into her shell. "I don't want to talk about my work! I don't like being interviewed; I'm always being misquoted."

"Okay—no more formal questions," I agreed.

As it turned out, I learned more about Romy this way than if she'd answered 100 carefully worded questions. The moment I became an acquaintance and, after a couple of days, possibly even a friend, she made a complete about-face and became relaxed, cheerful, unrestrained.

Most of Romy's problems stem from the fact that she's at war with herself. Her grandparents and her mother reared her with a protective curtain drawn tightly around her. She was always adored and pampered.

At 15, she had wanted to become a painter, but a chance to appear in a film with her mother quickly changed her plans. And when Romy grew into Germany's biggest box-office attraction, Mama continued to play the protective hen looking out for her chick. Magda chose her scripts, her wardrobe, her friends—until the day Romy rebelled and fled to Paris.

But her new self-appointed role of the sophisticate clashes head-on with her upbringing and background. I doubt that she really objected to the press as much as to the part she herself played, or pretended to play. I don't think she's really angry at anyone—except herself.

POSSIBLY THE MOST OBVIOUS indication of this conflict in Romy is evident in her relationship with her mother. When Romy first started to rebel, Magda had the good sense to step quietly out of the picture rather than interfere when she knew it could do no good. To her, Romy still is the little girl she held in her lap two decades ago. She calls her "Teddy Bear," good-naturedly listens to her whims, and protests mildly when Romy disagrees. But Magda is so fond of Romy that she will not let a disagreement lead to an open break. Apparently this attitude has paid dividends, for Romy continues to feel a need for her mother in times of crisis.

There is still a good deal of Viennese sentimentality in Romy. She suggested we have dinner at a small open-air restaurant on my third night in Monte Carlo. We hardly had finished our first course when the waiter leaned down to whisper something into Romy's ear. She nodded approvingly. A few minutes later, he handed her a crudely wrapped package. Romy thanked him and pulled a handful of francs out of her purse.

"And how much this time?" Magda asked.

"Just 60 francs," Romy told her as she unwrapped a very bad painting of a clown.

"Sixty francs for that?" Magda cried out.

"He needs the money for his mother," Romy explained simply. "She has cancer."

I had a feeling that anyone could come to Romy any time with a problem—true or imagined—and she would try to help out.

As far as I was concerned, Romy lived up to all the expectations I have had since I first heard that my favorite boyhood star gave birth to a beautiful daughter. But then, maybe I, too, am sentimental.

Every housebreaking seemed different—yet an alert detective came up with a single solution case of the Capital Burglaries

By WILLIAM T. BRANNON

A secondhand dealer gave Williams his first real lead.

UNTIL THE WAVE of burglaries began late in 1941, Precinct 8, in the fashionable northwest section of Washington, D. C., had been relatively free of crime. Suddenly, Charles T. Williams, the precinct's only detective, had a full-time job solving the strange crimes.

All the victims were national figures—cabinet members, high government officials, bankers, manufacturers—whose homes had been entered while they were away from Washington. There appeared to be at least three gangs at work.

One group concentrated on silverware but passed up other articles of value. A second group took no silver but carried away diamonds, valuable jewelry, objects of art, and cash. A third group of burglars apparently spent hours on a job and had a gay party—emptying liquor bottles, leaving lipstick-smudged glasses—while it removed anything that wasn't nailed down, such as cameras, radios, cuff links, and jewelry.

The burglaries had just one thing in common: in every case, cigarettes had been smoked, and some of the butts had been ground into expensive Oriental rugs.

An unusual facet of the case was that none of the stolen articles had been offered for sale in Washington. Though the capital had no pawnshops, secondhand dealers fulfilled the same purpose by buying jewelry and merchandise outright, then holding it for a reasonable time for resale. These dealers made regular, detailed reports to the Washington police. Pawnshops in nearby cities in Maryland and Virginia also reported to the Washington police. But none reported articles listed by Williams as stolen.

Seemingly stymied, Williams went over the burglary reports again and re-examined the evidence found at each home—the cigarette butts, the empty liquor bottles, the lipstick-smudged highball glasses. Then Williams got an idea: maybe there was only one burglar! Maybe he had staged the various entries carefully to make it appear that different gangs were at work! But how was he to find one man among the millions in the metropolitan area?

Williams went to headquarters and dug out the reports of dealers for several months. He began studying the lists of merchandise sold, the names and addresses of the sellers. He looked at one, passed it up, then came back to it. Several small items had been sold by a man who gave his name as Ernest Clauson and his address as 1427 M Street Northwest. The detective knew Washington and he doubted there was any such address. A check proved him right.

Why had a phony address been given unless the articles were stolen? Was the name fictitious, too?

The dealer who had bought the items from Clauson still had them—cuff links, a piece of dental gold, and a gold nosepiece. None had been listed as stolen in any of the burglaries, but there was a chance they had been stolen and not listed. Williams recovered the articles from the dealer and began by canvassing the burglary victims.

After several fruitless calls, one victim said: "Yes, those are mine. I neglected to list them."

With a definite line on the burglar at last, Williams began looking for Ernest Clauson. He was not listed in the phone directories of Washington or nearby cities.

Williams had learned that people who give phony addresses often use right numbers but fictitious streets. He began looking up streets on which the number 1427 existed. It appeared on several northwest streets, and he tried them all. The last was N Street Northwest. At that address, a rooming house, a man came to the door.

"You Mr. Clauson?" Williams inquired.

"Yes. I run this rooming house. You want a room?"

"No, but maybe you can help me." The detective told of the burglaries, of his fruitless search.

"I don't think I have a burglar living here," said Clauson, "but I sure will keep my eyes open."

CLAUSON WAS AFFABLE and Williams was in no hurry to leave. Finally, Williams reached in his pocket. "Got a cigarette? I'm all out."

"Sure, if you like these." He produced a pack of a rare brand of cork-tip cigarettes.

"Just what I've been looking for!" Williams said. "Come on, Clauson, we're going to the station!"

Clauson was held while patrolmen went into the rooming house. They nabbed a man sneaking out the back door, then searched the house. They found roomsful of loot from the burglaries—most of it packed in suitcases.

Ernest Clauson confessed he was the burglar in each of the different cases and bragged about how he had fooled the police by making it appear that there were several burglary gangs. The rooming house was an added touch. It was normal to see a suitcase being carried in or out of a rooming house, and no one would pay any attention.

The other man had plans for disposing of the stolen articles in New York and Philadelphia. He was convicted of receiving stolen property and sent to prison for five years. Clauson was convicted of the burglaries and sentenced to 15 years.

Detective Williams soon explained why he had been positive that only one man was involved: all the cigarette butts found in the various burglarized homes were the same rare brand of cork tips.

The Secret of Growth

These amazing toy pets actually feed and start to grow as soon as you "lead" them to a plastic cup or glass of water. The secret is a new scientific process that releases a horticultural seed on a special absorbent porous material that starts the miracle of life and growth. No food or special care is required to grow your own animal circus and even give the little fellows "Haircuts" if you want. They are not available in stores as yet. You must order direct by mail, so DON'T DELAY, Be the first in your neighborhood to own these delightful little Growing Animals, and watch your friends and neighbors gasp with awe and wonder as they begin to grow bigger and bigger right before their very eyes.

Unbelievable! But it's true. Yes, a year and a half of scientific research has actually produced these delightful toy Growing Animals that will grow like mad right before your very eyes. Yes, grow faster and faster, bigger and bigger every day. Kids from 6 to 60 will be thrilled with excitement and delight, shriek with wild laughter as Ozzie the Ostrich grows his own full-feathered plume, Simba the Lion grows a long flowing mane. Smiley the Porcupine grows needles of hair, Sleepy the Hound Dog grows and droopy ears, and Scamper the Squirrel grows a big bushy tail. And they keep growing bigger and bigger for weeks and weeks of thrills and excitement.
